REVEALS HOW NAZIS SHOT 50

NEW DEAL PERIL TO U. S. LIBERTY, SAYS FLETCHER

Carries G. O. P. Fight to President.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—The Republican reply to President Roosevelt's speech of last Thursday—a reply which was a blasting denunciation of the New Deal—was delivered tonight by Henry P. Fletcher, new chairman of the Republican national committee.

Mr. Fletcher accused the Democratic administration of having acquired tremendous powers over industries, over agriculture and over business, and of using these powers, along with the influence spread by the doling out of billions of dollars of public funds, to promote the political strength of the New Deal.

Power and Cash Back of It.

"When we consider," said the Republican party chief, "the wide range of power and authority over industry and agriculture, and practically every form of individual and corporate activity which they have—when we realize the immense amount of money they have expended, and still have to expend, we can appreciate what they are doing to sell the New Deal to the American people or to impose it upon them.

"The opposition starts in this election with this handicap. That, however, is all the more reason why all citizens who sincerely believe the New Deal is a menace to the liberty and prosperity of our country should gird themselves for this fight.

"Any government which gets into its hands the accumulated savings of its people by their expenditure can create the illusion of prosperity and provide temporary jobs for the unemployed. But this is entirely artificial. It does not and cannot form a solid foundation on which to rebuild our economic structure."

Takes Fight to President.

Then Chairman Fletcher took the fight straight to the President—a show of courage which many of the more timid Republican orators have not often exhibited. Discussing the general questions asked of the people by the President last Thursday night, starting with "Are you better off?" Mr. Fletcher said:

"It may seem presumptuous for me to attempt to answer these questions, but I imagine that the average American citizen would answer them as follows:

"I am perhaps better off than last year, but when I see the vast sums expended and authorized to be expended by the government I ask myself will I be better off when the tax bill comes in, and how about my children and my children's children?

"My debts in so far as they have been assumed by the government, that is, by the whole people, are less burdensome to me, and in so far as the government has postponed them, they are also less heavy for the moment.

How Much Is Money Worth?

"My bank account, if any, is more secure, but I am not sure how much my money is going to be worth when I come to need it.

"My working conditions are as good as ever, if not indeed better, but I am not sure how long my work will last when the government stops making work.

"My faith in my own individual future is not more firmly guaranteed, because it no longer depends upon my own free efforts, but upon the regulatory schemes of the government burocracy.

"The President also asked if we have lost any of our rights or liberty or constitutional freedom of action and choice. I will let the tailor Maged answer that or the workers and owners of that mill in Tennessee, which the attorney general of the United States finds has not violated any law but which is compelled to shut down because Gen. Johnson has taken away from it a graven image, not mentioned or recognized by any law of the United States, but which by edict must be displayed to secure state and national government contracts."

Then for Bill of Rights.

The President had urged the people to read for themselves the bill of rights of the constitution and to decide whether "a single jot" of those assurances had been impaired under the New Deal.

"Now as to the bill of rights," declared Mr. Fletcher, "did or did not the newspapers of the country have to fight for the insertion of the first article of the bill of rights in their code? Ask Senator Borah and others who have tried to discuss the New Deal whether there has been freedom

NRA ORDERS BUS LINE TO REHIRE 15 MEN IT FIRED

Federal Board Rules Against Company.

The New Dealers' national labor board at Washington yesterday issued an ultimatum to the Chicago Motor Coach company directing that fifteen men discharged several months ago be reemployed within five days. The board held that the company in discharging the men had violated NRA provisions relating to free organization and collective bargaining of all employés.

The board also directed the company to "refrain from doing any and all acts interfering with, restraining or coercing its employés in their self-organization or from requiring its employés as a condition of employment not to join, organize or assist a labor organization of their own choosing."

Although the board's ruling did not state what action would follow if the company failed to comply with the order, it was stated in Washington that Gen. Hugh Johnson probably would be asked to remove the Blue Eagle insignia of the company, and the alleged NRA violations might be brought to the attention of the department of justice for action in the federal courts.

Ritchie Denies Violation.

John A. Ritchie, president of the motor coach company, from a bed in St. Joseph's hospital where he is recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident last week, announced that he was uncertain just what course the company would follow.

"I am sure of one thing, however," he said. "We did not violate section 7-A of the national industrial recovery act, the section relating to collective bargaining. Nor did we discharge any employés because of their union activities."

The coach company's attorney, James G. Condon, was injured in the same accident with Mr. Ritchie, it was explained, and consequently he too was unable to say what action the company would take in reference to the labor board order.

It was indicated, nevertheless, that the coach company would fight the order. Officials said that their first step would be a request for a ten day extension of the ultimatum.

History of Case.

Appeals to the regional and national labor boards in behalf of the discharged employés were taken by the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés, division 1032, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, which had attempted to solicit members among the coach company employés.

On April 5 the regional board held that the company was guilty of "discrimination, interference and coercion," directed at employés who were members of the Amalgamated union. The company union, known as the Chicago Motor Coach fraternity, was held to be company controled.

In its ruling the national board said: "Both the company and the fraternity press upon us that the by-laws of the fraternity set up a machinery for arbitration which constitutes a valid method of presenting grievances; that members of the complainant union participated in the annual election of the fraternity in 1934, and were overwhelmingly defeated; that a petition recently circulated and signed by over 95 per cent of the employés, exclusive of those in a supervisory capacity, expresses their complete satisfaction with the fraternity as an instrument for collective bargaining.

Board's Definition of Issue.

"The sole issue, however, is whether the company, either through its own officers or those of the fraternity acting under its direction or with its assistance and encouragement, has been guilty of interfering with its employés in the exercise of their right to join, organize, or assist a labor organization of their own choosing.

"On the record before us we are constrained to find that the company has violated obligations imposed upon it by Section 7-A."

START INQUIRY AFTER DEATH OF SEA TRAVELER

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Miss Ruth Morgan Eakin, 40, member of the California state board of education, died tonight in a New York hospital without regaining consciousness after she had been removed in a coma from the Dollar liner President Adams this afternoon. The cause of death could not be determined and the body was removed to the morgue for an autopsy. Symptoms indicated poisoning, Dr. Robert C. Fisher, assistant medical examiner, was informed.

Miss Eakin had been on a round the world cruise for her health with Miss Louise Nardin, former dean of women of the University of Wisconsin, and she had been despondent because of ill health, according to an aunt, Mrs. J. G. Tapper of Elgin, Ill., where Miss Eakin was born.

The medical examiner's office ordered the autopsy on being told that Miss Eakin had attempted suicide.

Mrs. Tapper said at Elgin that Miss Eakin had broken off the cruise at Shanghai because her condition had not improved and started directly back to the United States. She lived in Sacramento and had been a teacher of sociology in the California high schools.

25,000 OHIOANS TO WAGE WAR ON UNCLEAN FILMS

Columbus, O., July 2.—(AP)—Twenty-five thousand Ohioans oppose questionable movies, Dr. B. O. Skinner, head of the Ohio state board of film censors, announced today, and more are joining in the protest.

Dr. Skinner heads the censorship board by virtue of his post as state education director.

Before leaving tonight for a National Education association meeting in Washington, he said he already has petitions signed by 25,000 Ohioans asking "complete rejection of undesirable pictures."

Tends Baby in Office of 'Father'; Judge Says No

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Jeanne Delamar, former "Follies" girl, insisted on changing and feeding her 5 month old baby girl in the office of Hugh Satterlee, lawyer, who, she says, is the infant's father. Magistrate Brough today told Miss Delamar that sort of thing wasn't done and found her guilty of disorderly conduct.

Overdose of Sleeping Medicine Kills Dentist

Dr. John McKee, 52 years old, a dentist, of 7327 South Shore drive, died last night in the South Shore hospital from the effects of an overdose of sleeping medicine. His widow told police he had been taking the medicine regularly in recent weeks, and police said that death was probably accidental.

Mother Duck Rears Family on Lake Front

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A mother mallard duck who fancies Chicago as a summer resort may be seen daily with her brood of six 6 day old babies swimming about in the Chicago Yacht club harbor at the foot of Monroe street. Every night the father mallard, who goes adventuring during the day, returns and the family sleeps on one of the wooden buoys to which the yachts are attached.

The babies appear bold indeed, and the mother placid and contented until an effort is made by a yachtsman to come too close. The mother then snaps her bill together wildly and swims away in rapid circles, the little ones paddling off in close formation behind her protective bulk.

"The Happy Family."

At times they all come up almost to the shore. Yachtsmen in the club know them well and allude to them as "the happy family."

For many years wild ducks have found Lincoln park lagoons attractive and have made nests there, departing again in the fall. In some instances they have even wintered in the park, according to Floyd Young, director of the Lincoln Park zoo. Undoubtedly the mother mallard once was part of the Lincoln park colony, according to Mr. Young.

Nevertheless it is the first time in the memory of yacht club members that a pair of wild ducks have reared young on the lake front. The club's caretaker, Heine Theilmann, who when not caretaking is raising chickens at Lake Delavan, Wis., detailed the history of the duck family so far as is known.

"The couple came here a year ago last spring," he said. "Often birds stop here in the fall on their way south. I think that one of the couple must have been injured. They have been here ever since, not even leaving in winter."

Yachtsmen Provide Lunch.

"During the 28 days of incubation of the eggs, the mallard hen came here daily from her nest, wherever that was. She came at 12 o'clock sharp, when the crew on the Amata, owned by Ed Buker, fed her. Then she would swim away."

One day recently, Theilmann said, she made her appearance with the six infant ducks which were only one day old. It was a rough day, but the babies swam like veterans.

A. R. Blake, ornithologist of the Field museum, said that the young ducks probably will migrate in the fall, as their instincts overcome their temporary tameness. He suggested that if they could be caught and their wings clipped they would not migrate and thus would be spared from hunters' guns.

PET PARROT, 50, EXECUTED, BURIED WITH MISTRESS

Cincinnati, O., July 2.—[Special.]—A bright plumed pet parrot more than 50 years old was buried today at the foot of the grave of his mistress, Mrs. Bertha Robinson, 72, of Indianapolis. The bird was chloroformed according to instructions in her will and placed beside her in a satin lined coffin until the burial services were read.

The parrot, who answered to the usual name for his kind, "Polly," was given to Mrs. Robinson by her husband as a wedding present. The childless couple lavished unbounded affection on the creature and had taught it an extensive vocabularly of English and German.

Robinson died several years ago. His widow came to live with her sister, Mrs. Agnes Kelsch of Cincinnati, bringing "Polly" with her. Mrs. Robinson died Friday.

SLEEP WALKER, 15, FALLS FROM PORCH; MAY DIE

Walking in his sleep may prove fatal for Jack Mahoney, 15 years old, of 6219 South Carpenter street. While sleeping the boy wandered onto the rear porch of his second floor home and fell over the railing to the concrete sidewalk below. He was found by neighbors and taken to the Englewood hospital.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 2.—(AP)—The Tarrant County Baptist Ministers' association will not pray for rain to break Texas' drouth.

Executions Described by an Eyewitness

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, July 2.—Until close to 1 o'clock this [Monday] morning the old Lichterfelde school for cadets rang with shots of firing squads which were executing men accused of plotting against Chancellor Hitler. The death sentences were meted out by rapid fire courts martial.

Conservative estimates place the number of executions throughout Germany at 69, but unofficial estimates range up to 400 and higher. The number who met death in the Munich area alone is estimated at at least 120. One member of the Berlin firing squad said he helped to kill 50 men.

[A dispatch from Sigrid Schultz, chief of the Berlin bureau of The Tribune, says that the execution of only 13 plotters was admitted officially last night.]

Tells of Executions.

According to eyewitnesses, many of the men who crumpled up dead against the red brick wall of the school were true to the code of officers, trained under old Prussia's discipline. They loudly proclaimed their innocence. They refused to commit suicide. They refused to be blindfolded as they faced the firing squads.

Their protestations of innocence were so convincing that the young Black Hussars [Schutz Staffel] detailed as executioners were in veritable agony. Some of them were ready to throw their rifles away. Others wept. Others gritted their teeth, but they continued to carry on the grim task because they knew that a refusal to shoot would mean death for them.

When the firing ceased, the young Black Hussars, who are Hitler's personal body guard, did not feel like the avengers of justice, one young soldier said. Their faith in Nazism was bitterly shaken. One of the TRIBUNE correspondents interviewed the mother of one of the Hussars.

Helped to Shoot 50 Men.

"I helped to shoot 50 men tonight, and there wasn't one whom I believed guilty," he told his mother. "We swore loyalty to Chancellor Adolf Hitler, but these orders to shoot men who, until yesterday were played up to us as heroes, cannot help German unity."

From 7 o'clock in the evening until midnight this boy was with the firing squad at the old Lichterfelde school, which is now an ordinary barracks.

Another eyewitness is suffering from a nervous breakdown after yesterday's executions at Lichterfelde.

Strasser's Death Described.

The shooting of Gregor Strasser at Lichterfelde was admitted officially to have been the blackest hour for Hitler and his victorious friends.

Black Hussars, though loyal to Hitler, said they could not but believe Strasser's last proud words, in which he asserted fidelity to the Fatherland and to the true ideals of National Socialism. Throughout Germany his death started a tremendous wave of fear and distrust.

Kurt Daluege, chief of the east German Storm Troopers and successor to Karl Ernst, who was shot Saturday, presided at the blood tribunal at the Lichterfelde school. The number of those killed, after summary sentences were passed, was not made known, but the bulk of the Storm Troop leaders in the Berlin district are still in prison at Lichterfelde and at Columbia house, at the east end of Berlin, which is headquarters of the "field

GERMAN ARMY IN SADDLE; HITLER SHAKES CABINET

Ousts Papen, Friend of Hindenburg.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, July 2.—Summary executions of enemies of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's dictatorship were stopped shortly after midnight this morning, authorities declared tonight. How many were executed is still an official mystery.

Despite the repeated announcements that the list of casualties from the "punitive action" against mutineers in the Nazi ranks would be made public today, none was forthcoming. Officials, however, admitted that thirteen men were executed after court martial proceedings. They said seven of these faced firing squads on Saturday. A dozen more were killed "resisting arrest" or committed suicide, the officials added.

(Dispatches received from other Tribune correspondents in Germany place the number who faced the firing squads at from 69 to 400. Associated Press dispatches said hundreds were executed, reporting that sixty were shot down in Berlin alone.)

Cabinet Debates Action.

Chancellor Hitler's cabinet debated whether it should publish the list of the most prominent victims or a complete list of all individuals who lost their lives in the ruthless suppression of the stillborn revolution.

Among the dead acknowledged today is Commander Gerth, a naval officer. He became famous during the world war and was awarded the highest military decoration, Pour le Merite. This decoration has been received by only a very few Germans, including President Paul von Hindenburg and Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia and Hitler's right hand man in suppressing the revolt.

Officials assert that all executed "traitors" were found guilty by a court martial with a Black Hussar officer presiding and a reichswehr [regular army] officer, two legal experts, and one Hitler guard sitting in judgment. Each trial lasted an average of seven minutes, but authorities contend that the evidence on hand was sufficient to warant immediate execution.

Von Papen Guarded in Home.

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, ardent Catholic and intimate friend and protégé of President Paul von Hindenburg, who was arrested on Hitler's order, is said to be held at his home merely for protection.

Von Hindenburg, in a message from his summer retreat at Neudeck, East Prussia, today warned Hitler that the vice chancellor must not be harmed.

The 86 year old president came to Von Papen's rescue by making the army directly responsible for his safety. Soon after von Hindenburg's gruff warning, the government sent a group of Hitler's black-shirted bodyguards to von Papen's residence apparently to insure his safety from possible attack by hot bloods.

Claim Vice Chancellor is Free.

Close associates of the vice chancellor, who came into disfavor for criticising the Nazi régime, tonight insisted that he is free to come and go. They said officers who had been assigned to keep him under surveillance had been removed.

"The vice chancellor is perfectly well," his friends said.

This revelation was followed by a statement from the ministry of propaganda that it had been definitely established that von Papen had no connection with the rebellion which led to the execution of one of his adjutants and the suicide of another, and the arrest of many of his friends. The cabinet is expected to clear him tomorrow.

Von Papen to Resign Today.

Nevertheless, Von Papen will resign, partly in protest against the execution of his adjutant, Dr. Herbert von Bose. Herr von Tschirsky, another adjutant, killed himself.

It is anticipated that Hitler will elevate Goering to the vice chancellorship.

Most members of Von Papen's staf have been released. Fräulein von Stotzingen, his private secretary, is still a prisoner. The released individuals announced they were well treated. They were especially elated that they were allowed to order whatever food they desired while imprisoned.

Ex-Crown Prince in Berlin.

Former Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm returned to the capital from Oels tonight. According to the prince's friends, his adjutant, Maj. Mueldner von Mueilmheim, has been executed.

They said the major was shot after he had been arrested on charges of participating in the plot with Capt. Ernst Roehm, supreme commander of the Storm Troops, and Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, former chancellor, to overthrow Hitler. Capt. Roehm was executed on Saturday by a firing squad on Hitler's order, and Von Schleicher and his wife were killed when police raided their residence.

Hindenburg Congratulates Hitler.

Reports that President von Hindenburg is planning to resign "at once" are countered by the wide publication of his messages of thanks and congratulations to Hitler and Goering for crushing the revolt. His telegram to the chancellor said: "From reports made to me, I perceive that you have stifled all treasonable activities at their birth through your decisive action and the courageous intervention of your own person. You have saved the German nation from a great peril. For this, I express to you my deepest thanks, and sincere recognition."

This language was regarded as quite florid.

The president's thanks to Goering, who conducted the raids against Hitler's enemies in Berlin, was worded more briefly. It began:

"I express to you my thanks and recognition for your energetic and successful action in the suppression of a treasonable attempt."

But it concludes as follows: "With comradely greetings." These words are regarded as placing the Prussian premier on the same footing as the field marshal.

Carries Message to Berlin.

In addition to these published messages, Von Hindenburg is reported to have transmitted a further communication which will be submitted to the cabinet tomorrow. This was brought personally from Neudeck to Berlin by Dr. Otto Meissner, the secretary of state for the president.

Chancellor Hitler plans to call the reichstag together next month to present the "new" Nazi program to his hand picked parliament. He will demand the reichstag's vote of approval for the new course his government plans to sail.

As matters stand now, Hitler and Goering, Von Hindenburg, and the army are in full control of the nation. The army succeeded in strengthening its position greatly by enforcing a drastic reduction in Hitler's private army of Storm Troops, taking over its arms and supervising its reorganization.

Most of the Nazi party leaders assembled at the chancellery today to hear Hitler's private report of the bloody events. They were instructed to formulate a campaign designed to make the people forget the blood shed over the week-end.

"Concentrate on the reconstruction of the Fatherland," the chancellor ordered.

Tell of His Anguish.

Hitler's friends declare he has been in anguish the last three weeks while making up his mind as to what to do with his close friends, the executed Capt. Roehm and Gregor Strasser, a founder of the Nazi party, who turned traitor.

Meanwhile, reports and documents were piled a foot high on the chancellor's desk. He refused to attend to any matters on which his lieutenants wanted decisions.

Now that the die has been cast, he has again resumed his routine tasks.

It was announced today that at tomorrow's cabinet session a whole barrage of new laws will be laid down for Germany to show the people that the country is being reorganized. Some of these new laws deal with the economic situation, providing for retaliatory measures against countries which boycott German goods.

There is also talk of a reduction in the pensions of war veterans, which the Hitlerites, together with the army, might be able to enforce. But Hitler, as well as Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense, do not want to make the cuts unless it is absolutely necessary.

Industrialists May Quit Guild.

Although official circles insist that the big industrialists still support Chancellor Hitler, business circles continue to assert that Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, general director of the Krupp works, and other industrial magnates are preparing to resign from the Nazi industrial guild. This would greatly complicate the economic situation.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, extended his thanks to the German press today for "the discipline evidenced by the newspapers in connection with the Roehm revolt."

Meanwhile a warning to state officials was issued by Dr. Wilhelm Frick, minister of interior. He said: "Although no act of sabotage is known to me in the ranks of officials accustomed to the fulfillment of duty and obedience, yet I desire to leave no doubt that I will deal firmly with any attempt at disobedience or any effort to sabotage the great work of our leader. Every executive must see to it that his employés continue to fulfill their duties. If necessary, facts must be communicated to me through the usual channels."

HOHENZOLLERNS CLEARED

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, July 2.—Both former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm and his brother, Prince August Wilhelm, have been officially absolved, it was revealed today, of any complicity in the attempted revolt against Chancellor Hitler's régime.

Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, had a long conversation yesterday with Prince August Wilhelm, who has been a Storm Troop leader. At the conclusion of the talk, the Prussian premier was thoroughly satisfied that the former Kaiser's son had no part whatever in the attempted uprising.

Goering also had a thorough investigation made of the recent activities of the crown prince, who returned to Berlin today from Oels, and the result was that Friedrich Wilhelm was thoroughly absolved.

To the man in the street this was the bluest blue Monday in Berlin in many a day.

Police marched by twos, with rifles slung on their shoulders. They were ready for emergency duty, but meanwhile they kept the people moving—always moving.

There were reports in Berlin of street fighting in other cities in the reich, but the authorities stated these were without foundation and there was "perfect order" everywhere.

Resent Catholic Leader's Death.

The fact Dr. Eric Klausener, leader of the Catholic Action organization, was one of those executed in the "purging" Saturday appeared to stand in the way of putting into effect immediately the interpretations of the German-Vatican concordat agreed upon Friday night.

While the religious controversy was relegated to a secondary issue by the bloody smashing of Hitler's opposition, the killing of Klausener was deeply resented in high Catholic circles. Many priests announced the death from their pulpits.

The reason given for the execution of the Catholic leader, who for years was one of Germany's most prominent churchmen, was understood to be that he was slated to be minister of transportation in the government the rebels planned to set up.

(Prelates at Vatican City branded as "absurd" any charge that Klausener was involved in a political uprising. Only a few days ago, they pointed out, he affirmed in the name of Catholics their faith in religion and their devotion to their country.)

Catholic Community Aroused.

The whole Catholic community, especially the Youth organizations, was deeply aroused over the execution, but there was no sign that resentment might be strong enough to cause an open outbreak under the present conditions.

The German press, bearing the imprint of Hitler's strong hand, hammered away at the idea that it's all over now and that Germany is once more breathing pure air after the removal of polluted characters.

The newspapers made no effort to account for the extraordinary upsetting of the German world, which made villains—dead villains, at that—of men who a few weeks ago were worshiped in print, even as Hitler and his present aids are today.

All comments centered on the personality and strength of Hitler.

"He is the best judge of men and affairs which our race has produced since the world war," said Goebbels' newspaper Angriff.

Says World Admires Hitler.

"His quietly awaiting the opportune moment, then striking hard, is admired by the whole world, which now knows why we call him 'fuehrer' (leader)," added the newspaper.

"Now we have awakened from a bad dream," said Der Deutsche, admitting that the foreign press had been publishing reports that trouble was imminent, while in Germany such predictions were ridiculed.

"The campaign against grousers and croakers has ended," said the Industrial Allgemeine Zeitung. "All is set now for a happy future."

Vigorous efforts are being made to assure the Hitler Youth organization that all is well and to mass the support of the boys behind Hitler.

In a message to leaders of the organization, Baldur von Schirach, national leader, called on them to "oppose all attempts to sabotage national socialism even when the men involved are Storm Troop leaders."

Most of the members of the Hitler Youth are too young to understand the full significance of present events, but manifest their curiosity by their presence among the crowds around newspaper stands.

Press Bureau Abolished.

The press department of the powerful Storm Troop organization has been abolished, it was announced tonight by the Nazi press headquarters.

Dissolution of the Storm Troop organization's own press department was regarded an important step toward emasculation of the once proud, semi-military association.

It was the Storm Troop press department which made such vociferous demands for the dissolution of the Steel Helmets even after Hitler had given orders that attacks on the war veterans' organization should cease.

Execution of 50 by Nazis Described by Eyewitness police," most ruthless of all police groups in Berlin.

Buried in Common Grave.

It is said that a common grave was hurriedly dug at Lichterfelde for the victims of the executions which were carried out Saturday and Sunday.

At Munich, too, a common grave was dug. Munich guards, who came to Berlin today, told how little Karl Ernst, snappiest of Capt. Ernst Roehm's officers, turned to his accusers after shrieking out his innocence, and shouted:

"You are all insane—this is utter insanity and will start torrents of blood."

Then he fainted.

The executioners had to shake him back to consciousness to carry out their job.

VON SCHLEICHER'S DEATH

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 2.—This is an eyewitness story of how Gen. Kurt von Schleicher and his wife died. The story does not conflict with the official statement as to the death of the Von Schleichers because no details concerning his death have been vouchsafed nor are inquirers on this point encouraged. If it is deemed incompatible with the official statement that Von Schleicher and his wife were killed by criminal police in pursuance of their duty because the former was believed to be "attempting to resist arrest," it may be that the observer did not see everything.

It was certainly a very swift proceeding.

Kurt von Schleicher, retired army general and chancellor of the German reich preceding Hilter, lived with his second wife in a commodious but not especially pretentious house in a side street of Neu Babelsburg, the Hollywood of Berlin, between Potsdam and the lake resort of Wannssee.

Fire Without Warning.

On Saturday afternoon an open motor car without any insignia drove up to the Schleicher home. In the car were six men to all outward appearance unarmed, all in civilian attire. One of the men in it leaped out and opened the Schleicher gate and the car backed swiftly into the driveway. Some one in it asked a servant for Gen. and Frau Schleicher. They were then awaiting luncheon and came together out of the side door on to the portico. The man who had left the car meantime had reentered it.

A moment after the couple appeared in the driveway a volley of revolver shots came from the car. It was literally a hail of bullets, under which the former chancellor sank to the ground, dead. His wife, terribly wounded, was unconscious. No word from either had been heard, nor strangely enough from the men in the car.

Without any of the men descending from it and apparently without any attempt to examine the bodies to verify death or explain what it all meant, the car backed into the street again and sped in the direction of Berlin. Its engine had been kept running.

"Attempting to Resist Arrest."

Horrified servants lifted the dead general and his unconscious wife and carried them into the house. Neighbors, believing the couple to have been the victims of gangsters, called for an emergency squad of police, who removed Frau Schleicher to a hospital. She died there two hours later.

The regular police quickly appeared to keep order, but took no further action. Then gradually the mystery was explained. It had been an execution under the law "while attempting to resist arrest."

In the neighborhood this is agreed to be quite inexplicable, because Gen. von Schleicher was not known to be carrying weapons nor were any found upon him when he was undressed to prepare his body for burial. He was 50 years old and his wife somewhat younger. They were married four years ago.

The couple will be buried together on Wednesday in a cemetery not far from their home. They will have a funeral restricted to their family and close friends.

RUSSIA PREDICTS NAZI 'MURDERS' WILL CAUSE MANY TO JOIN REDS

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., July 2.—(AP)—The leading communist organ, Pravda, predicted today that the small bourgeoisie in Germany, which it said has been deceived by Hitler and the Fascist program, will be disillusioned by the "murders" of June 30 and join communist leaders.

"Hitler is now dancing on the heads of his oldest adherents," the Pravda editorial said. "But Hitler is not Julius Caesar and Germany is not the old Roman empire.

"The events of June 30 would have been more appropriate for Ecuador, but Germany is not Ecuador, and these murders will not pass without their effect."

Although Hitler has isolated the group of Ernst Roehm, late minister without portfolio and Storm Troop commander, Pravda says, there are millions of Storm Troops "who can neither be exterminated nor fooled any longer."

PLEADS FOR U. S. PUBLIC PROTEST AGAINST NAZIS

More Terror Is Feared by Prussian Ex-Minister.

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—An appeal for moral intervention by the world and particularly by American public opinion against the continuance of the Nazi régime in Germany was made today by Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld, former Prussian minister of justice. He testified as a witness before an inquiry commission, constituted as the American branch of the Lord Marley committee to gather evidence and hear testimony on various aspects of the Nazi régime. Its chairman is Clarence Darrow of Chicago.

Replying to a request by Arthur Garfield Hays, a member of the commission, for his opinion on the present reign of terror in Germany, Dr. Rosenfeld said:

"I fear that if the present rulers of Germany remain in power much longer we will witness even a greater reign of terror, unless the entire world, and particularly American public opinion raise their voice in protest."

Fled from Germany.

Noted as the defender in the German courts of many political prisoners, including Ernst Torgler, communist leader who was acquitted in the Reichstag fire trial, Dr. Rosenfeld, a leader of the Socialist party, said he had fled from Germany after the Hitler counter revolution. He told of the condition of the German courts and justice under the Hitler régime.

He said there were 6,000 prisoners in Germany now awaiting trial for opposition to Hitler in the new people's courts established to try political offenders. In addition, he said, there were some 165,000 persons of all shades of political opinion in concentration camps. He described justice under Hitler as "nothing more than a condition of arbitrary lawlessness."

Dr. Rosenfeld pointed out that there is absolutely no chance of defense or acquittal for an innocent man before the people's courts today. The courts, consisting entirely of Nazis, were ordered established as a result of the action of the Leipzig Supreme court in acquitting the communist defendants in the reichstag fire trial, Dr. Rosenfeld said.

Visits La Guardia.

During the luncheon recess the commission paid a visit to Mayor F. H. La Guardia at city hall, and while there Darrow, mild, soft spoken pacifist, expressed the hope that Chancellor Hitler would be killed.

"If there are any more murders tomorrow I hope it will end in the killing of Hitler," he said. "I think Hitler is a very dangerous man and should be destroyed."

Other members of the commission who called on the mayor with Mr. Darrow were George Z. Medalie, former United States attorney; Dudley Field Malone, former collector of the port; Hays, Senator Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Col.], Stanley High, and Raymond L. Wise.

The commission will resume its hearings tomorrow. Only eye witnesses of the situation in Germany will be heard, among them members of the German university in exile maintained by the new school for social research.

SPAIN CONFIRMS REPORT NAVY IS OFF CATALONIA

MADRID, July 2.—(AP)—Reports from Alicante today tended to corroborate Gibraltar dispatches to the effect that the Spanish navy is concentrating at Valencia. All efforts to obtain official confirmation of this move as a preparation for possible difficulties in Catalonia proved futile.

Four destroyers and one cruiser docked at Alicante were under steam to return to their base at Cartagena when counter-orders were received causing them to turn north instead of south.

The report persisted that the vessels were ordered to Valencia there to await further instructions.

TRIAL OF COUPLE MARRIED IN THE NUDE IS DELAYED

Charges of participating in an indecent exhibition brought by a divinity student against Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wallace, 230 East Erie street, who received publicity after their "wedding" in the nude at a World's Fair concession last Friday, were continued to July 6 yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli in the South State street court. The complainant, James Patterson, and his attorney, Mary Belle Spencer, who was engaged in another case, did not appear.

Attorney Sidney Drebin insisted that the couple were sincere in the nude ceremony and "wanted to go back to Adam and Eve."

ASSERTS BLOODSHED IS JUST BEGINNING IN GERMAN REVOLT

Bloodshed in Germany has only just begun, Robert Stearnes, a German born American who returned to Chicago recently from his native country, told a meeting of the Chicago division of the American Jewish congress last night in the Covenant club. For the last five years Mr. Stearnes has conducted an importing business in Germany.

"The people there don't know what's going on," he declared. "They may be told that twelve or fifteen Nazi leaders have been executed, but they won't know all. They are afraid to do anything. No one wants to take a chance when Hitler is willing to kill anybody.

"For the moment Hitler's position in Germany is strengthened. To a certain extent Hitler has the army behind him. He would never have had men like Capt. Ernst Roehm shot if the army hadn't been behind him."

Mr. Stearnes described the ill treatment of prisoners in German concentration camps. He urged that Jewish refugees be given jobs in Jewish business houses in this country and that the boycott against the Nazis be continued.

IMMEDIATE LOAN TO BE REQUESTED BY SCHOOL BOARD

A resolution authorizing the board of education to apply to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for the loan of $25,447,240 with which to pay up seven months of back salaries due to June 1 of this year was adopted yesterday by the school board.

The way is clear now for a formal application to the RFC for the money. Richard S. Folsom, board attorney, who has been pushing the legal steps for the money, indicated yesterday he will go to Washington this week to apply for the money. Officials have indicated they will not wait for the Illinois Supreme court decision regarding the right of the board of education to issue $28,000,000 in working cash fund bonds to put up as collateral.

Bolstered up by the interpretation of Congressman A. J. Sabath that the measure authorizing teachers' loans requires any "adequate" security, the school board attorneys will offer 607 parcels of real estate worth $30,000,000 as collateral. If the bonds are pronounced valid by the state court they will be proffered also as additional security.

FINANCE SCANDAL FORCES JAPANESE CABINET TO QUIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 3.—[Tuesday.]—Premier Makoto Saito went to the emperor's palace this afternoon and tendered the resignation of his cabinet. In view of the recent scandal in the finance department involving Vice Minister Kuroda, the mikado is expected to accept the resignation, and dispatch an imperial messenger to Odawara, a summer resort, to consult with Prince Kimmochi Saionji, last of the genro, or elder statesmen.

As Prince Saionji is ill and is being moved from Okitsu to Odawara today, it is likely that he will be unable to tender advice until later in the week. Premier Saito consequently is expected to carry on until then.

It is likely that Saito will be asked to form a new ministry. Count Keigo Kiyoura, conservative and nonpartisan ex-premier, Gen. Kazunari Ugaki, former minister of war, Baron Kilchiro Hiranuma and Kisaburo Suzuki, head of the Seiyukai party, also are mentioned as candidates for the premiership.

AUSTRIA VOICES HOPE GERMANY WILL END FEUD

"No Reason for Uneasiness," Nation Is Told.

VIENNA, July 2.—(AP)—Minister of Security Emil Fey published a signed editorial in his newspaper tonight expressing hope that one outcome of the German development will be early restoration of friendly relations with Austria.

"Whatever happens in Germany," said Fey, a leading figure in crushing the Austrian Socialist revolt last February, "ample provision will be made for security of further developments here in Austria. So there is no reason for uneasiness."

Calls Executions "Murder."

Both Fey's paper and other Viennese newspapers nevertheless continued to express uneasiness over Germany.

Fey's Abend Zeitung describes the shooting of Storm Troop leaders, without a regular treason trial, as common murder.

"This murder will beget more murders," the paper said. "Whoever sows murder and exercises strong arm rule will reap murder and strong arm rule.

"Hitler and Goering have not prevented civil war; they have begun one."

The official Wiener Zeitung generally expressed the opinion that Germany was following the footsteps of the French revolution of 1789.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

ROME, July 2.—While apprehension in Italian quarters over the German situation continued to decrease today, the Vatican was still fearful of the possible reaction of the recent events on German Catholics.

The uncertain position of Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, coupled with the death of at least one prominent Catholic leader, indicates in the Holy See's opinion that the German government may attempt to exploit the psychological situation now existing in Germany to push home severe restrictive measures against Catholics.

The Vatican's fears are founded on the execution of Dr. Eric Klausener, president of the Berlin Catholic Action organization. A semi-official statement issued at the Vatican said Dr. Klausener had participated in the last few days in the Berlin Catholic congress, having delivered the closing speech reaffirming the faithfulness of German Catholics to their religion and their country.

Cardinal Pacelli Talks to Nuncios.

It is understandable, the statement concluded, that he may have had powerful political enemies, as he had filled the post of police director in the Prussian cabinet headed by Karl Severing.

Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, acting on the pope's instruction, repeatedly spoke by telephone to the apostolic nuncios in Berlin and Munich. The information he received was regarded as somewhat more hopeful at the Vatican as both nuncios had reported there was evidence that the attempt to implicate German Catholics, particularly leaders of the German Catholic Action group, in the events of last Saturday might be abandoned.

This was interpreted by the Vatican as evidence that it was now recognized in Berlin that the attempt to regard German Catholics as responsible even in part for the anti-Hitler plot was entirely absurd. The situation, nevertheless, is still considered extremely delicate.

PICTURE ALL-NAZI GOVERNMENT TAKING THE MIDDLE ROAD

BERLIN, July 2.—(AP)—Well informed observers tonight pictured a Nazi cabinet which will take the middle road as likely to be the final outcome of the present crisis. The cabinet, these authorities say, will be all Nazi, but more conservative because of the elimination of so many hot bloods in the week-end executions.

But it will not be conservative, and will be uncompromisingly anti-monarchical, those in touch with Chancellor Hitler's plans believe. Hitler, according to one report, intends to succeed President Paul von Hinbenburg when the aged executive dies, thus concentrating power in his hands and eliminating any possible clash involving the army.

The report persists that Hitler is trying to trade his rather disorganized Storm Troopers for a larger regular army. He is said to have hopes that other nations will consent to an army of 300,000 men if the uniformed groups are reduced or abandoned.

URGENT 'DUTIES' CALL CUMMINGS TO COOL HAWAII

Wife Will Accompany Him on Junket.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—To the long list of New Deal chieftains who are finding a sweltering Washington summer excellent for junketing about at the taxpayers' expense was added today the name of Homer S. Cummings, the attorney general.

ATTY. GEN. CUMMINGS.

On the shores of cool Hawaii, Mr. Cummings announced, certain "business" suddenly is demanding his personal attention. He is preparing to answer the call in the same spirit of sacrifice that already has taken Mr. Farley, the postmaster general; Prof. Tugwell, the undersecretary of agriculture, and others of the New Deal high command on "business" trips to climes less torrid than the capital's.

Takes Wife Along.

Mr. Cummings' little jaunt across the Pacific, however, will be unique among the junkets of the New Dealers. For he is taking Mrs. Cummings along with him—to make certain, presumably, that the pressing legal matters down in Honolulu are properly disposed of.

To insure further that the "business" which calls him so urgently is competently dealt with, Mr. Cummings also is taking with him Mr. Harry W. Blair, the assistant attorney general. And to make it just a pleasant foursome on this "business trip" Mrs. Blair is going along, too.

Now the nature of the "business" which calls so urgently for the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Cummings and Mr. and Mrs. Blair was somewhat vague to those who read the official department of justice announcement of the attorney general's forthcoming departure from the capital.

Here's the "Business."

"The visit to Hawaii will be in connection with certain land condemnation proceedings pending in the islands and in connection with other legal matters of the department requiring attention there," the department explained. Later this statement was amplified to disclose that Mr. Cummings feels it necessary to deal at first hand with certain complex legal problems involving the government's attempt to abolish private fishing rights in the waters of Pearl Harbor.

It took quite some time for officials of the justice department to learn, in response to an inquiry, whether Mr. Cummings will travel at federal expense. Finally it was said that he has not yet decided whether to bill the treasury for his journey or to foot the bill himself. But it was pointed out with care that since he would be on government business the entire time he probably will call upon Uncle Sam. Mr. Blair, it was understood, will receive the regular $5 a day travel allowance granted federal officials on business trips throughout the country. Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Blair must pay their own way, naturally.

Announcement of the attorney general's junket climaxed a series of recently past and immediately prospective emigrations of high New Dealers from the sizzling capital.

Farley Busy Dedicating.

Postmaster General Farley is today in Herkimer, N. Y., busy with his postoffice dedicating and with an occasional good word here and there for the New Deal. Just last week Mr. Farley's ability to dedicate new postoffices with the master's touch took him up to Windsor, Ont., where the Canadian government has just put up a new edifice and needed an expert dedicator. Shortly, Mr. Farley is starting a dedicating and speaking tour to the west coast.

Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, recently raised from assistant to undersecretary of agriculture, also is abroad, north of the Mason-Dixon line. His primarily is an inspection trip, with a speech here and there anent the New Deal. By now he probably is in Oregon, scheduled to swing down the Pacific coast before he returns to his desk.

Next week, unless present plans fall through, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, czar of the NRA, will sally forth on a mission of New Deal gospel preaching, probably through the midwest.

Lesser Lights Busy.

Lesser figures in the New Deal are also barging busily about on their $5 a day from the treasury. Donald Richberg, NRA counsel, is one of the most frequent emigrants from Washington. J. F. Cox, chief of the replacement crops section of the AAA, is one of many farm administration experts recently to return from speechmaking missions, and Dr. Fred C. Howe, AAA consumers' counsel, is slated to speak tomorrow at Chautauqua, N. Y.

Mrs. Roosevelt, on Trip, Declines Police Escort

Charleston, W. Va., July 2.—[Special.] — Hatless and smiling, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today refused a state police escort through this city and departed in the direction of Logan, W. Va., mining center and for Tennessee. She was accompanied by Miss Marian Dickerman and Miss Nancy Cook. She drove here from Fairmont and declined to discuss her trip, which she said was for "pleasure only."

Wife Identifies Clothing Found on Shore of Lake

Clothing found on the rocks at the foot of East 55th street Sunday night were identified yesterday as belonging to John H. P. Smith, 57 years old, 5907 Ingleside avenue, connected with a Chicago lumber company. Mr. Smith's wife told police her husband had been in the habit of swimming in Lake Michigan at night and she expressed the belief that he had ventured out too far in the dark and had suffered a heart attack.

NRA UPHELD ON HARRIMAN MILL BY CUMMINGS

Writes Gen. Johnson on Removing Eagle.

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings today formally upheld NRA's withdrawal of the Blue Eagle from the Harriman [Tenn.] Hosiery mills.

"It is entirely conceivable," Cummings wrote Hugh S. Johnson, "that proper ground might exist for the withdrawal of the Blue Eagle even though no ground existed or facts are available for presentation to a court in sufficiently definite form to justify a criminal prosecution."

Writes to Johnson.

Cummings' ruling was given in a letter to Johnson. After the attorney general's decision that available evidence did not warant legal prosecution of the shut down hosiery mills, Johnson wrote Cummings:

"This is to ask whether your opinion in this requires me to restore the Blue Eagle. I will, of course, consider myself bound by your answer to this question."

Cummings replied:

"To answer categorically your question, the conclusion reached by the department of justice with regard to the suggested criminal prosecution does not require you to restore the Blue Eagle."

NRA Issues Statement.

The NRA statement, making public the Cummings letter further said:

"The Harriman company persists in its determination to remain closed, throwing more than 600 employés out of work, rather than agree to two of 14 points, acceptance of which would result in immediate restoration of its Blue Eagle.

"Although it insists that none of the employés engaged to replace strikers were recruited from a distance of 25 miles or more from Harriman, Tenn., the company declines to permit an NRA auditor to check the records to establish this fact.

"Likewise, the company has flatly refused to spread work among residents of Harriman by adjustments in cases where new employés, added since the strike, constitute more than one wage earner in a family group while old employés and their families have been compelled to seek government or state relief."

HOPKINS WILL GO TO EUROPE FOR VACATION JAUNT

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, who has been so busy lately he hasn't had time to get his hair cut, began his vacation today by deftly punting out of his office window a series of questions asked him by newspapermen.

'Have a heart," he pleaded. "It's too hot to go into that, and besides I'm leaving for New York in half an hour."

It developed Mr. Roosevelt is sending his relief administrator abroad. Hopkins will combine travel abroad with a study of social insurance and housing laws in several European countries in preparation for legislation next session.

But he frankly told his interrogators he was going on a "vacation." He said he was going at government expense.

Swindler of Job Seekers Gets Two Years in Jail

Benjamin Rosenberg, 39 years old, 1334 Estes avenue, was sentenced to two years in the Bridewell yesterday when he pleaded guilty before Judge Alfred O. Erickson in Felony court to obtaining money under false pretenses. Rosenberg advertised for laundry employés, telling them he intended to open a laundry. He had applicants post sums ranging from $25 to $200 to pay for bonding them as his employés. He kept the money and did not open a laundry.

Consider Permit System for Beer Wholesalers

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—At their own request, beer wholesalers probably will be placed under a government permit system, director Joseph H. Choate Jr., of the federal alcohol administration said tonight. There are approximately 12,000 beer wholesale dealers. They have complained everyone from taxi cab drivers to lawyers have taken up the business and then dropped out through "close out" sales.

Take Eagle from a Box Factory in Southern Illinois

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—NRA today ordered the Dongola Box company of Dongola, Ill., to surrender its Blue Eagle to the local postmaster. The firm was found to have violated wage and hours provisions of its industry's code.

PRESIDENT TAKES IT EASY AS CRUISER SPEEDS SOUTHWARD

Aboard the U. S. S. Gilmer, accompanying President Roosevelt, July 2. —(AP)—President Roosevelt rode the blue waters of the Atlantic tonight well along on his way to Porto Rico, the Panama canal and the Pacific. A fast run today put him ahead of schedule, and tonight the cruiser Houston was off the South Carolina coast.

The President went on deck to enjoy the bright sunshine and air as the warship plowed through the waves at 18 to 20 knots. From Hampton Roads it was comparatively calm, but the tricky waters around Cape Hatteras lived up to their reputation and tossed trailing destroyers into rolls and pitches.

The President was awakened this morning with the firing of the 21 gun presidential salute by the Houston. The salute was given today because he was piped aboard last night at Annapolis after sundown.

Constant communication with the White House was maintained by wireless during the day, but there was no evidence of much business after last week's busy time of clearing up state affairs. The President took it easy most of the day, reading and resting and basking in the sun.

NRA OFFICIALS STILL AWAITING LETTER OF FORD

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—The war department will advertise for bids on approximately 7,500 motor trucks and cars during the next month to complete motorization of the army.

This became known today at the same time as NRA officials looked to Henry Ford, a prospective large bidder, for the signing of a letter of compliance to make him eligible.

Advertisments for bids on army trucks have been held up for nearly five months by legal, political and technical snarls, but disposition of several controversial points by the house military affairs subcommittee and decisions by the controller general have now cleared the way for the awarding of all contracts under the $10,000,000 allotment from public works funds.

Despite Hugh S. Johnson's statement that a letter of compliance received by a local dealer from the Ford Motor company had been acknowledged as authentic by Ford's secretary, William Cameron, NRA was without word that the letter would be signed.

Signing by a responsible official was the step needed to restore Ford as an acceptable bidder on millions in a variety of government contracts.

DILLINGER SEEN IN NEW ENGLAND, POLICE REPORT

Boston, Mass., July 3 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The Massachusetts state police early today notified all patrols and barracks that the much sought bandit, John Dillinger, had been in Whitinsville and had been "positively identified" by a gas station attendant.

The state police message said Chief of Police Cullen of Whitinsville had informed them of the "positive identification."

Chief Cullen informed them, state officers said, that "Dillinger" was traveling in a light sedan with Michigan plates and that he kept his face "averted" while in the Whitinsville filling station, where he stopped for gasoline.

According to Cullen, the gas station man was struck by the similarity of the stranger and Dillinger and notified police. Allen made the "positive identification" after being shown a police circular by Cullen.

Two Toreadors Fail to Go to Court; Bonds Forfeited

Two toreadors, who were arrested at the "first Chicago bullfight" at a concession in Riverview park Saturday night, failed to appear in the town hall police court yesterday to answer charges of bull baiting in violation of a city ordinance. Forfeiting their $50 bonds, Judge Erwin J. Hasten told police to rearrest the defendants, Alfred Velasco, 30 years old, 847 South Ashland avenue, and Robert Angulo.

ROOT DEMANDS VOTE BY PEOPLE OVER NEW DEAL

Writes Preface to the Hamilton Papers.

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Predicting that efforts will be made to make permanent some of the broad powers of government exercised during the period of emergency, Elihu Root urges that the question of whether the American people are willing to subject themselves permanently to such government control should be "considered maturely" by the whole electorate. That proposal is made in a foreword to a new volume of the writings of Alexander Hamilton, just published by the Columbia University press.

ELIHU ROOT.

Mr. Root points to the example of Hamilton, saying that the principles he expounded are applicable today.

Will Discuss New Deal.

"The United States is at the threshold of a very serious discussion upon matters materially affecting our system of government and our social organization," Mr. Root wrote. "For the avowed purpose of dealing with an emergency many powers have been assumed and exercised by our government which the people of the country had never thought of granting.

"The people generally, however, have felt that an emergency did exist, in the stagnation of business and in the lack of employment for millions of workers of all kinds, and they have strongly desired the success of the administration in its efforts to produce activity in business, general improvement, and renewed prosperity; and although many Americans have doubted the wisdom or the authority of some of the things that have been done, there has been a general unwillingness to undertake active opposition to particular acts lest such opposition might tend to retard or to show lack of sympathy with the special efforts the administration was making.

Emergency Powers Stretched.

"It has now become evident that there will be a strong effort, both in and out of office, to continue beyond the period of emergency and make permanent some broad powers of government which have been exercised heretofore upon no claim of justification except as temporary expedients to meet the emergency.

"Many of these powers affect materially the scope of individual liberty, especially in business, the obligation of contracts, and the security of property, as well against government as against other individuals.

"The question whether the American people are willing to include in their permanent system a grant of such powers and to subject themselves permanently to such governmental control, has never been really considered or discussed. It certainly should be discussed thoroughly and considered maturely by the whole electorate, for it is of vital importance.

Not Question of Party.

"It is no party matter. It is not to be determined solely or chiefly by immediate effects. Our future social organization and the permanence of our national union may well be at stake, for the proposal appears to involve an abandonment of limitations on official power which, rightly or wrongly, we have considered essential to our free government."

INSULL RAISES SHOTGUN PLEA IN COURT FIGHT

Assails U.S.; Denies Guilt in Mail Fraud Case.

Samuel Insull, having lost his plea to escape trial because the United States shanghaied him from Turkey, complained yesterday that the government is fighting him with a "shotgun."

The shotgun plea was raised in Insull's arguments for a bill of particulars, after he had entered a formal plea of not guilty to an indictment charging him and sixteen others with using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson took the motions for bills of particulars, on behalf of Insull and the co-defendants, under advisement, and said he would rule next Monday.

Attack "Shotgun Clause."

Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, counsel for Insull, and the other defense lawyers referred repeatedly to the so-called "shotgun clause" in the indictment and called it a general catch-all under which the government might seek to prove anything not elsewhere alleged. Such a blast, they contended, leaves the defendants defenseless, because they cannot see what's coming and might be taken by surprise during the trial.

In the course of arguments lasting three hours, during which opposing counsel charged each other with all manner of chicanery and pettifoggery, United States Attorney Dwight H. Green denied the government was using a shotgun and that the defendants were in danger of being surprised.

The defendant Insull, pink faced and white haired and looking twenty years younger than he did when he arrived from Turkey two months ago, sat through the arguments with evident interest, occasionally cupping an ear to avoid missing a phrase.

Judge Makes a Query.

As the arguments neared a conclusion Judge Wilkerson casually asked whether a bill of particulars had ever been allowed in this district, which seemed to augur no good for the defense. The prosecutors could recall none and the judge said he didn't remember any unless it was in the old packers' anti-trust case.

Attorney Thompson's plea for a bill of particulars was based on a contention that the government must have some fixed theory of its case, but that one could not learn from the indictment whether the offense is a shell game, a Sunday school prank, or a swindle along the lines of the South Sea bubble.

"If these defendants," said Thompson, "owned Corporation Securities stock they had a right to sell it on the market. The fact that they were officers or directors of Corporation Securities company did not prevent them from buying or selling stock on their own account. But, of course, if these defendants, or any of them, had one broker buy and another broker sell, for the purpose of creating a false and fraudulent market, that is another thing, and if these men are guilty of that they are guilty of a crime for which they ought to go to the penitentiary."

Dovetails Federal Charges.

This is exactly what the government will endeavor to prove in the mail fraud case, and the indictment specifically avers that it was a part of their "scheme and artifice to defraud, through false and fraudulent pretenses, misrepresentations, and promises," to buy and sell the stock and allotment certificates for the purpose of maintaining an inflated market price.

The "shotgun clause" objected to by the defense avers that it was a part of the alleged scheme to defraud to sell the common stock of Corporation Securities through Halsey, Stuart & Co. with the aid of booklets, circulars, letters, bulletins, telegrams, etc., and "divers oral communications."

The defense wanted to know how many letters and bulletins and what time they were sent, what brokers made the oral communications, and what if anything they had to do with the defendants. Mr. Thompson said the defense might be put to the burden of interviewing a thousand brokers and examining at least a million documents unless the government specified which ones it planned to use.

Forest Harness, special assistant attorney general who is assisting with the Insull prosecution, replied that he knew of no reason why the government should be called upon to do all that work for them.

Hot Charges Fly.

Mr. Green observed that motions for bills of particulars should not be considered unless brought in good faith, whereupon Mr. Thompson leaped to his feet shouting objections.

"I didn't know we were going to be accused of insincerity," he declared. "The defendants are the only people here who haven't shanghaied anybody. We are not a lot of gangsters, but I have my doubts about certain practices of the government."

Judge Wilkerson commented on the immensity of the impending trial and said, without making a ruling on the defense motions, that it would be desirable to effect some agreement for expediting it.

INSULL, JR., THREE OTHERS ARE FREED BY INDIANA COURT

Indictments charging Samuel Insull Jr. and three other defendants with embezzlement and grand larceny in connection with the affairs of the Public Service Company of Northern Indiana, were dismissed in Crown Point yesterday when Special Judge M. E. Crites granted a plea in abatement.

The plea was granted after the defendants charged that undue influence had been exerted on the grand jury which returned the indictments by Judge William J. Murray of the Lake County Criminal court.

Prosecutor Robert G. Estill stated that, under the law, the defendants could be reindicted, but he added he had not yet decided whether this would be done.

In addition to Insull, those against whom the indictments were dismissed by Judge Crites were Morse Bell Plain, president of the Public Service company; Edward Lloyd, Bernard P. Shearon, both directors.

The indictments, which were returned last December, charged an illegal transfer of funds from the Public Service company to the Midland Utilities company, another Insull concern, which was the holding company controling the stock of the Public Service company, an operating concern.

In the plea before Judge Crites it was charged that Judge Murray had instructed the grand jury in procedure, and had also voluntarily appeared before that body as a prosecution witness.

He is said to have related several experiences he had with the Public Service company during the time he served as a member of the board of public works of East Chicago.

RULES BOARD CAN GIVE PERMITS TO SIDEWALK CAFES

Sidewalk cafés on Michigan avenue, an innovation stimulated by the World's Fair, seem destined to become another of the city's vacation resort attractions. George E. Gorman, attorney for the south park board, yesterday rendered an opinion informing the park officials that it is within their legal province to issue permits for sidewalk cafés. Mayor Kelly has expressed hearty approval of the proposal.

The park board, the lawyer informed George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the Chicago park district, has the power to issue permits for the outdoor cafés with proper rules and regulations. The matter of the sale of wines and liquors, the lawyer intimated, can be permitted within the discretion of the park commissioners.

Park board action on the opinion is expected at once. The Stevens hotel, through its manager, Otto Eitel, has already made application for a permit. Other hotels are expected to follow suit.

NEW DEAL PERIL TO U. S. LIBERTY, SAYS FLETCHER

Carries G. O. P. Battle to the President.

of speech over the radio and in the newsreels.

"Have creditors and others been deprived of their property without due process of law as guaranteed by the bill of rights? Some think they have. The Supreme court will decide."

Mr. Roosevelt had likened the government to a beautiful building. He talked of additions and repairs to the White House office building, said they represented progress, but that the beautiful lines of the original structure were preserved. So it was, Mr. Roosevelt said, with the government of the New Deal.

Not the Outside That Counts.

On this score Mr. Fletcher said:

"There is one assurance in the President's address which all lovers of American art have received with joy and that is that while the President is away the addition to the executive offices will follow present architectural lines. But it is not the outside of a public building which controls the thoughts and theories of those who work behind the beautiful facades.

"A famous mosque in Constantinople was once a Christian church!"

Mr. Fletcher declared that it was ironical but true that the Republican party was struggling for a return to Democratic government.

"I have said the New Deal is not Democratic," he went on, "but I am willing to admit that it is dramatic. They have put on a number of good shows. With a great flourish of publicity, foreign ambassadors were called in and the war debts were going to be settled realistically but easily. Are they any nearer payment or settlement than they were in March 4, 1933?

"Later first rank statesmen were called to Washington from all parts of the earth to sit at his feet and hear the President's views and plans for world economic recovery and cooperation. The newspapers buzzed with excitement. What was the result? A lecture to the world and a miserable fiasco at the London economic conference. But it was a good show while it lasted!

Hullaballoo Over Litvinoff.

"Then there was the hullabaloo about Litvinoff's visit and the recognition of the soviet government. Has our trade with Russia increased as a result of recognition? If so, we have not heard of it, and you may be sure we would have heard of it from the hundred odd publicity bureaus of the New Deal financed by your money and mine. Again it was good front page stuff. It was just another one of the circuses by which the people must be distracted.

"Good showmanship is entertaining, but the performance which the American people will demand from the New Deal is not a stage performance.

"The New Deal is now generously heaping invective upon everything which went before the advent of the new dispensation on March 4, 1933, and we are all told now that the principles of government, which made our great progress and prosperity possible, are no longer worth while.

Party Accepts Issue.

"We believe that those principles are worth while and that the injustices and the inequalities which have developed can be cured and corrected without twisting or deforming our American institutions. We do not want to see these alphabetical bureaucratic agencies become permanent fixtures in our national political life. If the next congress is not more self-respecting and conscious of its duties than the last they may easily become permanent.

"The Republican party accepts the issue of the New Deal. It will seek to return to congress enough members to oppose effectively these innovations. We believe we will be successful in this.

"All the long faces and doleful words to the contrary, this America of ours is not an economic poor farm.

"Dependency is not its ruling characteristic.

"Nor will pauperism ever set a national fashion. Our country is still a going concern.

"The American people need no political definition of patriotism from above.

"Our ideals are eminently worth keeping.

"My friends, let us revive the old American custom of reading the Declaration of Independence."

Hayes Calls on Legionnaires to Battle for the Constitution

National Commander Edward A. Hayes of the American Legion declared yesterday that it is the duty of Legionnaires actively to combat subversive doctrines against constitutional government which he asserted are being spread by "super-intellectuals" in Washington and some institutions of higher education. He spoke before 200 Legionnaires and their guests at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman. The luncheon was dedicated to the Legionnaires and their sons.

Commander Hayes declared that the Legion would preserve and safeguard the principles of Democratic government for posterity. He was cheered loudly as he asserted that the nation must not forget the past and the principles for which the Revolutionary war was fought.

A Duty For the Legion.

"The Legionnaires would be hypocrites if they did not oppose any action which they believed inimical to the principles of constitutional government," he said.

"It is the duty of every member of the Legion to protest against any subversive trend from the true principles of a free government.

"The Legion has been and is characterized by action and the Legion will take active steps to combat any encroachment of radicalism in government."

Every Legion post in the country, Commander Hayes said, will be enlisted in the task of teaching the youth of the nation that their heritage is a free government.

Assails Prof. Tugwell.

He characterized Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, as one of the "super-intellectuals" in Washington. He said the undersecretary admitted before a senate investigating committee that he believed the crops a farmer plants should be regulated through taxation.

"This is contrary to all principles of freedom and constitutional government as conceived by our forefathers," Commander Hayes continued.

"These super-intellectuals are spreading through schools of higher learning falacious doctrines that we must forget the past—that a new day is here.

"The task as I see it today is to awaken in the minds of the legionnaires a sense of responsibility, a realization that they share in the operation of government—that they must investigate the acts of governmental agents and actively fight the subversive elements."

AVIATOR JAILED FOR FLYING LOW OVER NEW YORK

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Alexander Loeb, 18, an aviator, is to be grounded 30 days in a cell for flying low over the city, Magistrate Anthony Burke decreed today in west side court.

Loeb was pursued yesterday in the sky and on the land by police amphibians and radio cars when nervous citizens telephoned that his plane was hovering low in the vicinity of Riverside drive.

Magistrate Burke, who imposed a $50 fine which Loeb could not pay, said:

"It becomes necessary for this court to nip air students in the bud and halt them from this practice. I do not intend to wait until a loss of life occurs."

Loeb was charged with a violation of the sanitary code, which forbids an act that menaces life.

Gangster Is Found Dead in Bushes Near Newark

Newark, N. J., July 2.—[Special.]—Shot in the back of the neck, the body of Jerro Rullo, 28, was found at the end of a gangster's "ride" today in some bushes. Rullo had a long police record.

PRIVATE EFFORT STILL U. S. IDEAL, SAYS DR. FRANK

No Man Is Big Enough for America's "Receiver."

Washington, D. C., July 2.—(AP)—Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, tonight appealed to leaders of business, industry, and finance to come forward with a program that would "prevent the ruthlessness and protect the ruggedness of individualism."

His challenge to private enterprise was one of several "alternatives to revolution" listed in an address before the National Education association.

"There is a priceless value at the heart of private initiative that we must preserve at all cost," he said. "I do not believe that the complex economic life of the United States can ever be run effectively from Washington.

"If the leadership of business, industry, and finance will come to bat with a willingness to face the new problems of this new age of science, technology, and power production with a socially responsible program that will prevent the ruthlessness and protect the ruggedness of individualism, no political leadership on earth can win the suffrage of the American people for a program that smacks either of Fascism or of communism."

Guidance, Not Control, Needed.

Frank said governmental imposition of broad economic policy is imperative at present, but that the administration should keep clear "the distinction between the broad guidance of economic policy and the detailed regimentation of business administration.

"We should think twice before we follow the lead of Italy, Russia, and Germany with their varied versions of the philosophy of the state above all.

"In the United States the fates have certainly captained the state with a man of sincere and socially minded impulses. But, frankly, I am not sure that we are ready to make even Roosevelt receiver for economic America.

"The rank and file of Americans believe in rugged individualism, as profoundly as did the pioneers, but they have had their full of ruthless individualism.

Ruthlessness Doomed.

"They will drive from power and destroy any political leadership that seeks to impose unnecessary and unworkable limitations upon the free exercise of rugged individualism, but they will submit to drastic limitations upon their freedom of enterprise before they will hand themselves back into the power of a ruthless individualism of business, industry and finance."

One of the "alternatives to revolution" which Frank listed was the establishment of a fixed procedure for "crisis government" during emergencies.

"I find myself at variance with much that the national leadership has done with its emergency powers, but the wisdom and necessity of granting to the national leadership extraordinary powers in the midst of emergency cannot, in my judgment, be justly disputed," he said.

He proposed restriction of legislative bodies to "the charting of broad paths of policy, the setting up of goals the needs of the inarticulate millions require that we reach, and a critical checking up on the results of administration."

Assails Production Restriction.

He assailed the "general policy" of restricting production and raising prices, contending such action would result in a permanent and dangerous lowering of living standards.

"Science and the machine have brought us to the threshold of a social millenium," he said, "but we have lacked the wit to unlock the door.

"We must be careful lest a program of stabilization turn out to have been a process of sterilization."

SENATOR CUTTING FOR COURT REVIEW OF VETERANS' CASES

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 2.—(AP)—Need for a check on the federal veterans' administration by legislation giving the right of appeal to the courts from decisions on disabled veterans' cases was stressed by Senator Bronson M. Cutting of New Mexico. He spoke today in an address at the convention of the disabled American veterans.

"We won a victory in the reestablishment of the presumptive clause," he said, "but the fight will continue and you must be prepared to wage it. As one of those who are on the inside and know, I can only say that one of the most powerful lobbies maintained in Washington is that of the anti-veterans' group. I only wish that the veterans' lobby was half as powerful and potent in its influence with our legislators.

"The press of the United States, and I can say this because for a quarter of a century I have engaged in it, has never understood the principles involved."

Drop Virginia Pine's Contract at Film Studio

Hollywood, Cal., July 2.—[Special.]—Virginia Pine [Virginia Peine Lehmann], wealthy Chicago divorcee, who has been working in motion pictures, has had her contract dropped by Warner-First National studio. Miss Pine did not answer calls to report at the studio, her employers said. Her recent trip east while George Raft was in New York also was without their knowledge and interfered with studio plans, it was stated.

You owe it to your health to read this statement ABOUT BEER

This is a frank statement about Enzyme Control—therefore it is a bit technical. Please read it slowly, carefully. It will tell you the truth about the beer you drink.

ENZYMES are not new in beer. They helped make the first glass of beer 7000 years ago in Ancient Egypt. Only the understanding of enzymes is new. That is the contribution modern science has made to the art of brewing.

Enzymes are Nature's invisible transforming substances, present in all beers, in almost all foods.

The ripening of a banana illustrates the action of one kind of enzyme. Green bananas contain certain acids and oils that give them a sour, bitter, puckering taste. But the enzymes in bananas change these acids and oils—quickly in the sunlight, more slowly in your kitchen—into fragrant, delicious flavors.

So it is with apples. Green apples are sour and will give you indigestion. Ripe apples are delicious and very healthful. Enzymes make the difference.

But—after enzymes have ripened a food, they do not stop work unless something stops them. They go on to destroy—to spoil—the delicious flavors they have produced.

So in beer, enzymes are its kindest friend and a lurking enemy at the same time.

Enzymes are always at work in every stage of the brewing process—from the malt house to the ageing cellars—in all breweries. If these enzymes are to work properly, every step of their activities must be perfectly controlled. That is the reason for Schlitz Enzyme Control. This expensive, secret process controls the action of the enzymes so accurately, so rigidly, that it guarantees perfect beer every time—Schlitz Beer—ripe, mellow, fully fermented, delicious.

When the work of the enzymes is incomplete, beer may contain the raw acids and noxious oils that cause indigestion. When the work of the enzymes is overdone, beer may be partially spoiled, may have that peculiar heavy odor and taste that perhaps you have noticed in some beers.

Schlitz Beer smells good . . . tastes good . . . IS good. In Schlitz the work of the enzymes, controlled at every step, is stopped when the beer reaches the peak of perfection. Drink all the Schlitz you want, without fear of headaches, gassiness or indigestion. It has won highest awards for absolute purity. Schlitz Beer is good and good for you.

Instead of asking merely for a "glass of beer," always ask for "Schlitz"—and get the protection and the finer flavor produced by Enzyme Control.

GENEVA ADOPTS U.S. PLAN TO CURB TRAFIC IN ARMS

Parley Pays Tribute to Roosevelt Project.

GENEVA, July 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's plan to curb the secret collection of armaments by striking at munitions sources was enthusiastically approved today by a committee of the disarmament conference.

Powers represented on the committee investigating manufacture and trafic in arms adopted a plan based on American suggestions which would bring into the glare of publicity all armaments, whether homemade or imported.

Seek Universal Adoption.

A draft of the proposal will be sent to all governments with a view to incorporation in the general disarmament treaty.

If the project finds eventual universal adoption, as hoped by the committee, every gun and every piece of war material will be registered internationally.

The plan provides for the strictest inspection and supervision.

Under its provisions, adhering nations would undertake to prohibit the manufacture of forbidden arms and trafic in them in excess of limits laid down by a projected general treaty.

Licenses would be required for all manufactures and exports of arms.

Contribution to Security.

The plan specifically provides, in the case of Germany, that rearmament must be carried out by stages.

Hugh Wilson, the American Ambassador to Switzerland, announcing acceptance of the American plan as drafted, said it would be "an important contribution to that security which looks so large in the eyes of so many nations."

Seven nations represented in the committee supported the plan specifically and paid tribute to the United States for its constructive proposal.

A representative of Venezuela said it would "go down in history as a great success."

RUSSIA FORBIDS PRIVATE SALE OF GRAIN AND BREAD

MOSCOW, July 2.—(AP)—Private sale of grain and bread until the soviet government completes its grain collection program Dec. 1 was forbidden in a decree today by the central committee of the communist party.

Strict regulations were announced to guard the grain crop against theft and waste. Local authorities throughout the soviet union were warned to make no alteration in plans outlined by the central committee. Peasants and collective farms had been permitted since the beginning of 1933 to make private sales of surpluses remaining after the government collection plan was fulfilled.

The central committee's edict expressed the opinion the harvest this year would equal that in 1933, in spite of a drouth in some sections, and warned officials of collective and state farms that they must not make weather conditions and excuse for laxity in harvesting crops. The committee announced state farms must supply 70,000,000 bushels to the government.

TEST AIR TRAVEL FROM SHIPS TO CITIES IN EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 2.—When the Aquitania arrives at Cherbourg at 7 a. m. Wednesday (2 a. m. Chicago time) it will be met by an airplane which will take a group of Cunard line officials and others on an experimental air journey as far as Budapest by way of Paris, Zurich, and Vienna. They expect to arrive in Budapest at 5 p. m. and if the trip proves successful it will be the forerunner of regular service by the Cunard line in connection with their express liners.

The planes will be supplied by the Imperial airways. Similar service is being planned by Cunard in America to cut down the time from Chicago to Vienna by two or three days.

BRITISH RAILWAY MEN OPPOSE WAR; SCORE FASCISM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 2.—If there is another war British railway workers are not going to have anything to do with it, but if the Fascists gain control of the country, then the railway workers are prepared to fight tooth and nail to preserve their hard earned liberties.

This ultimatum was issued today by J. Henderson, president of the National Union of Railwaymen, in the presidential address at the annual conference at Aberystwyth.

"I suggest that the time has come for workers of the world to put their foot down on these quarrelling, antagonistic statesmen, and issue an ultimatum 'No war for us under any circumstances.'"

Henderson then attacked the Fascists and dictators, particularly British Fascists. He said dictators are springing up everywhere in a frantic effort to dragoon starving populations into submission to intolerable conditions of life and added:

"Force, brutality, bloodshed are abhorrent to us, but I think that the Fascist lords should be warned that if the time comes we are prepared to fight to preserve our hard won liberties, and not succumb to the black shirted bullies."

WARSAW GIVES U. S. SEA FLYERS WILD WELCOME

Reach Goal After Being Forced Down 4 Times.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, July 2.—The flying Brooklyn brothers, Joseph and Benjamin Adamowicz, finally set their trans-Atlantic airplane down in Warsaw at 5:15 p. m. today [11:15 a. m. Chicago time], amid thousands of cheering Poles.

The flight which started from New York in hope of making it nonstop to Poland had been marred by four previous European stops, but the welcoming throngs did not seem to mind and freely congratulated the American pop manufacturers.

"The glory shared by the brothers is shared by America and Poland," said John Cudahy, American ambassador, who was among the greeters. Many envoys and Polish notables could not get near the flyers at the field because of the packed crowds and saved their greetings for an official reception in the town hall.

The Americans were escorted to the hall by a colorful procession through the city streets.

Flying over land was more trying than on the long hop across the ocean, for the plane was forced to land three times, at Paris, Crossen in Germany, and Torun, Poland, on the way here from Chesnay, in France, where they first touched European soil.

FLYERS ANNOUNCE PLAN TO HOP NONSTOP, NEW YORK TO ROME

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Salvatore Martino and Paul Rizzo landed at Floyd Bennett field today from Wilmington, Del., in their monoplane Green Flash. They announced their intention to fly nonstop to Rome as soon as the weather permitted. They said they planned to eliminate the danger that caused Roger Q. Williams to crash in the same plane in taking off in 1929 from Old Orchard Beach, Me., in a similar attempt.

The two men, both of whom live in Brooklyn, will use only 500 of the 750 gallon tank capacity of the plane when taking off. Once in the air they will load another 250 gallons by the refueling in the air process before heading across the ocean.

NAB U. S. WOMAN FOR TAKING SNAP OF KREMLIN GATE

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., July 2.—(AP)—For taking a photograph of one of the Kremlin gates without a special permit Miss Avis Thayer of Philadelphia was held for an hour and a half in police court today, until her identity was established through the American embassy, where her brother is a secretary.

Miss Thayer, whose brother, Charles Thayer, a West Point graduate, is private secretary to Ambassador William C. Bullitt, has been in Russia for about ten days.

Soviet officials explained photographers are allowed in the Kremlin area only if they have obtained special permits. Militiamen made the arrest and took Miss Thayer's film from her. Miss Thayer's father was the late Col. George Chapman Thayer, captain of the Penn football team of 1880 and later a cavalry commander in the Pennsylvania National Guard.

OBJECT TO LIQUOR SELLING IN EDITH McCORMICK HOME

Arguments Renewed Over Zoning Change.

Further arguments for and against the proposal to convert the brownstone castle of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick at 1000 Lake Shore drive into a restaurant were heard yesterday before the city zoning board of appeals. After several hours' discussion the matter was continued until July 9.

A large number of objectors, all living on Bellevue place, appeared to give a variety of reasons why the petition of Mrs. Vera Megowan Daro, restaurant operator of Evanston, for a modification of the zoning law to permit her to turn the mansion into an eating and drinking place should not be granted.

G. O. P. Committeeman Objects.

The south part of the McCormick property, including the garden which fronts on Oak street, has already been zoned for commercial use, but the main portion of the building, on the Bellevue place side, is restricted for residential use.

Foremost of the objectors was Charles E. Peace, Republican committeeman for the ward, the 42d, who declared that he had lived at 105 East Bellevue place for the last 22 years. He based his protests partly on sentimental grounds.

"If you grant Mrs. Daro's request to turn the house into a restaurant she will serve liquor there," said Mr. Peace. "I don't think Mrs. McCormick would have liked that."

For a time this new line of reasoning halted the arguments of Attorney Carlton Blunt, who represented the Chicago Title and Trust company, executor, and who had opened the session with a plea that the zoning variation be allowed.

Col. Sprague Recalls Dinner.

But Col. A. A. Sprague, a Democrat and chairman of the appeals board, drew upon his memory to answer Mr. Peace. He said:

"I think you're wrong. I remember dining with Mrs. McCormick on a cold Sabbath during the winter of 1899-1900." He smiled reminiscently. "We had something to warm us up on that day."

"Well, you may be right," admitted Mr. Peace. "I never dined very often with Mrs. McCormick."

This line of objections disposed of, those protesting produced another witness. He was Fred Winston, a real estate man with offices at 33 North La Salle street. He asserted that it would be much better from a financial standpoint to build a large apartment hotel on the property. He said the project would cost about $2,000,000.

"Where are you going to find $3,000,000?" asked Corporation Counsel Sexton, member of the appeals board.

"I'm talking to that much money right at the present time," replied Mr. Winston with dignity.

ASTOR AND HIS BRIDE HERE ON HONEYMOON TRIP

John Jacob Astor III. and his bride, the former Ellen Tuck French, who were married last Saturday in Newport, R. I., arrived in Chicago at 9 a. m. yesterday on their honeymoon journey into the northwest. They came in a private car, the Superb, over the Pennsylvania lines.

The car remained in the Union station yards for 20 minutes before it was taken to the California avenue yards of the North Western railway, where it was attached to a train made up there and pulled into the North Western station. The train departed at 11 o'clock.

The Astor car remained closed and the curtains drawn throughout its stay here.

CARL LAEMMLE, Jr. General Manager of all Production Universal Pictures Corp.

Quoted from special article—New Movie Magazine

"I could afford to spend a million dollars for a new top-notch, first-rank star. This sounds foolhardy, at this time. But our revenue is derived from the box-office, and any star whose popularity would sweep the world like a storm, whose personality was startling enough, even sensational enough, to crowd the theatres again, would be worth a million of any studio's money.

"This industry, as a matter of fact, could use dozens of new stars—if they had the pull. The public is all set and ready for new excitement and new thrills. If we can develop personalities to give them those qualities, the public will swamp the box-offices." —Carl Laemmle, Jr.

NRA ORDERS BUS LINE TO REHIRE 15 MEN IT FIRED

U. S. Labor Board Rules Against Company.

pointments on Richberg, directing him to coördinate the alphabetical agencies and old line departments which are hammering away at different aspects of indsutrial recovery.

Establishes New Committee.

The executive order established a new industrial emergency committee consisting of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, and NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson. Richberg was appointed director of this new IEC.

At the same time the President made Richberg secretary of the executive council and secretary of the national emergency council. In both of these last two jobs Richberg succeeds only temporarily Frank C. Walker, former treasurer of the Democratic party, who has been given a leave of absence for the summer to tend to his private fortune.

Revamping and coördinating of the NRA, the Public Works administration, the Relief administration, and the labor department are the tasks laid before the new industrial emergency council by the President.

Will Recommend Programs.

"It shall be the duty of said Industrial Emergency council," the President said in his order, "to make recommendations to the President through its director with respect to problems of relief, public works, labor disputes, and industrial recovery and to study and coördinate the handling of joint problems affecting these activities."

Shortly after the executive order creating the IEC was made public, the White House issued another order over President Roosevelt's signature setting up a national resources board. This agency, according to the White House statement, will study the broad problem of land use.

Secretary Ickes, Secretary Perkins, Administrator Hopkins, Secretary of War George H. Dern, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, will make up the board. An advisory committee consisting of Frederic A. Delano, Charles E. Merriam and Wesley C. Mitchell will assist the board.

STREET CAR MEN GET 3C AN HOUR WAGE INCREASE

Motormen and conductors of the Chicago Surface lines last night ratified a new wage agreement increasing their pay 3 cents an hour. The action was taken at a meeting of Division No. 241, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, in Car Men's hall, 328 South Ashland boulevard.

The agreement was the result of a series of conferences extending over several weeks between union officials and Guy A. Richardson, president of the Surface lines.

Under the terms of the agreement the pay increase will be retroactive to June 1, when the old agreement expired. In addition, beginning next fall, all trainmen will be paid for a minimum of 8 hours instead of the 7½ hours they were reduced to in 1931.

"During the depression we lost about one-fourth of our business and the men voluntarily accepted a 7 cent an hour decrease in wages and some changes in working conditions," explained Mr. Richardson. "Now the trend in riding is upward, and we feel justified in restoring to the men part of what they relinquished."

The cost of the wage increase to the company is estimated at more than $1,000,000 a year.

VOLIVA INHERITS PART OF ESTATE; TROUBLE STARTS

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, the overseer of Zion, inherited one-third of a $14,000 estate yesterday, but apparently is going to have considerable trouble keeping it.

That amount was left in the will of Mrs. Salome Sandman, who died last week at the age of 78 years, with the specification that the overseer use it for the purpose of foreign missionary work of the Christian Catholic Apostolic church.

The will was admitted to probate by Judge Martin C. Decker in Waukegan, but three nephews and a niece, beneficiaries of the remainder of the estate, have taken an appeal to the Circuit court, claiming their aunt wasn't in her right mind when she left this sum to Voliva.

The appellants are George, John, and Irving Walter, and Mrs. Gertrude Nelson, of Wheaton.

SLAYER OF FOUR AT HOUSE PARTY PLEADS GUILTY

East Tawas, Mich., July 2.—(AP)—A. A. Woods, 53, who early yesterday shot four persons to death because a house party in the home of his son-in-law disturbed his rest, pleaded guilty in Circuit court today to four first degree murder charges.

Judge Herman Dehnke accepted the pleas in the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hayes, but said he would hear testimony next Thursday in the killing of Sheriff Charles C. Miller and Dr. Stanley E. Somers.

Woods was returned from the courtroom to the county jail where he surrendered voluntarily yesterday after the shooting in the home of his son-in-law, Arthur Janson.

"I thought I was doing right and that I was protecting my grandchildren," he was quoted as saying of the shooting.

DAPPER BANDIT GETS $600

A well dressed bandit yesterday obtained $600 from Louis Warshawsky in his shoe store at 1246 South Halsted street. The robber pretended to be buying a pair of shoes, Warshawsky said, but suddenly drew a revolver and announced it was a holdup.

U. S. GIVES TESTS FOR STATE JOBS UNDER NEW LAW

Gets Control of Free Employment Agencies.

The federal New Dealers have added to their supervision of the nation's business the task of helping to fill state jobs. This was revealed with the holding of Illinois civil service examinations last week when candidates for a number of state jobs were compelled to take tests specified by Washington officials.

Positions for which the examinations were held are all in the Illinois state employment service, which maintains free employment agencies. The jobs are listed as director, assistant director, supervisor, manager, assistant manager, senior interviewer, junior interviewer, manager of a placement office for the handicapped, interviewer for the handicapped, statistician, and statistical clerk. Salaries range from $100 to $540 a month.

A Wagner Bill Provision.

Inquiry developed that the federal officials were vested with power over these state jobs through the recently enacted Wagner law. The measure provides that only those states willing to comply with its provisions and agreeing, in effect, to merge the state employment departments with the new United States free employment service, will be eligible for federal monetary aid in the maintenance of state job placement service.

Under the Wagner law the states must continue to levy taxes to match dollar for dollar whatever aid is given by the federal government in conducting this employment service. The Wagner law appropriates $1,500,000 for such service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, and $4,000,000 annually thereafter up to June 30, 1938. In addition it confers a franking privilege upon the public employment service departments of the states which comply with the terms of the Wagner law.

It was learned yesterday that the qualifications and the tests for the state employment agency jobs were all prepared under the direction of Oliver Short, of the United States civil service commission.

An Anti-Political Provision.

The Wagner law also provides for a federal advisory council to insure freedom from political influence in the solution of employment problems.

But inquiries yesterday showed that little effort was being made to fill thousands of jobs in the various federal New Deal agencies on the basis of the merit system.

C. D. Hertzog, manager of the United States civil service commission in this area, said that his offer to help fill such jobs from long waiting eligible lists of men and women who had passed competitive examinations had been generally ignored. Both the Home Owners' Loan corporation and Public Works administration had declined to take on any personnel from the accredited lists.

It was further declared by one federal civil service official that some twenty employés requested from the eligible rolls by the Agricultural Adjustment administration were directed to obtain letters from political sponsors before being hired.

"I saw the AAA pay rolls," said the official, "and it contained hundreds of names of new employés not recommended from our civil service lists."

SUES TO FORCE BROTHER TO FILE 9 YEAR OLD WILL

A petition for a contempt citation against Henry W. Hardy, retired official of Libby, McNeil & Libby, stockyards firm, for his alleged failure to file his mother's will although nine years have elapsed since her death, was presented yesterday to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. Hardy, who lives at 5747 Kimbark avenue, was allowed ten days to answer the charge.

The petition was filed by Attorney Ernest L. Duck, representing Hardy's sister, Miss Clara Hardy. According to the petition, their mother, Mrs. Harriet Willard Hardy, who died in 1925, left a will disposing of her estate, valued at $3,000, to her daughter. The will is in Hardy's possession, Attorney Duck stated, but he has made no move to probate it, although the statute provides a will must be filed within sixty days after death.

The largest item in the estate is a note for $2,000 signed by Hardy, Attorney Duck said. The note was indorsed by Hardy and his wife, Mrs. Katharine Hardy, a former president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs. Miss Hardy, who lives at 6209 University avenue, cannot collect on the note until the will is probated, the attorney said.

GIRLS INVITED TO JOIN MUSIC FESTIVAL DANCE

1,500 Will Take Part in Great Pageant.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

Fifteen hundred girls 6 years of age or older are invited by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to participate in the dance pageant which will be a feature again of the fifth Chicagoland Music Festival to be held Saturday night, Aug. 18, in Soldiers' field. An entry blank accompanies this story.

Rehersals start Monday morning, July 16, on the three sides of the city, on the south side in the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue; on the west, Guyon's Paradise ballroom, 128 North Crawford avenue; and on the north at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue. There will be eleven rehersals and a final dress rehersal at Soldiers' field on Friday night, Aug. 17. Each ballroom rehersal will start at 10 o'clock and end at noon.

A Butterfly Dance.

In 1932 the Festival dancers were in Grecian costume. Last summer the 1,200 dancers represented gypsies and the third pageant next month will portray dancing butterflies. Miss Betty Jones of the Betty Jones School of Dancing, 317 Howard, Evanston, will have charge of the north side girls, and Miss Mayblossom Macdonald of the Ideal Dance studios, 3307 West Madison street, will direct the west side entrants, as they did for the first two pageants.

Mrs. Ermie Schultz of the Ermie Schultz School of Dancing, 6801 South Halsted street, will have charge of the south side rehersals.

Girls should report for the first rehersal at the ballroom nearest their homes. The opening practice on the north and west side will be Monday, July 16, and on the south side Tuesday, July 17.

No Maximum Age Limit.

There is no maximum age limit. Last year a mother of one of the girls participated in the dance. The pageant is considered one of the most popular events of the Soldiers' field program. The Festival concert band, directed by Victor Grabel, general musical director of the Chicagoland Music Festival, will accompany the dancers, the music being amplified from huge horns placed at the north end of the field.

Missing Chicago Girl, 15, Is Found in Milwaukee

Dorothy Fish, 15 years old, 7234 South Fairfield avenue, who has been the object of a national hunt since her disappearance on June 22 after a party in the home of friends, last night was found in Milwaukee, her parents reported to Chicago Lawn police. The police said they learned she had left home of her own volition, instead of being abducted, as her father, William Fish had feared.

"Why don't you tell people with sensitive throats about Old Golds?"

asks Dick Barthelmess

[AN OLD GOLD SMOKER SINCE 1928]

RICHARD BARTHELMESS, whose popularity places him in the front rank of male movie stars today.

Dear Mr. Barthelmess:—

People who watch their throats should not delay trying Old Golds. Once they've given this throat-ease cigarette a real tryout—you can bet they'll never be weaned away.

They'll find that Old Golds are made with smoother, mellower tobaccos—notably free from rasp and bite. Non-irritating even to the most delicate throat.

So thanks for your suggestion, Mr. Barthelmess. We've adopted it—as you see. And you may be the means of bringing new throat comfort and enjoyment to "people with sensitive throats."

Sincerely yours,
P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.
ESTABLISHED 1760

P. S.—It's this way, Mr. Barthelmess:—
No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. That's why Old Golds are easy on the THROAT and NERVES.

CROWD OF 62,000 BREAKS MONDAY RECORD AT FAIR

Elaborate Program for Fourth Arranged.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Independence Day week is being celebrated by hundreds of thousands of Chicagoans and visitors who are asserting their independence by knocking off work and going to the Fair. After a record-breaking Sunday, with a final attendance of 118,102 paid admissions, the Fair crowds yesterday set a new mark for Monday.

At midnight last night the attendance had reached 62,744, breaking the record of the highest previous Monday, on June 18, when the total attendance was 53,362.

Fewer Arrests for Drinking.

"The appearance of visitors who have come into Chicago for the July Fourth celebration," said Major Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, "accounts for the increase in the popularity of the Fair. It is indeed appropriate that they should come to the Fair to celebrate the independence of their country."

As a sidelight records of the Fair police department show that one phase of personal liberty is being handled carefully by Fair visitors. The files show there have been fewer arrests for drunk and disorderly conduct this year, with good liquor available all over the grounds, than there were last year, when alcoholic drinks were illegal.

One of the most complete Fourth of July programs ever presented in Chicago will regale celebrants at the Fair grounds.

Great Display of Fireworks.

Probably the most spectacular of the day's events will be the fireworks display in the evening on the banks of the lagoons.

The display will be three times the size of any previous pyrotechnic show in Chicago. Patriotic pictures in lines of fire will show President Roosevelt and George Washington.

Other displays will include the Liberty bell, the eagle and shield, and the spirit of '76. Flying fish and diving devils will dart across the sky to be followed by wagons and speedy cruisers in an aerial sham battle.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, playing on Swift bridge, will feature a broadcast to Japan followed by a reply from Tokio, including speeches by Ambassador Joseph Clark Grew and Prince Iyshto Tokugawa. The whole program will be broadcast. A reception in the evening at the Federal building will climax the day's activities with federal, state and Fair officials in the receiving line. Special shows, parades by soldiers, marines and sailors and many free attractions have also been arranged.

Detachments of soldiers of the 61st coast artillery, sailors from the Atlantic fleet and United States marines will hold retreat four days a week hereafter in the arena near the General Exhibits building. The marines arrived yesterday from Quantico. The parade down the Avenue of Flags and the maneuvers will be held at 4 p. m. each Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

TOUR OF TRIBUNE PLANT POPULAR AMONG VISITORS

The popularity of conduceted tours through the Tribune Tower among persons who live not only outside of Chicago, but in other states and in foreign countries, was evidenced last night in a count among 90 visiting the Tower. More than half gave addresses in other states. Five were from Germany.

The group included 25 students of the State Teachers' college, Kirksville, Mo.; four persons from Wichita, Kas., St. Louis, Mo., 6; Seattle, Wash., 2; California, 2, and Moline, Ill., 2. The number of out-of-town visitors probably is much higher, since many Chicagoans make reservations for their guests, giving only a Chicago address.

The tour starts at 7:45 p. m. with a motion picture showing the Canadian forests and mills where the newsprint is manufactured and its journey by boat to Chicago. The visitors are then conducted through the news room, morgue where clippings are filed, and engraving, composing, and pressrooms.

A. J. Mullaney Certified as Deputy Fire Marshal

Having ranked the highest in the civil service examinations, Anthony J. Mullaney was certified yesterday as deputy chief fire marshal, and John P. Wilson, former alderman, was certified as deputy commissioner of public works. Mullaney has been filling the post of deputy chief since the death of Daniel J. Carmody several months ago. Mr. Wilson has also been deputy public works commissioner.

Century of Progress Brevities

A boat landing was opened yesterday just south of the Planetarium at 12th street and a "water-front" entrance to the Fair was opened. The landing will be free to all boat owners, both private and commercial.

The royal purple silk court dress of Queen Marie Antoinette of France will be placed on display tomorrow in the French pavilion in the Hall of Science. The dress is valued at $20,000.

A drive to stop violations of state labor laws for women in concessions at the Fair was announced yesterday by Chief State Factory Inspector Joseph J. Nowicki. The most common violations are working women more than the maximum of ten hours a day and failure to keep time records. Mr. Nowicki said he expects to have enough evidence of violations to be able to present it to the Municipal court in two weeks.

The Irish village will be reopened this afternoon, presenting a typically Irish program. Evan Evans, a receiver in bankruptcy, was appointed trustee of the village in reorganization under the amended bankruptcy act by Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

The huge St. Bernard in the Swiss village gave birth to four puppies Sunday.

Twenty girls remain in the race for queen of the 1934 World's Fair. Of this number, seven are engaged in shows in the various villages and restaurants and the other 13 are employed in exhibits or as salesgirls. The semi-finals will be held tonight in the Court of States and the final selection will be made Friday night.

Word comes from the Rockefeller center lounge that it is seeking a resident of the state of Delaware. Visitors from every other state in the Union have signed the register in the exhibit, which is located in the Hall of Social Science.

Song writers, lyricists and composers, both amateur and professional, yesterday were invited by World's Fair officials to compete in writing a song that captures the gayety of the Beach midway. It will be used over the public address system at the Fair and over the radio. Three divisions will be made in the entries, one of both words and music, and the other music or words separately. A silver trophy will be awarded as first prize and 105 prizes will be awarded in all.

Children's day on Thursday, officials announced yesterday, will be the most elaborate yet staged. It is the ambition of officials to make this week the record breaking attendance week of the Fair, and Sunday and Monday crowds have carried this out. Admission will be 5 cents, concessions and rides have cut their prices, and special prizes will be given to children. Among the features will be a babies' bathing beauty contest, baseballs autographed by famous players, and a special show by Quin Ryan and his scalawags from station W-G-N.

H. C. Hatch, chairman of the board of Hiram Walker & Co., and twenty-eight officials of the Canadian government and editors of Canadian newspapers will arrive at the Fair at 9 a. m. today. The Black Horse troop will escort the group to the Administration building, where President Dawes will receive them.

GETS JAIL TERM FOR ACCEPTING TAX CUT BRIBES

Louis Weintraub, 39 years old, a clerk in the assessor's office, was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell and was fined $1 and costs yesterday by Judge Alfred O. Erickson in the Felony court on a charge of receiving money under false pretenses. Weintraub, according to several complainants, obtained from $10 to $20 from each of them on promises to reduce their personal property tax.

3,500 County Employes Get $300,000 Pay Today

Salaries for the first half of April will be paid today to approximately 3,500 county employés. The pay roll, totaling about $300,000, was raised through tax collections, according to County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash, who ordered the pay day.

TREASURY CHIEF HERE; TALKS TO TRADE LEADERS

Morgenthau Defends New Farm Mortgage Law.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Henry Morgenthau Jr., secretary of the treasury, conferred privately yesterday afternoon with twelve leading business men of Chicago in the office of President Eugene M. Stevens of the federal reserve bank. He found the afternoon so profitable, he said, that he plans to visit other federal reserve districts and do likewise, after he returns from a month's vacation on a ranch in Montana. He left the city at 8:30 o'clock last evening.

The only subject of these conferences on which any light was given by Mr. Morgenthau was the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage law. On this, he said, several of the interviewers had expressed worry.

"These talks were in confidence," he said after three hours of conferences, "but I can say what my own opinion is on this subject, as expressed to these men. My opinion is that after business men and insurance companies really digest the bill, which they have not yet done, they will feel that it is nothing to worry about.

Calls Measure Constructive.

"I am among those who recommended to the President that he sign the bill. Business men who may or may not be affected ought to study it very carefully, and realize that it is a constructive piece of legislation.

"There has been bankruptcy legislation for municipalities [in which Chicago is interested, I understand] and there has been bankruptcy legislation for corporations and for railroads. There is no reason why the farmer should not get as much.

"I doubt that many farmers will take advantage of this bill, but it is still there, as a last resort, to protect them from losing their homes and to give them a breathing spell.

"My own opinion is that in the long run the insurance companies will find themselves back in the lending field on farm mortgages, the way they should be, and that this will be in the not too distant future."

Other Conferees Silent.

The other conferees refused to discuss the subjects on which they unburdened themselves to the secretary of the treasury.

Those who had fifteen minute talks with him were Sewell Avery, president of Montgomery Ward & Co.; Max W. Babb, president, Allis-Chalmers company; John McKinlay, president, Marshall Field & Co.; John Stuart, president, Quaker Oats company; Fred W. Sargent, president, Chicago and North Western railroad; Edward Eagle Brown, president, First National bank; Charles G. Dawes, chairman, City National bank, and others.

Views Fair with Family.

Mr. Morgenthau, his wife and two children, arrived in Chicago in the morning. After taking rooms at the Blackstone hotel they proceeded unannounced to the World's Fair grounds. Later the secretary was told that a reception committee had been looking for him and that they had intended to give him the 19 gun salute. He chuckled at this.

"We had a good time walking around without any one paying any attention to us," he said.

WOMAN FALLS 20 FLOORS TO DEATH IN LOOP

Mrs. Helen Critchell, 55 years old, 10555 South Seeley avenue, an insurance broker in the office of George Herrmann & Co. on the 20th floor of the Insurance Exchange building, 175 West Jackson boulevard, fell to her death yesterday from a window near her desk. Her body narrowly missed striking a crowded bus in the boulevard.

Neil Hayes, 1454 West 94th street, a son-in-law of Mrs. Critchell, told police she seemed cheerful when she arrived at work. He chatted with her, then stepped into another office for a moment, Hayes said. When he returned she was gone from her desk. A stenographer said she had seen "a flash of white" at the window. Hayes looked out and saw the body in the street below.

A coroner's jury was unable to determine whether Mrs. Critchell's death was an accident or suicide.

Mrs. Critchell suffered a nervous breakdown a few months ago, Hayes said. She was the widow of George W. Critchell, whose father, John Critchell, was a brother of the founder of the insurance firm of Critchell Miller, Whitney & Barbour. After her husband's death in 1922 Mrs. Critchell entered the insurance business. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Hayes and Miss Barbara Critchell.

Robbers Pose as Window Washers and Obtain $700

Robbers who posed as window washers obtained $700 in week-end receipts yesterday from a safe in the R. and S. shoe store at 6356 South Halsted street. First a man in overalls, carrying a pail and a squeegee, appeared at the store, apparently to get the layout of the place. A short time later he returned with three other men, all carrying pails. The buckets contained pistols, however, and the men threatened three employés before taking the money.

AARON SAPIRO IS INDICTED AS A JURY BRIBER

New York, July 3.—[Special.]—Aaron Sapiro, New York and Chicago attorney, who once sued Henry Ford for a million dollars in a libel action, was indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of endeavoring to influence and bribe jurymen, and for conspiracy. Indicted with Sapiro was Samuel Roth, who had been previously named in a jury tampering indictment in connection with a mail fraud trial in March of last year.

Sapiro recently was acquitted with eighteen other defendants in a racket conspiracy trial in Chicago which lasted four months. He was extradited from New York on this occasion.

KNIFE BANDITS ROB MESSENGER.

Two men armed with knives yesterday held up William Sinclair, 5207 Main street, enforcer, a messenger for the Morton Building pharmacy at 203 West Washington street, taking $250 in checks which he was given to cash by employés of the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

"Newspapers are the sentinels of the liberties of our country."—Benjamin Rush.

SOUND BANKS SHOULD BUY BACK THEIR FREEDOM.

The bank calls shortly to be issued by the controler of the currency and the state superintendents of banking will show that one borrower is absorbing the credit facilities of the country at an alarming rate. That creditor is the government. It owes the banks already a total of more than 6½ billion dollars, and the amount is increasing steadily. In a year the government has acquired a billion and a quarter more of commercial banking funds of the country.

From the banking standpoint the loans are objectionable not only because of their quality but because of their quality. A sound commercial bank employs its depositors' funds by making loans which are self-liquidating. The process of fabricating materials and shipping goods is financed by commercial loans. When at the end of several months the transaction is completed a payment is received and the obligation at the bank is paid off. Not so with government loans. They are used to pay for salaries and supplies, for battleships and public roads, and lately to provide funds for relief and for a wide assortment of loans repayable, if at all, only over a long period of time. The loans are not self-liquidating. Since the budget is not balanced, they are not paid off at maturity out of income. When the loans become due the borrower simply borrows more to include the interest and provide additional funds.

There is a further criticism to the loans because of the relationship which the government has insisted upon assuming with reference to the banks. The government is not only the biggest borrower, but it is the biggest bank stockholder. An interest has been acquired in seven thousand banks—in some of them the controling interest. That was precisely what led to the downfall of many of the banks which failed from 1929 to 1933. The borrowers controled the lenders and were at liberty to help themselves to banking funds.

Once more the biggest borrower is the controling stockholder. And Jesse H. Jones, who is the active administrator of the government's stock ownership in banks, says that the government expects to use its stock ownership to interfere with the management of the banks when the occasion seems to require. When a bank management shows reluctance to loan further to the government, the latter as the biggest stockholder will have a disposition to interfere and replace the management with one that is not reluctant.

More serious is the fact that the government's interference threatens existence of sound commercial banking in this country. To date there has been no evidence of the use of the power of stock control to secure loans for those of high political but low financial standing. Nor are there any known cases in which a political enemy with a good banking record has been denied credit by direction of the leading stockholder. But so long as politicians control the government and the government controls the banks business men will have to face the risk of financial punishment for political beliefs. This is a hazard to which banks should not subject their customers.

Banks have an opportunity to take the treasury fetters off their wrists by repurchasing from the government the preferred stock which they sold it. They should lose no time in buying back their freedom. And once again free they should see that their biggest customer puts his house in order and becomes a good risk.

A ROTTEN POLITICAL DECISION.

A fusion of the Republic and Democratic campaign for the defeat of the communistic Farmer-Labor ticket in Minnesota has been held unlawful by the attorney general of that state. The attorney general, it is hardly necessary to state, is a Farmer-Laborite. This decision is rotten politics, symptomatic of the deplorable condition in which radicalism and the political ineffectiveness of its substantial citizenship have mired the public affairs of Minnesota. There should be enough self-respecting Americanism in that commonwealth to punish this insolence and the party responsible for it.

THE LAKE AS A HIGHWAY.

Just about a year ago we mentioned editorially that one somewhat unexpected benefit of A Century of Progress was that it was "bringing the lake back to Chicago." Several new services were established and a number of them will be continued during the season of navigation, 1934. Of special interest to the tourist will be the service of the steamer Illinois, carrying both passengers and automobiles between Chicago and Muskegon at an expense comparable to the cost of driving. The vacationist who wishes to visit northern Michigan is enabled to avoid the hard drive through heavy trafic around the south end of the lake and add a water trip to his holiday.

But we still believe that steamship men are missing a bet in overlooking the Benton Harbor route. Muskegon, as a point of debarkation, is all right for those who wish to visit the upper peninsula of Michigan, but it involves extra mileage for the far more numerous eastbound tourists. With respect to this trafic, Benton Harbor and Michigan City are ideally located. The route seems to be a perfect setup for an automobile ferry, possibly of new design, that could make the trip from the Navy pier to Benton Harbor in three and one-half hours or less and offer service twice daily for a fare comparable to the cost of operating an automobile through the heavy trafic in evidence in the towns of East Chicago, Whiting, and Gary.

IN EFFECT AN INCOME TAX.

Assessors preparing the new personal property rolls under the inspiration of a brain trust professor on the state tax commission follow up the new idea that a street address is assessable by a fixed rule. Given a location it follows that everybody known to be upon the premises has an amount of personal property easily conjecturable and therefore easily assessable. Already the consequences have been notable, if not disturbing. Housekeepers and domestic servants find themselves to be persons of considerable wealth and persons renting both room and furniture are listed as citizens possessing the equipment of households with all the customary taxable belongings.

One purpose of this taxing device may be to bring in people who have not scheduled and to cause them to file. A purpose, indirect, if not direct, seems to be to approach as close as possible to an income tax. The assessors do not know, when they make these arbitrary assessments, what the person has as taxable personal property, but they assume, finding his place of residence to be such and such, that his income must be so and so. Upon that guess they levy what is in effect an income tax, conjectured rather than ascertained, in a state which does not permit the levying of such taxes.

The method is drastic and zealous, but without sanction in law and full of injustice and absurdity.

CALLING HUEY'S BLUFF.

The New Orleans Cotton exchange has warned Huey Long and his state administration that if they persist in their plan to impose a 2 per cent tax on trading the exchange will move to another state.

Huey may make the mistake of thinking the exchange is bluffing. If so, he will live and learn. It is true, of course, that the traders would prefer to stay where they are, but, by and large, a market can be moved with less inconvenience than almost any other kind of business. Its plant consists of little more than a big room, a certain amount of standard office space, and a network of telegraphic connections. All of these items can be improvised in a few weeks' time.

As a matter of fact, the exchange would not have to reach any formal decision to move. The tax itself would drive business to other markets where the tax was not imposed. Capital is as fluid as quicksilver. Transactions will take place where business can be done at least cost.

The Chicago Board of Trade has been threatened many times as the New Orleans Cotton exchange is now being threatened. The grain traders tried various means of persuasion in the legislature, but finally tired of the shakedown and made a counter threat to move to Indiana. That worked. The New York Stock exchange recently went so far as to prepare for the transfer of its activities to New Jersey before the New York administration backed down.

If the legislators in Louisiana and their boss are less intelligent than their opposite numbers in Illinois and New York the New Orleans market may be closed down. If that happens, the importance of the Chicago cotton market may be considerably augmented. Huey has never been much of a hero in these parts, but the time may come when a statue of him will be erected by the Chicago cotton traders.

TOUGH YOUTHS AT LARGE.

A citizen the other day noticed an automobile filled with tough looking passengers, and, thinking they might be desperadoes on the way to some criminal violence, noted the car's license number. When the holder of the license was looked up it was found to be the St. Charles School for Boys.

The incident is a reminder of the way in which many of our institutions for the restraint of criminally disposed individuals are administered. Youths sent to St. Charles ought not to be running about the streets in an automobile, the chief aid of successful criminality in our age. Our leniency toward vicious youth, in spite of the fact that most of our crimes are committed by youths, is the least excusable and most expensive of our sentimentalities.

Editorial of the Day

NOT A MATTER OF DEGREES.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

In throwing open its doors to any one who might profit from study, the University of Chicago is endeavoring to meet a demand that is commonly traced to unemployment. The number of adults who are seeking special instruction has greatly increased during the depression and the trend gives every evidence now of being permanent. With their problems already complicated by failing revenues, the universities and colleges of the country are confronted with meeting this demand under conditions which are by no means favorable. The fact that increasing emphasis is being laid upon this phase of education indicates, however, that not only is a way going to be found to meet the demand but some significant changes in the system itself may also be made in the process.

Under the policy to be followed at Chicago it will no longer be necessary for the student who does not desire a degree to be bound by the ordinary requirements nor will his lack of previous academic training be a barrier to his entering the institution. While these concessions have been anticipated in various ways by many colleges, among them the University of Minnesota, the unclaimed student has not, until more recent times, received much consideration. That his particular wants are now to be made the subject of special attention is not only an expedient adopted to meet an unusual condition but it also represents a more liberal view of the purpose which a higher institution of learning can serve.

As a part of an integrated educational system the university has, of necessity, cultivated the particular field of supplying training that leads to recognized collegiate degrees. The present state of affairs has clearly shown the need for a compromise with the rigid restrictions and regulations required in regular college work. Reconciling this system with a new demand, however, is complicated by an oversupply of students, many of whom should not be in college at all.

Among other things the depression has deflated the value of a college degree, as such. It has not deflated the importance of a well trained mind. As the increased demand on the part of adults for special training shows, economic reverses have brought out more clearly the need for training and it is this need that colleges are now trying to fill. The future will have gained much if the experience of the last few years brings us a better understanding of what constitutes true education.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE COVERED AUTO.

Or, Crossing the Indiana Frontier in 1934.

(A dozen automobiles have assembled at a little town in western Ohio close to the Indiana border. They are bound for the World's Fair in Chicago and some of them carry banners on the sides of the car inscribed "World's Fair or Bust." One of the auto tourists who has been chosen as leader during the rush across the Indiana frontier calls for the others to come around him while he tells his plans.)

LEADER—"Folks, I think it is perfectly safe now, considering the number of cars we've got together, to make the dash across Indiana. A scout has just come in from the direction of South Bend and says there are no recent traces of Dillinger. Another scout from the Wabash says while smoke has been seen in the woods along the river which may indicate camps of Dillingerites, he is not certain. We will start now and remember, in case of attack, to form your cars in a circle, making a stockade with the women and children in the center. Come on. Let's go!"

THE SCOUT—"Best go slow and keep your guns ready. I've found a fresh Dillinger trail right ahead."

LEADER—"Sure you saw signs of the Dillingers? Have they scalped any of the settlers around here?"

SCOUT—"Nope. We didn't see any scalps, but we found five hundred dollars and that means that Dillinger and his gang are near here somers."

LEADER—"Why do you think that?"

SCOUT—"Because nobody in Indiana except Dillinger has that much money these days."

LEADER—"Well, I think we ought to push on. Or we might wait here while we sent back to Ohio for a cavalry escort."

SCOUT—"Oh, shucks, a cavalry escort won't do any good. Dillinger just runs rings around soldiers."

LADY TOURIST [tearfully]—"Oh, please, let us stay here. If the Dillingerites are laying waste this part of the country it would be madness to go further. I think I can hear their savage war whoops even now."

SCOUT—"Well, lady, the woods is full of Dillinger, but a lot of tourists' cars a-traveling together got through all right to Chicago and I think if you go slow, and careful-like, and look out for ambushes, and keep your eyes and ears open you may git through. But I hain't advisin' it."

ANOTHER LADY TOURIST—"Oh, scout, tell us that soon we'll be safe in Chicago."

SCOUT—"I can't promise you that, ma'am, but I kin say as how I hope you'll git through to Chicago all right."

FIRST LADY TOURIST—"Oh, why doesn't the government establish forts clear across Indiana to Chicago?"

SCOUT—"Because Dillinger would steal the forts. The government hain't takin' any chances."

LEADER—"Well, men, we must push on. Look well to your guns and at the first alarm put your cars in a circle and fight to the last."

ALL THE AUTOS—"Honk, honk!"

[THE END.]

EVANESCENCE.

The throaty chant of crickets
Beneath a milky moon,
Awakes a blur of shadowed
Memories that soon
Will slip past all recalling
Despite design or will—
As wind drifts through the willows,
As petals down the rill.

LILA TERRY.

OLD ARCH WARD quotes Casey Stengel as saying, "Baseball's greatest heartache is the veteran who doesn't know he is through." But is that only true of baseball players? Let us also consider business men, writers, poets, statesmen, orators, scholars, kings, beggars, philosophers and fools; how very few of them know when they are through! They're in the same class with the old baseball players. And aren't we all?

"ORDER CHICAGO POLICEMEN MUST ALL SMILE." Headline. Try to get a Chicago policeman to smile when he's ordering traffic to get along faster. He couldn't possibly smile while he is snarling "Gittouten here! Gittouten here!" And if he tried his face would get so tangled up he wouldn't be able to straighten it out in a week.

CITY AT MIDNIGHT.

The city slumbers through the sooty hours
Like some weird garden that is briefly sweet
With shadowy terraces of glistening flowers.
These glowing lilies hung above the street . . .
These lamp-posts in a prim, unswaying line
Of noonday-golden tulips . . . all of these
Warm blossoms on the breathing wires that twine
High up among its granite trellises.
Here perfect beauty is a loveliness
Soon to be shattered: and a miracle
Is in this waiting garden, splendid less
For its hushed form as for the lyrical
Immortal voice of men that soon will be
A sudden sun upon a drowsy sea.

CALCIUM IN PREGNANCY.

THERE is much investigation now in progress concerning the importance of calcium in the body, and calcium therapy has been tried in many diseases. In psoriasis, a stubborn skin disease, definite improvement has been noted following the use of this mineral.

Obstetricians have long known that pregnancy places upon the expectant mother a heavy demand for calcium. The formation of the bony skeleton of the developing child draws calcium in large amounts from the mother's supply. Because of this rather large demand upon the mother the child has been called a calcium parasite. For many years obstetricians have been accustomed to give generous quantities to expectant mothers in some such form as calcium glycerophosphate or calcium lactate. This is usually started with the onset of pregnancy. There are many reports indicating that this procedure has helped to preserve the teeth of the mother and nullify the old saying, "For every child a tooth."

Through studies on the calcium content of the blood of expectant mothers a new and important use of calcium has been suggested. It has been shown that the calcium in the blood of the fetus is in greater concentration than in the maternal blood. Symptoms of toxemia of pregnancy [eclampsia], such as high blood pressure, albumin in the urine, headaches, drowsiness, and even convulsions are often accompanied by a lowered level of calcium in the blood. The prompt administration of heavy doses of calcium by mouth has, in many instances, been followed by marked relief from symptoms classed as preëclamptic or eclamptic.

There is usually plenty of calcium in the ordinary diet of the average individual. Sometimes calcium in the diet may not be in such form as will permit it to be taken up by the blood and used by the body. In this connection there is a very interesting and delicate gland mechanism that governs calcium metabolism, namely, the parathyroid glands. These parathyroids are small glands that lie at the upper border of the thyroid on each side of the neck. Removal of these glands causes a definite calcium deficiency from which relief can be obtained only by the use of huge doses of calcium salts or by the administration of the hormone found in the parathyroid glands or both.

There seems also to be some relation between calcium deficiency and a proper balance of vitamins in the diet. Calcium salts given in connection with the generous use of foods supplying vitamin D seem to be absorbed and assimilated more readily and to establish more quickly the proper calcium balance.

The demand for the added supply of calcium needed by the expectant mother must be met by calcium containing foods, particularly milk, the administration of calcium salts, and the generous use of foods rich in vitamin D, such as cow's milk, egg yolk, and butter.

BLOOD TEST HARMLESS.

C. F. writes: May not the test to determine the blood pressure be harmful? I have high blood pressure and recently two physicians have tested to determine its extent. One made the test on the left arm and the other on the right, and I have had some discomfort from each. With the delicate structure of the blood vessels it seems as though the intense stricture of the pressure might result in serious bodily harm.

REPLY:

No harm can result from the compression band of the blood pressure apparatus.

EYELIDS TURN DARK.

M. H. writes: What causes the eyelids to turn black and what can I do to prevent this condition? Sometimes I have black lines under the eyes.

REPLY:

You evidently have a defective circulation. Sometimes in sleeping pressure will cause capillary rupture, the blood turning black as from a bruise.

Dark circles under the eyes are indicative of lack of rest or poor circulation, or both.

IT'S THE MASSAGE.

S. R. C. writes: Is it harmful to rub fat off with spirits of camphor solution?

REPLY:

No. You will accomplish the same result by using alcohol. The massage is the important part of the treatment.

RENT INSURANCE.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the Insured.]—I have been told that it is possible to buy rent insurance, and since I own an apartment I would like to know if this kind of insurance policy would protect me when the apartment is not rented? T. G. J.

Rent insurance is not intended and would not cover losses of rent due simply to an apartment or building being vacant, unless such vacancy is caused by fire, windstorm, etc. A rental policy is intended to provide protection against loss of rents as a result of the property being made untenantable by fire. In other words, the policy pays the rent the insured would have obtained from tenants had no fire occurred.

EMPLOYES' INSURANCE.

Chicago, June 5.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Is an employer permitted to make monthly deductions from an employé's salary for workmen's compensation? M. E. T.

The theory underlying workmen's compensation insurance is that the burden of the injured employé should be considered as one of the expenses of the industry. The cost of workmen's compensation insurance is almost universally borne by the employer. Generally he is not permitted to make any deductions for the expense from the wages of his employés. In Oregon the employer may deduct one cent a day from the employé's earnings. In Arizona and Nevada the employer may collect one-half of the medical benefit, but not to exceed $1.00 per month for each employé. In the majority of the remaining states, however, the law requires the employer to stand the expense.

REGARDING THE MOVIES.

Chicago, June 26.—Leagues of Decency and an aroused public opinion are both powerful and encouraging, but do not forget that we are a people one of whose watchwords is: "There oughta be a law——" And laws have some curious repercussions, as witness prohibition and NRA.

Let me give an example. The picture "Tugboat Annie" was almost universally admired, but did not Annie become completely, even if laughably, intoxicated aboard the Glacier Queen? And Terry, "God bless his soul," are we to accept a casual heroism compounded of brute strength and impulse as sufficient vindication for his inebriate life?

Or again, could not the moralists make out a crushing case against "The Private Life of Henry VIII.," a picture which represented one of the best efforts of current movie production?

Of course I have a pet solution. It is this: First, abolish or greatly modify the system of block booking so that neighborhood houses, much of whose income is derived from juvenile attendance, are free to select pictures suited to the tastes and ages of their principal patrons. Second, make and enforce a ruling that certain films are for "persons under 16 only when accompanied by their parents." At the present time the notice "For Adults Only" directly implies something decidedly salacious. This need not be true. A vigorous campaign of public education by such a paper as yours could easily replace the leer inherent in that statement with the meaning, "Here is a film by no means salacious but which is of a nature not properly to be comprehended by the juvenile mind."

After that the problem would rest where it belongs, with the parents.

A CAUSE OF MOTOR ACCIDENTS!

Chicago, June 27.—Has it occurred to any one else that in addition to speeding and drink a cause for automobile accidents might be found in the fact that it is so hard to see out of the latest style autos? The windows are small and the driver's position such that his view is too much obstructed. Danger jumps upon him too suddenly.

FOR SAFE DRIVING.

THE STATESMAN OF MONTPELIER.

Chicago, June 28.—While I by no means intend to cast any reflections upon the statesmanship of James Madison, which may have been brilliant enough in his time, nevertheless I do not believe that we should bind ourselves strictly to the precepts and doctrines which he formulated a century and a half ago. Unless, of course, those same precepts and doctrines can be conveniently manufactured into mudpies which we can sling at those whose efforts displease us.

The editorial says of Madison and his colleagues that ". . . they were better informed, etc." I fail to see how any one can conceive even the "Father of the Constitution" as being better informed with the information of 1787 than the national leaders of 1934, except perhaps those who find this viewpoint a handy means of maintaining their own comfortably padded status in life at the expense of the less fortunate. Thomas Jefferson is classed with Madison as one of the "old philosophers" by the writer of the editorial, who, however, forgot to mention that Jefferson was also a marvelous prophet, able to predict happenings which took place almost one hundred and fifty years later. Jefferson once wrote, "Whenever our affairs go obviously wrong, the good sense of the people will interpose to set them right." The good sense of the people interposed as late as November, 1932.

It is indeed fortunate for those in the upper crust that the good sense of the people did not interpose in the manner of the New England realists described in the editorial in question.

EUGENE PILARSKI.

Ottumwa, Ia., June 28.—Congratulations on your editorial, "The Statesman of Montpelier." This is a classic and well worth preserving among the classic utterances of the day. I am glad that you recognize the greatness of Madison. After Washington and Jefferson he was the greatest of our national builders. Should this trio of Washington, Jefferson, and Madison be discarded for Frankfurter, Moley, and Tugwell? T. A. MOOK.

IN THE ELECTRICAL AGE.

Chicago, June 29.—It's a funny world. In Chicago we have A Century of Progress with the world's greatest display of electrical achievement, scientific and decidedly modern, and in Chicago, along Bernard street, we still have kerosene lamps lighting the street. The lamplighter still makes his daily rounds filling the tank with kerosene and either turning on or off the light. Perhaps the people would like to see this old fashioned method of street lighting. How about a little publicity? FUNNY GUY.

LAW ACTION NECESSARY.

Chicago, June 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Next door to some property I own is a building which was burned some time ago. Since then wreckers have torn out all of the plaster and debris from inside the building and run it out into the rear yard through a chute. The pile became so large in the adjoining yard that it overflowed the dividing fence and a considerable portion of it is now in the rear of my property. Please refer me to the proper authorities so that this nuisance can be abated. J. W.

As this notice was not complied with, the matter has been referred to the law department for prosecution. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Department of Buildings.

INHERITANCE TAX.

1. No, if the wife is named as beneficiary in the policy.
2. See 1.
3. The exemption to a wife is $60,000 worth.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

APPEALS COURT LIMITS POWERS OF CITY JUDGES

Backs Green's Contempt Action in Taxi Case.

By the opinion handed down yesterday, the Illinois Appellate court held for the first time that the Circuit and Superior courts have the power to issue writs of prohibition to restrain proceedings in the Municipal court. This power has always been exercised by the Circuit and Superior courts to halt proceedings before justices of the peace and other inferior tribunals.

The immediate effect of the ruling is to restrain Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green from contempt proceedings against Michael Sokoll, president, and four other officials of the Checker Taxi company. Judge John M. O'Connor of the Appellate court, who delivered the opinion, which was concurred in by Judges David Matchett and William McSurely, said that it had always been understood among lawyers that the Municipal court was originally created only to take over the work of justices of the peace, with some additional powers listed in the statute.

Limits City Judge's Power.

Judge Green, in instituting the contempt proceedings a year ago, had announced th he would "conduct a thorough investigation of all matters relating to the taxicab business in the city of Chicago and to alleged monopolies relating thereto and to alleged action in restraint of trade."

Judge O'Connor's opinion held that Judge Green as a judge of the Municipal court was without jurisdiction to inquire into such matters.

Judge O'Connor ruled that Superior Judge Joseph B. David had erred a year ago when he refused to issue a writ of prohibition restraining Judge Green from holding the contempt proceedings. Judge David refused to issue the writ, asserting his court could not stay proceedings in the Municipal court.

A Precedent Established.

Reversal of this ruling yesterday, in addition to ending the contempt action, is considered a precedent allowing the Superior court or the Circuit court to interfere in Municipal court cases through writs of prohibition. The Circuit and Superior courts have general law, equity, and criminal jurisdiction. The Municipal court, originally created to handle the justice of the peace business, has since obtained limited law jurisdiction and in criminal cases can deal with misdemeanors. In felony cases its judges may act only as holding magistrates.

RAINS FORECAST TODAY TO BREAK LONG HEAT WAVE

Prediction for Chicago Is Not So Warm.

Unsettled weather, with possible showers and shifting winds, is expected today to put an end to a protracted heat wave which yesterday gripped the middle west and Chicago. Locally the hot sun sent the temperature up to an official high of 93 degrees at 3 p. m.

While Chicagoans sweltered in the humid atmosphere, downstate and the rest of the central states baked in temperatures that in many cases passed the century mark. In Illinois, Quincy and Bloomington recorded temperatures of 103 and 102, respectively. Kansas City had a high of 104 degrees.

Sudden Storm in Iowa.

Although it was warm everywhere, some signs of the erratic weather which is expected to help many localities were already apparent. Sioux City, Ia., experienced a heat of 97 degrees at 1 p. m., and then a sudden thunderstorm came. Within two hours the thermometer had fallen to 67 degrees under an official rainfall of .58 of an inch.

Chicago's temperature rose almost as rapidly with the failure of winds from the Lake Michigan side of the city. The official figure was 64 degrees at 6 a. m., and from there it rose to the high point 29 degrees higher at abdut four degrees an hour. By noon thousands were forced to the city's beaches and public swimming pools. Many of them enjoyed the fifteen pools of the south parks system, open for the first time this year.

Possible Showers Today.

Weather Forecaster C. A. Donnel predicted unsettled weather today and tomorrow, with a possibility of a shower or two. It will also be "not so warm," according to the forecast. A special warning has been sent out to Lake Michigan yachtsmen to look out for possible squalls.

Local showers or thunderstorms were forecast for most sections of the north central states. Temperatures will remain high in most central and southern sections, the weather bureau predicted, with more moderate readings in extreme northern areas.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

117 Polite Steers.

July 2, 1934.

ALTHOUGH I haven't been able to figure out just what kind of a "numbering system" the 117 Hereford steers use when they line up to drink at the two water tanks in the cattle yard, it looks very much as if the "boss" of the herd has some kind of an arrangement which keeps these animals from crowding the drinking places on hot days. In fact, the way these animals drink is one of the most amusing things on the farm these days.

They have about three-fourths of a mile to walk from their new pasture up to the cattle yard in order to get a drink. When they file in for a drink of cool spring water both tanks are full. Ordinarily you'd expect a lot of pushing and shoving with each steer trying to beat the other fellow for the first drink, especially on a blisterin' hot summer day. However, these Herefords sort of get in line calmly and quietly as if each one of them had a brass check with a number on it. When an animal has taken a long drink he edges away from the tank and another one takes his place, just as if the "boss" had ben telling every member of the herd the fine points of drinking etiquet.

The last planting of soy beans has been put in here on the farm. This is a tract of 45 acres and any chinch bug that wants to starve to death is cordially invited to park himself in this plot of ground. Inasmuch as the soy bean is a legume, the chinch bugs do not like it. A strip of hemp ten feet wide was planted around the beans.

Two old skunks that were seen in the pasture where the Herefords are grazing playing a mean trick on their five little ones yesterday. When disturbed papa and mama hustled for the safety of their den and left their five little ones to do the best they could in getting away safely. It was quite a picture to see this family in the field, with the young skunks [just about the size of little kittens] running around their parents. Paul Sleezer walked into the field after the adult members of the family had hustled into their den and captured one of the little ones. Fortunately this young one wasn't old enough to know much about his natural enemies or how he is supposed to use a gas attack to get rid of these enemies.

The barn swallows in the horse barn on the auxiliary farm have learned an interesting trick to cut down their labor in catching insects. One pair of swallows is mighty busy these days because there is a family of young ones to be fed. [It's quite a job to cram these youngsters full of insects from morning until night.] But the other morning the old birds caught on to the fact that when a horse goes through a field the grasshoppers and other insects naturally start hopping or flying around. So every time Carl or any of the boys get into a field near the barn on horseback one of the swallows is right in front of the horse swooping back and forth to catch the disturbed insects. When the bird seizes a grasshopper back it goes to the barn to give it to one of the family.

W. H. McDONNELL GOES IN OFFICE AS U. S. MARSHAL

William H. McDonnell, south side community newspaper publisher, was sworn in yesterday as United States marshal, succeeding Henry C. W. Laubenheimer, who held the position for six years. The oath of office was administered by James H. Wilkerson, senior judge of the United States District court.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan was in charge of the ceremony, including a series of addresses by friends and political associates of Mr. McDonnell. The ceremony took place in the marshal's office on the eighth floor of the United States court house.

Joseph Tobin, 33 years old, formerly in the preparation department of the state's attorney's office, was sworn in as chief deputy marshal to succeed Edward A. King. No other changes will be made in the staf for some time, Marshal McDonnell said.

RELIEF WORKERS RALLY TO A PAL IN FRAUD TRIAL

Inner Workings of Order Forgery Revealed.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Milton McKay, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Roy Cutrell, robbery, sentenced to one year to life; Victor Pansatella, robbery, sentenced to one year to life; Adam Kier, burglary, sentenced to one year to life; Louis Strzyzuski, burglary, sentenced to one year to life; Frank Krause, crime against children, sentenced to one to 20 years by Judge Harry B. Miller.

William Auld and Howard Morgan, malicious mischief, sentenced to one year in the bridewell and fined $500 each, by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Three employés of the Illinois emergency relief commission and a former executive of the commission took the witness stand in Judge Walter P. Steffen's Criminal court yesterday in behalf of a former commission employé, who is on trial charged with conspiracy to issue false relief orders. Louis Gillman, 6511 Kenwood avenue, first a head relief clerk and later a fraud investigator for the commission, is the defendant.

Gillman is one of a group of commission employés charged with forging relief orders, passing them through a grocery and receiving a share of the graft. Another is Matthew Mertz, 2509 Millard avenue, a former clerk in the Lawndale relief station. Mertz was granted a separate trial but after he indicated he would plead guilty he was placed on the stand yesterday as the state's star witness. Hector Pena, another former commission employé, is a fugitive.

Woman Grocer Pleads Guilty.

Mrs. Mary Bartuska, owner of a grocery at 2258 South St. Louis avenue, through whose store the fake orders were sent, pleaded guilty yesterday and was also a state witness.

Mertz testified that the fraud was concocted when Gillman was chief clerk at the Lawndale station. Gillman told him, he said, that fraud was being committed in other relief stations and that he, Gillman, did not see why it could not be done at the Lawndale station.

A system of fake orders was then worked out, Mertz said, and a few tests were sent through the regular channels. When no trouble was experienced, Mertz testified, a regular system was put in effect with the connivance of Mrs. Bartuska. An audit showed that $2,727.14 of such orders went through Mr. Bartuska's store.

Mrs. Bartuska Gets 25 Per Cent.

Mertz said that Mrs. Bartuska retained 25 per cent of the money and that he split the remaining 75 per cent with Gillman and Pena.

Mrs. Bartuska testified that this division of the money was correct, although she said she had all her dealings with Mertz. Once, Mrs. Bartuska said, a man giving the name of Robert N. Baker, who had credentials purporting to be from the relief commission, appeared at the store and blackmailed her and Mertz out of money in return for a promise not to expose the fraud system.

Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin, who is in charge of the prosecution, said he has had a search made for Baker, but has not been able to find such a person.

Four Defense Witnesses.

E. M. Horton, who until yesterday was the chief investigator of fraud for the relief commission, was the first defense witness. He resigned the commission job, he said, to become manager of the Progressive Food Dealers' association.

Although Horton helped in the investigation of the case on trial, he appeared as a defense witness. He said he gave Gillman a job in his department after Gillman was discharged at the Lawndale station in exchange for some information on another fraud case. He testified that his investigation showed Gillman was not involved in the Bartuska fraud.

James J. Stahl, 6423 Harper avenue, and Roy A. Ferris, 4875 Magnolia avenue, investigators for the commission, were the next defense witnesses. They tried to discredit Mertz' story by testifying that when they arrested Mertz he denied that Gillman was implicated.

Miss Marie Prefer, 7129 South Michigan avenue, was the last defense witness yesterday. She testified that it was Mertz who tried to make her type duplicate relief slips. Gillman, she said, knew nothing of this.

EX-GOV. HORTON OF TENNESSEE IS DEAD AT 68

Chapel Hill, Tenn., July 2.—(AP)—Former Gov. Henry H. Horton, who outrode impeachment proceedings and had a longer continuous service than any other chief executive of Tennessee in almost a century, died at his farm near here today. He was 68 years old. Death was caused by paralysis, following a blood clot on the brain. He had suffered from high blood pressure. He had been unable to speak for two weeks.

H. H. HORTON.

Horton was accused in 1931 of conspiring with Luke Lea, former U. S. Senator, Nashville publisher and influencial politician, and with Rogers Caldwell, investment banker, to let Lea and Caldwell dominate certain departments in exchange for their political support. The charges were rejected by the house of representatives.

Lea and his son, Luke Lea Jr., now are serving sentences in the North Carolina state penitentiary at Raleigh for defrauding an Asheville, N. C., bank.

HELEN MACBETH, IN SOCIETY MANY YEARS, DIES AT 97

Lived on Prairie Ave. in Glessner Home.

Miss Helen MacBeth, 97 years old, who was prominent in Chicago society of a former generation, died yesterday at Littleton, N. H., in the summer home of her brother-in-law, John J. Glessner, a director and official of the International Harvester company. Her sister, Mrs. Frances Glessner, who was well known in Chicago society for nearly 60 years, died two years ago at the age of 84. Another sister died a few years ago.

Miss MacBeth was born in Springfield, O., in 1837. She came to Chicago in 1884, 14 years after her sister's marriage to Mr. Glessner and lived in the Glessner family mansion at 1800 Prairie avenue.

Home Built in 1882.

The house, which is of granite, was built in 1882 as the last work of Henry A. Richardson of Boston, recognized as one of the great architects of America. When it was constructed the Prairie avenue neighborhood was the center of Chicago social life.

Nearby in those days lived the George M. Pullmans, the W. W. Kimballs, Byron L. Smith, the Marshall Fields, the Hugh McBirneys, T. B. Blackstone, the elder Philip Armours, Wirt Dexter, Dr. Frank Billings, and Philo A. Otis.

The Glessner home is among the last to be still occupied by representatives of early day families. Across the corner from the home is a vacant lot where once stood the home of George M. Pullman. Many of the other old houses bear room for rent signs. Nearly all of the old neighbors are dead.

House Given to Institute.

In 1924 Mr. Glessner presented his residence to the Illinois Institute of Architects, reserving the right to use it until his death.

Miss Macbeth and Mr. Glessner had gone east to open the summer home in New Hampshire, known as the Rocks.

Two other wills were admitted to probate:

SARA J. MOLINE, died April 19. Estate $15,000 to three sons and five daughters. Emma J. Moline, daughter, executrix.

DONALD SMITH, died April 20. Estate $7,500 to brother-in-law, nephew, and friend, James D. Shepherd, nephew, executor.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A dramatization of the highlights of the Nazi régime in Germany from the reichstag fire early in 1933 down to the present disorders will be presented during the Bundesen hour over WLS from 9 to 10 o'clock this morning. Al Halus will play the part of Hitler, and Les Tremayne, well known to W-G-N listeners for his work in "The Romance of Helen Trent," will be cast as Ernst Roehm, the Storm Troop chief who was put to death. Jack Holden will play Gen. Goering, Hitler's right hand man.

The supporting cast includes Joe Kelly, Wyn Orr, Maxine Garner, a relative of Vice President Garner, and Katherine Avery. The script was written by Hayden Roberts, who will be the narrator, Herbert Futran and John Welsh.

Harry W. Spingold, former dramatic director of W-G-N, died Sunday evening at Woodstock, N. Y. Spingold was known also to radio listeners as John Oliver. He left W-G-N several years ago to become radio director for the William Morris agency. Spingold was said to have been the first booker for Phil Baker, Ben Bernie, and Marilyn Miller.

Walter Damrosch will not be a guest conductor with the Chicago Symphony orchestra, heard over W-G-N and NBC from the Swift shell at the World's Fair. His musical appreciation broadcasts seem to have had a pronounced effect on the dean of American conductors' fee. Damrosch is reported to have asked a sum running even higher than the total cost of the symphony per week—well into the five figure bracket.

Mrs. Ossip Gabrilowitsch, wife of the conductor of the Detroit Symphony orchestra and daughter of Mark Twain, visited the orchestra at the Ford shell at the Fair the other day. She reported her husband still in Europe. He will come to Chicago early in August to conduct the orchestra for three days, stopping off on his way west to direct the Hollywood Bowl orchestra.

Berenice Taylor, W-G-N prima donna, is out of the hospital after an illness of several months. She will need further rest before she again is heard over the air. . . . Bob Elson addressed an assembly of Tilden High school summer students yesterday on his experiences as a sportscaster.

Gen. John J. Pershing, speaking from Paris to Admiral Byrd's party in Little America, will be heard over WBBM-CBS at 9 o'clock tomorrow evening.

BOY, 3, IS KILLED WHEN HE RUNS INTO LIMOUSINE

James Dresden, 3 years old, 227 Hill street, was fatally injured yesterday when he ran into the side of a limousine in front of a livery garage at 216 Hill street. Thedon Lavender, 4740 North Springfield avenue, took the youngster to the Henrotin Memorial hospital, where he died.

This death increased the Cook county automobile toll to 600 since Jan. 1.

Three men were injured, two probably fatally, last night when a rear tire blew out and threw their automobile against another car and then into a post at 74d street and Yates avenue. Those injured were Joseph Bauer, 53 years old, 2647 Cottage Grove avenue; Joseph P. Dillin, 38, 1601 South State street, and William Hurley, 35, 21 West Garfield boulevard. They were taken to the Jackson Park hospital, Bauer suffering from a skull fracture, Dillon from a crushed chest, and Hurley from body injuries.

TWO SWIMMERS, NECKS BROKEN IN DIVING, DIE

Two swimmers died yesterday in the Chicago area of broken necks.

Joseph Mazur, 27 years old, 2130 Chicago avenue, a chandelier maker, died in Passavant hospital. He dived off the breakwater at the foot of Superior street on June 23 and struck a rock.

At St. Therese's hospital in Waukegan Robert Bartneck, 42 years old, 1271 Clybourn avenue, died as a result of a dive on Sunday in shallow water at Bangs lake, in the western part of Lake county.

Critic Declares You Ought to Find Fun Here

Gangster Goes Soft as He Hears Mother Song.

"SING AND LIKE IT."
Produced by RKO.
Directed by William A. Seiter.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.
THE CAST.

Annie Snodgrass	Zasu Pitts
Ruby	Pert Kelton
Adam Frink	Edward Everett Horton
Fenny	Nat Pendleton
Toots	Ned Sparks
Oswald	John M. Qualen
Abercrombie	Richard Carle
Butch	Stanley Fields

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This story about a batty gangster who breaks down and goes marshmallow over a "mother" song sung by a lame-minded lady who works in a bank, OUGHT to make you laugh.

Fenny, master mind of as hard-boiled a lot of racketeers as ever you saw is, with his cohorts, engaged in robbing the aforementioned bank when, through an open window, drifts a refrain that goes something like this:

"Who drives away your fears?
Who dries your salty tears?
Sticks to you through the years?
You-oo-oor MOTH-ER!
Who lives you, bad or good
When, God knows, just she COULD
And from the gallows would Save you?—Your Moth-ER . . !"

Something goes—BLOB—inside the big, bad man known as Fenny.

"Ain't that be-yew-tiful!" he hoarses. "An' ain't it true dat dere ain't nobody in de world like your mudder? C'mon lugs. . . ."

He and the lugs go in search of the voice. They find it emanating from the stringy throat of Miss Annie Snodgrass, who is practicing at a rehersal for an entertainment the bank employes expect to perpetrate in the near future.

Miss Snodgrass et al. are nearly frightened out of their wits by the appearance in their midst of the stalking, black-browed gentlemen, who ease in through the back door, walk up the aisle like pallbearers and bring the weight of their concentrated stare to rest upon Miss Snodgrass, in whom melody is snuffed out by fear. She stares back with her mouth open.

"Sing it agin!" commands Fenny. The fear which snuffed out sound brings it back again. Over and over Annie sings to Fenny while tears roll down the latter's cheeks and his huge hands work convulsively on his cane. . . .

Result—Fenny decides Annie must go on the stage [the dream of her life] and bring the mother song to all men.

IS HIS RUBY MAD! And she, for months, having — unsuccessfully — brought all her wiles to bear on Fenny, that he might be persuaded to buy her a play and let her go back on the stage from which he had wrested her when he fell in love with her . . . !

Fenny's subjugation of a feverishly eccentric and most famous theatrical magnate, his adventures and those of Miss Snodgrass in theaterland—and at home—make lively seeing. Dialog and situations are slapstick and there's no sense at all to any of the story. But the acting's comprehensive and I thought the piece was fun.

Disappointment at the end, though. You get the idea you're going to meet Fenny's mudder, at last—and you don't. You get the idea from these enlightening remarks:

"I'm throwin' a birt'day party for me mudder, see? Over at the hotel. She just got out. I wanta get over there early before she's too plastered to recernize me. . . ."

KIND: Horror film, said to have been adapted from one of Edgar Allan Poe's stories.

SCARY? Too improbable to be much that way. A movie of this kind has to be either utterly utter like "Frankenstein," or else cater somewhat to your credibility if it is to send the proper sort of chills racing up and down the mass verterbrae.

ACTING: Excellent. Bela Lugosi and Boris Karloff in the sinister leads each an A-1 terrifier in his own right, do the best they can with roles that don't offer much in the way of opportunity. David Manners and Jacqueline Wells contribute pleasing love interest as a pair of honeymooners who find themselves, willy nilly, in a horrible predicament, completely surrounded by cats, corpses, underground passages, and the awful Messrs. Lugosi and Karloff.

DIRECTION: Leaves too many loose ends straggling around.

SETS, SCENERY, PHOTOGRAPHY: Ominously effective.

DIALOG: Shrug!

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Not much, I should say.

Front Views and Profiles

THERE was so much sentiment in the pageant that celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the picturesque little town of Wayne, Ill., held in the open pasture back of the Dunham mare barn Saturday evening, that it was no wonder there were tears in the eyes of some of the Wayne folk when the pageant ended with a huge bouquet of roses put in the arms of Jane Dunham.

Pageant—Preparation—Costume—Mr. Beery.

Miss Dunham, great-granddaughter of the Solomon Dunham who was one of the first settlers, wrote the pageant and arranged the pantomime, with the assistance of Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III. Her sister Barbara, Mrs. John Dole, who also lives in the old Dunham castle—the château built by Mark Dunham when the Dunhams' 2,000 acres of farm land was the largest farm in the country—also was in the pageant. W. Scott Linn and his sister, Katherine Linn, descendants of Gen. Winfield Scott Linn, in preparation for whose coming the Pottawattamies did a war dance in one of the early scenes of the pageant, were present. And many of the Wayne folk who appeared in the pantomime wearing shawls and bonnets and ancient tail coats and top hats that had come out of Wayne attics were lineal descendants of the pioneers who originally had worn them. The handsome Percheron horse led on in the horse auction scene, his mane and tail adorned with pink flowers, was the last Percheron to be sold from the Dunham barns, and the man who led him out was a son of a stableman who had died in the employ of the Dunhams. Most touching of all, perhaps, was the fact that Miss Wheeler, first school teacher of Dunham, represented in the pageant as a young woman with a bustle and a pompadour, watched the performance from one of the benches under the elms, a frail old lady in black.

IT was at the Wonderbread exhibit at A Century of Progress and a girl hanging to the arm of her escort said she wondered how a fellow got started doing that kind of work.

"Why, he has to get his college degree—in loafing," wisecracked her escort.

IF the critical minded want something to talk about they might withdraw their attention from feminine foibles such as stockingless legs and toenails tinted with scarlet and tipped with mother of pearl and take a look at what the men folks are doing. Buddy Rogers, the handsome young orchestra conductor at the College inn, may conduct in a fairly conventional attire—white linen double breasted tuxedo and wing collar—but catch him out some place. The time we saw him he wore a gray tweed coat with brass buttons, checked trousers of the check called dog tooth, a black tie, and a black handkerchief. The girls were fairly swooning.

A PRACTICAL note was included in a recent fashion film showing the latest English styles for men. One of them was a shirt with a fold in front that could be reversed in case of spilled gravy. . . . Women have been playing tennis in shorts for some time, but this summer the men are wearing them on the courts, too. A friend, looking at a club tennis court Sunday, commented that the players looked as if they had just jumped out of the bedroom window saying, "Let's play a set of tennis."

WALLACE BEERY, who was in town over the week-end to see the Fair, would have been a consoling sight for those upset by the latest sartorial effects for men. Mr. Beery looked just about as he does in the pictures—pretty sloppy—or would you prefer degagé and in need of a shave. He flew out in his Bellanca plane of the same model the Adamowicz brothers are using on their flight from New York to Warsaw, flying from Hollywood to Amarilla, Tex., thence to Chicago.

Elting-West Nuptials Will Be on July 18

Bride-to-Be Makes Plans for Simple Rites.

BY JUDITH CASS.

AT 120 Bellevue place, not far from the house at 48 Bellevue where she and her family lived for years, Miss Ruth Elting will become the bride of Mahion Ogden West on Wednesday afternoon, the 18th of this month. The ceremony will be read at 4:30 o'clock in the presence of the families and close friends, after which there will be a very small reception.

Miss Elting is keeping arrangements for the wedding as simple and informal as possible and she will have no attendants, nor will her mother, Mrs. Philip Le Fevre Elting, give a bridal dinner the night before the wedding. J. Sanford Otis will serve Mr. West as best man and Byron Elting will give his sister in marriage.

Mr. West's mother, Mrs. Frederick T. West, is delaying her departure for her summer home at Pittsfield, Mass., until after the 18th, and his two sisters, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson and Mrs. Perry M. Shepard, will come to Chicago for the wedding. The McPhersons, who live in Winnetka, are leaving Friday for the Huron Mountain club in northern Michigan, where they will occupy Victor Elting's cottage for the summer, but they will return for the 18th. The Shepards will come from their home in Geneva, N. Y., to attend the wedding.

Miss Elting and Mr. West are enjoying many parties being given for them, and tonight Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas are entertaining at a dinner dance at their home in Lake Forest for the popular couple.

Another gay party in Lake Forest tonight will be the one that the Gordon Phelps Kelleys are giving for the A. Thomas Taylors at the Shoreacres club. The former Geraldine Swift and her husband have been feted at many parties since their return from a western wedding trip, and this promises to be among the gayest of them, for the Kelleys are excellent hosts.

Ingersoll Wedding to Be on Saturday.

An interesting wedding which will take place Saturday in Lake Forest is that of Miss Mary Theresa Ingersoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Ingersoll of Beloit, Wis., to Euclid Madison Covington of New York. The ceremony will be read at 4:30 in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hosmer Morse, by the Rev. Edward Dwight Eaton, former president of Beloit college, who read the service for Mr. and Mrs. Morse when they were married in the chapel of the college.

Miss Ingersoll will have her sister, Miss Charlotte Ingersoll, for her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be her cousins, the Morses' daughters, Baroness Beck von Peccoz, and Mrs. William Covington. Mr. Covington is a cousin of the bridegroom. Herbert Jenks of Evanston, the bridegroom's brother-in-law, will be best man, and Charles H. Morse Jr., and Roy Walholm will usher.

Miss Ingersoll has been here for only six months, having spent the last five years in Munich. The baroness and her sister are leaving town right after the wedding, the baroness to sail home to Germany the middle of the month, and Mrs. Covington to join her husband and children in Seattle.

At a quiet home wedding last evening Miss Eleanor Martha Miller, daughter of Mrs. Richard Oren Miller of 1015 Sheridan road, Evanston, became the bride of Charles Augustus Wustlich Jr. of New York. The Rev. Paul Wolfe read the ceremony at 7 o'clock in the presence of a few close friends. The wedding was kept very simple because of the recent death of the bride's father. She had no attendants, but John Ristine Jr. of Evanston served Mr. Wustlich as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Vernon seminary at Washington, D. C., and has been studying art in New York for the last few years. Mr. Wustlich attended Princeton university and the University of Munich. He and his bride will be at home at 12 East 97th street, New York, after Aug. 1.

Lamports to Mark Wedding Anniversary.

The Richard M. Lamports are celebrating their first wedding anniversary on Saturday. They have invited 14 of their closest friends to the Glen View club for an evening of swimming, dinner and bridge. Mrs. Lamport is the former Julia Kramer.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Hitt of Washington are arriving today to enjoy a bit of the racing season at Arlington. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz. It is too bad Mrs. Hitt wasn't here yesterday to see her two-year-old, Barcarolle, win the fourth race, but she undoubtedly will have the pleasure of

N. U.'s Russell Now a Star, but Still Is a Bucker

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 2.—[Special.]—Reb Russell used to do the bucking as a star full back for the Northwestern university football team, but now his horse does the bucking for him. Reb and his big blue-eyed white horse Rebel have just finished another cowboy film thriller, "The Man from Hell," in which the ex-Evanston athlete and ex-Oklahoma cowhand fights, gallops, and shoots his way through eight reels as the star of the production.

"I learned a lot about making movies in this one," Reb says, "and one thing I learned is to wear knee pads and elbow pads again. I thought I had discarded such things when I quit football. But after tearing the knees out of my pants and incidentally tearing the hide off both knees in some of the fight scenes, riding scenes, and underbrush scenes, I began to get smart. You can always say this about a Russell: when things grow so bad a Russell begins to lose his hide he will find some way to correct them."

Reb had two former cowboy film stars, Yakima Canutt and Fred Kohler, in his film, and his leading woman was Ann Darcy.

Big Ten and Notre Dame football fans will be interested to note that Reb still doesn't know his own strength. Reb was supposed to pull a punch on Canutt, who was to fall backward into the arms of two men. Reb didn't pull hard enough, so Canutt and his two "catchers" both went sprawling. "Yak" didn't feel overfriendly about it for a minute.

In another scene Russell had to catch Kohler with a wrestling hold as the 255 pound heavy lunged at him, lift Kohler onto his back, whirl him around and then slam him.

"That was the hardest work I ever did," Reb says, panting at the mere recollection. "They made me grab Kohler and lift him a couple of times for rehersal. Did you ever lift a man weighing 255 pounds? Then we shot the scene two or three times and after that I had to do it for the still camera. I didn't realize how tuckered out I was till that evening when I sat down to eat supper. I was so all in I couldn't get up from the table."

Reb looks like a promising bet among the new crop of outdoor type movie leading men. He's on contract to Willis R. Kent, an independent producer. Kent already has been bid $20,000 for the contract he holds on the Northwestern star. But Kent isn't selling. Considerable of the interest in Russell's cowboy film work arises from his ownership of the talented big white trick horse Rebel, which Russell drove out from Oklahoma with him in a trailer behind Reb's auto last December. Joel McCrea and two others have sought to buy Rebel.

"There are only two things I don't like about Hollywood," Russell says confidingly. "One of them is that Hattie May isn't out here. And another is that the fried chicken doesn't taste the same. But I'm going to send for Hattie May to come out from Oklahoma and both my troubles will be ended."

Hattie May is Mrs. Hattie Russell, his mother. Reb is filming his pictures at the old Charlie Ray studio in East Hollywood, which has been tenantless for years.

Both Shirley Temple and her 5 year old stand-in, Marilyn Granas, have received new bracelets from Henry Hathaway, their director in "Now and Forever," at Paramount. Shirley got a gold one and Marilyn a silver one. They got them because they were good girls and expedited the shooting of scenes. Others in the cast who did NOT get bracelets include Carole Lombard, Gary Cooper and the 70 year old stage actress, Charlotte Granville.

Producer Sam Goldwyn, who recently announced abandonment of his scheduled filming of "Barbary Coast" because of the current movie reform wave, is also abandoning plans to film "The Wizard of Oz," but not for the same reason. "Oz" had a bit not enough of what "Barbary Coast" had a bit too much of.

Paul Lukas and Bryan Aherne played an exciting chess game between shots on scenes of "The Fountain." You could tell it was exciting by the furrows in their foreheads. Preston Foster was so interested in his fishing that he forgot about the gas in his power cruiser and ran out of fuel when two miles out. It required four hours' hard work for him to get back into Newport Bay, Cal., harbor with an emergency paddle.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A new hand mirror is specially designed for expert making up. It is large enough to reflect the whole face and is light in weight.

All done with the aid of mirrors!

What? Your makeup, of course! where would you be without the silver backed hand piece, or, rather, where would your rouge and lipstick be?

Mirrors are things we take pretty much for granted since the walls and doors of modern houses and apartments are liberally sprinkled with them. But the hand mirror is something else again. It's your best friend when you ply the rouge and powder puff or reach for the tweezers and decide to do some eyebrow grooming.

Nearly every woman has a decorative hand mirror or two, a handsome piece to serve as dressing table ornamentation more than anything else. Most of them aren't practical on all points.

In a downtown store not long ago we came across a hand mirror that's a gem. Here are its good points: It's round and large enough to show you your whole pretty face. It's light in weight. It's true. And it's amazingly inexpensive.

Because it does reflect the whole face at once it's a help in making up expertly, balancing the rouge as perfectly on one cheek as on the other and getting just as little eye shadow on one lid as you do on the other, a little trick you miss when you have to shift your hand mirror from side to side.

While it was designed for the sole purpose of practicality, this hand mirror isn't without decorative value. Handle and back are of chromium, the back is simply decorated with an etched crossbar design.

Such a serviceable mirror would be an elegant little thing to have around the dressing room at any time, but if you're going camping or spending the summer in a rural place you'll find it worth a good deal more than the small sum it will cost you.

Hosiery hazards grow less each season, the weird shades of gray that turned la ender after the first bath have vanished, attractive skin shades are legion, and everything is under control. Some new arrivals manage to furnish some mild excitement among the shoppers who have a weakness for dark shades.

If you MUST buy and wear black hose, do, we beg of you, wear these new thin, thin stockings that are unquestionably the merest wisps of black film you ever discovered. Believe it or not, they are so gossamer thin that cellophane protectors are kept over them even during the showing.

Now the trick to remember about this black wave is that you wear black hose, if you wear them at all, for sports costumes or for sudden and dramatic contrast. For instance, these films of black are what you wear with all-white costumes, with white footwear, slim white suits, and such. The same thing is to be remembered in the case of navy blue and all the colored hose that have appeared rather startlingly in the various shops. Otherwise the tried and true rule of various tones of skin tan are proper for summer afternoon and general wear.

Have you heard about the knee or rather just to the knee length stockings? For very slim straight up and down shoppers who do not use muchly gartered foundation wear these are finds. They come in three tones of sun tan or skin shades, have a band of elastic knitted into the top and will stay anchored no matter how active the wearer. They are cool, comfortable, and have been used by sportswomen with most satisfactory results. Price tags are extremely modest.

L. S. Rockefeller Is Engaged to New York Girl

Harvard Law Student Will Wed in August.

New York, July 2.—(AP)—The engagement of Laurance Spelman Rockefeller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., to Miss Mary French was announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John French of New York and Greenwich, Conn.

Miss French, a graduate of Rosemary Hall, attended Vassar for two years. Since leaving Vassar she has been studying sculpture at the Art Students' league in New York.

She is a member of the New York Junior league and the Cosmopolitan club.

Her father is a retired New York lawyer.

Rockefeller, youngest son of John D. Rockefeller Jr., has just finished his first year at Harvard law school. He is a graduate of Princeton, where he was a member of the Ivy club.

The wedding will take place in August.

Rockefeller, as were his brothers, was reared with little ostentation. His father sought to have all of the Rockefeller children reminded as little as possible of their wealth.

Young Rockefeller is seldom seen in night clubs and is said by his friends to be a very studious young man.

Miss French's father, a graduate of Dartmouth in the class of 1886, is a member of the University, Union League, Colony, and Cosmopolitan clubs.

Miss French has one sister, Elizabeth, who was just graduated at Vassar, and one brother, John French Jr., who was graduated this year at Harvard law school.

Her mother, the former Mary M. Billings, is a daughter of Frederick Billings, pioneer in the building of the Northern Pacific railroad.

Cecil De Mille Asks Educators to Improve Speech Instruction

Hollywood, Cal., July 2.—(AP)—Cecil B. De Mille, film producer and director, today addressed a plea to educators for improved methods in teaching the American language in public schools so the screen may obtain players who can speak correctly.

"As a producer and director of motion pictures I have found great difficulty in procuring actors and actresses in Hollywood who can speak the American language correctly," De Mille declared in a letter sent to heads of sixteen prominent institutions of higher learning.

"Those who do speak correctly are at a premium, while the bulk of the available players are found to speak in one long string of vowels, letting consonants fall where they may," he said. "These latter actors represent the result of the general American system of education, and my problem with them is also the problem of every other director in the motion picture industry."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 2.—[Special.]—The ambassador of Poland, Stanislaw Patek, is back from a week-end in Atlantic City.

Senator Robert J. Bulkley and Mrs. Bulkley left today for their home in Cleveland before going to Lake Forest to visit Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins. Miss Katharine Bulkley is already at Lake Forest.

SUNBURN.. NO LONGER RUINS OUTINGS
THANKS TO SENSATIONAL NEW ADVANCE IN TREATMENT!

SPEND the day at the Fair or the beach, on the golf links and leave behind that old, fearful feeling: "Oh, my! What that sunshine is going to do to my skin!"

Now a hospital burn treatment which doctors have used with positively amazing success for over twenty years has been tested for sunburn and found equally wonderful. This treatment is called HYDROSAL—a "colloidal" aluminum solution. Not only relieves pain in a wonderful new way but promotes quicker healing. Simply apply HYDROSAL, in either liquid or ointment form, to the burn. Even in severe cases the pain and "fire" are relieved in a matter of minutes. HYDROSAL is completely unlike most antiseptics. It is positively non-irritating, non-burning. Acts to minimize destruction of tissue. Does not stain skin or clothes, either. Unusually effective in fire burns, cuts, etc., because it promotes such quick healing. When cases of eczema, poison ivy, boils and the like are treated with HYDROSAL, amazing results have been found—not only in relief from itching and burning but in actual speed of healing. Be sure you enjoy your holiday with no painful after effects. Get HYDROSAL now—either the ointment or the liquid. 30c and 60c sizes.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young sinner. She sinkes him to Toronto, where she can get him conditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for an opportunity of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer; Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara sells her car for expense money and gives halt to Jerry. He follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry as Mulligan. He and Jerry are antagonistic. After three days Jerry is fed up with camp life. He tricks Cara into leaving with him. They become lost in the wilds. Jerry's true character is revealed to Cara when she confesses her father's failure. Harmer comes to their rescue. He sends Jerry on his way back to Toronto.

INSTALMENT XXXVIII.

RESCUED AND PROTECTED.

The hunter was separating notes from a roll. "There is your money. We're clear, Flint. Buck will bring your lot back. As for your few duds, you'll get 'em sometime."

They began to trot, and then to canter slowly—the gait of tired animals—over the prairie. And the twilight began to cover them so quickly that Harmer knew he himself had no time to lose.

He hitched his rifle higher on his back, hoping to keep the muzzle out of the water, undressed and put his clothes in the waterproof saddlebag, strapped it and the bed roll and his boots on Bill, and led the horse down to the shallower water he had discovered. They were able, here, to ford the last twenty yards, and then a determined scramble brought them up the steeps of the rocky bank with no injury to either. The dogs followed.

Harmer pulled on his clothes, disregarding his wet skin.

The fire still burned well, to the left of them, and the horse, having learned the meaning of promised comfort near a campfire, went willingly towards it.

"Good boy!" Harmer said to him, alongside, with the rein loose over his arm.

Cara had her eyes closed, and tears running under the lids when he knelt down beside her, still holding Bill. He stayed quiet, looking at her for a full minute, then he felt her pulse, then pulled a flask of whisky from his pocket and said: "You mayn't like it, but drink." She drank obediently, her eyes still closed. He rose, and took Bill down to drink, and then tethered him, unsaddled him and took the bit out of his mouth.

Very soon she stood beside him in the only garment she possessed.

Cara was exhausted and she was cold. Harmer took the sleeping sack, went back to her, unrolled it, and said: "Get inside." She crept in, and he drew the sack close up around her.

"Awfully ashamed," she murmured.

He threw himself down beside her.

"Of what?"

"This is the worst of backwoods manners—making silly trouble."

"I don't suppose you made it."

"Let's leave that unsettled," she begged. She was astonishingly tired, and her eyes closed again.

"Go to sleep," he said gruffly. "I'll wake you for a nice hot supper by and by."

She was in a doze almost before his words were spoken. He gave the dogs leathery strips of dried meat and biscuit and then began his preparations for a meal. It was savory and good. But when he bent over her again she was so fast asleep, lying so luxuriantly abandoned to rest, that after all he ate alone.

And he drew the fire together, stoked it with heavy logs, made a five foot screen partly around her, by whittling some of the deadwood in the forest into stakes, and interlacing through them a hedge of small boughs. No movement of his awoke her. He rolled himself in his blanket, and let himself doze lightly. He allowed himself snatches of rest, and it seemed soon that he saw dawn break.

When Cara awoke her fire was still warm, and the sun had risen. It was 6 o'clock. Rest had comforted her ineffably. She lay looking up at the quiver of leaves of trees on the fringe of the forest, and interpreting sounds near by. The two dogs were rustling about in the undergrowth, foraging for something fresh. She guessed that another fire had been built, for there was a fragrance of boiling coffee, and no pots or pans were within her range of vision. She saw a leafy screen that gave her privacy, and she heard the sounds of a restless horse, to whom a man said, "Steady." The last events of the night before were not quite clear in her head, and it took her some moments to remember that the voice was that of Mulligan the Hunter. Yes, Mulligan had "rescued" her and Jerry from predicament.

Predicament. And suddenly, on her waking thoughts, a wild flush seemed to reach from her toes to the roots of her hair. That was a light word. It was more than predicament as soon as that queer hatred arose, with the telling of the truth, between her and Jerry. Supposing they were still alone in these wilds, hungry, starving, insect-plagued, lost. . . . What regret and despair for all the goodness of life lost would have risen up between them, inciting them to combat. Fatal combat. If they had ever returned to civilization, if fortune had so favored them, it would have been with memories of lust, and bitterness, and suffering and loss, resentment and contempt; also that hatred, already sprung, unleashed and grown a thousandfold.

The sound of a man's whistling—not Jerry's. He would be much too sure with life to whistle this morning. She waited for awhile, and then started to whistle in unison.

Immediately a voice called: "Good morning. Really awake?"

"And hungry, and dirty."

"We'll see to that. May I come?"

She was sitting up cross-legged outside the sleeping bag, when the hunter looked over the screen. He brought a canvas bucket half full of hot water, a towel, soap and a comb.

"'Fraid that's my comb, Miss Follette."

"What a nice comb, then," she answered contentedly.

He went back to his fire. He had bacon and biscuits, cereal and tinned milk, and coffee. Very soon she stood beside him, straight and slender in the only garment she possessed, her swimming suit, barefoot. Her lovely hair was orderly and shone like a crown of red bronze.

"I give you back your nice comb."

"Thanks," he smiled, and pocketed it.

She looked about her, and saw Bill tethered alone.

"Where's Jerry? And you didn't come alone last night?"

He straightened quickly. His surprise was genuine. He had not realized that last night she had not seen nor cared what happened. She had been too far gone in exhaustion. He said curtly and guardedly:

"Why, didn't you see Flint swim across to Otis and me?"

"I ———," she thought. "I think I remember you called him. Then . . . I didn't think any more. I knew we were found; nothing mattered. But now—tell me. He's here?"

"I sent him and Otis on ahead. You were obviously too tired."

"On ahead? Back to the camp?"

"I'll tell you all about it when you've had breakfast, Miss Follette. Breakfast's the first thing."

"But—you sent them back to the camp?" Her voice was quick with anxiety. He was pouring the coffee, and she answered herself: "Of course. Where else should you send them? Of course!"

"Come and sit down."

"They won't be back yet. We may even catch them."

"That's unlikely. Now—coffee. And this cereal. And my bacon cooked to a turn. You'll do fine." His face from becoming suddenly grim and serious, changed again to the face of the man who had whistled over the camp chores, and brought her hot water. They began to eat.

Brooding About Cool Romance Is Most Futile

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I love a boy desperately and he loved me until just recently his affections began to change. ANNA."

Boys take it just as hard, too, when the light of their lives grow cold. Berky can't eat, sleep, or work for thinking about the girl who told him less than two months ago that she could never live without him. Today she not only lives without Berky, but is hitting the high spots with a former pal of his, having the time of her young life while Berky ails.

It's no fun, true, to find yourself out on the limb. But there you are, Anna and Berky, and what are you going to do about it? You can't just go on hanging by the threads of an aching heart. It doesn't get you a blessed thing and, least of all, the return of the affections you covet.

What you want to do is to say: "Well, it was grand while it lasted!" And proceed on the assumption that there's no winning back of a tired love. It's a good working assumption because reconquering an old love is futile. Consequently the more quickly you can make up your mind that you are through in that one spot the better primed you are for recovering your self-esteem in a new heart interest. It's the only remedy. Get a substitute and get it quickly.

After all, there's no disgrace in being let down. It's happened to countless men and women. It is just one of those things that you have to take on the chin and forget as quickly as possible. It is nothing against your character or your charms or your power of attraction. Some one else comes along and proves that plainly enough if you have the sense to let go this number one before you are completely shattered. Two people meet, are seemingly made for each other, but a few months, a year, maybe, and the truth comes out that happiness lay elsewhere for one or the other. It's nobody's fault, we repeat. There's nothing you can do about it but hitch your wagon to another star.

Of course, you'll have an ache, a pain. That's natural, but it is not natural to prolong that pain pursuing a fleeing object.

Amateur Journalists Open Convention in City Today

Amateur journalists, whose hobby consists of publishing and contributing to small papers and magazines circulated free of charge through a central mailing bureau to others interested in the same work, will gather today at the annual convention of the Amateur Press association at the Palmer house. One of the oldest to attend will be C. W. Smith of Haverhill, Mass., who, at 82 years, is an active amateur journalist, editing and printing his own journal. He began publishing his Monthly Visitory in 1889.

Sally's Guests to Enjoy Rides While at Fair

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I promised I'd tell you boys and girls about some of the exciting things and fun we'll have out on Enchanted Island—well, here goes! After we've visited the Black Forest, the Swiss and Colonial Villages, and Midget City, we'll ride over to the Island on those Greyhound buses I told you about.

There we'll enjoy just about every form of amusement any child could possibly desire. For all you boys who've always wanted to be engineers and love to ride on trains there's a miniature railroad, including a gasoline driven locomotive, a whistle and a bell.

"Adventure Land" is just what the name implies—there are laughing trees, Brownies, white mice, a witch's house, all kinds of thrilling things in it!

And the Auto Scooters are swell—you drive your own automobile, only it doesn't generally go the way you want it to—and the Magic Mountain, as most of you know, is a great long slide. We'll go on all these, on a merry-go-round, a Ferris wheel, and lots of other treats on July 11—so you'd better get that letter written if you want to come with me!

I forgot to tell you yesterday that if we have time we're going to stop and see the Diamond Mines, where there is a collection of famous jewelry which is protected by automatic police alarms, tear gas bombs, and kept in disappearing safes controled by an armed guard in a steel watch tower. [I guess from that you realize that we can look, but musn't touch!] We'll also see reproductions of the actual mines in Kimberly, South Africa.

I can't take any more time to tell you about our party today, children, but you know we'll have a good time. When you're writing don't forget these three things—you must write your own letter, it must include your name, address, and age, and it must be delivered to me at Tribune Tower by Thursday of this week. The mailman has a holiday tomorrow, so don't waste any time mailing your letter to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Hollywood

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., July 2.—The studio preview; This differs from the much publicized sneak preview which every one knows about. A studio preview is one to which the press is graciously invited; it is a special occasion and a special picture.

You can be certain of one of two things about the picture to be exhibited. One: The studio is proud of the picture and believes it has something great. Two: The picture cost plenty, they are not so certain of it and they wish to do something to insure its success.

The preview of the picture takes place in a large studio projection room. The seats are comfortable and smoking is permitted. A fleet of the press is present; the syndicate writers, the reviewers from the trade papers and the fan magazines, and the correspondents from the big metropolitan papers. They are the first of the press to see the picture and their opinion is supposed to mean something.

Later, however, the reviewer discovers that his opinion means something only if he likes the picture. Generally there is a buffet luncheon or supper arranged on one of the studio stages. The stage has been made up for the occasion, the prop department placing the necessary chairs and tables. There is food and any refreshment desired.

The producer of the picture, or one of the executives, wanders about. He is generally with one of the highpowered press agents and they ask you how you liked the picture. They ask you but expect and want to hear only one answer.

If you tell a producer you don't like the picture you must be prepared to step up on an imaginary soap box and enter into a debate. You can always be certain of the formula answer. The answer by which every producer sincerely believes he clinches the argument.

After you have logically stated the reasons why you didn't care for the epic in question, the producer dismisses your brief with: "The picture will make a fortune. Wait until it is released and I'll show you the box office receipts."

With the block system of booking, the added stage attractions, the double feature bills, a heavy advertising campaign and other tricks of this movie trade they can force any picture to do better business than it would ordinarily do. All these tricks don't show on their balance sheets.

The producers merely display the theater grosses proudly—and sometimes not too proudly.

The producer's big argument is that he is making pictures for the masses, not for the critics. He is always eager to point out a picture which was panned and tell you of the money it made. If they don't value criticism why do they extend a welcome to it? I never yet heard a producer pan a critic for writing a good notice.

At the studio preview everything is done to sell you the picture. The stars of the flicker may be present and they will wander about being very cordial.

The gag about Hollywood calling every picture great, terrific, and the best ever is not strictly a gag. It happens at every one of these previews and what is more the producer sincerely believes it. He also believes that you don't know about pictures if you don't think in terrific words. In fact the only time you're given credit for knowing what you're talking about is when you talk the same language as the producer.

It is a difficult thing to have to tell the producer right to his face that you don't like the picture. It is difficult only because the majority of the producers can't take it. They resent it personally.

seeing at least one and perhaps more of her horses win while she is here.

One who is in almost daily attendance at the park northwest of the city tells us that the crowd this year is smarter and more interesting than ever. The reservations for luncheon at the Post and Paddock tomorrow are numerous and it is certain that a large section of society will celebrate the Fourth by going to the races. Mrs. Dodge Sloane, who was here for the opening and who was expected to return this week, has postponed her arrival until next week.

One of the most interesting—pictorially—parties at Arlington yesterday was one composed of Miss Narcissa Swift, Mrs. Walter F. McLallen III., and Mrs. Calvin Fentress Jr. Miss Swift was hatless and stockingless and her blue frock was entirely backless: a sensible outfit for a day like yesterday, every one agreed. Mrs. McLallen was smart in diagonally striped blue and white and Mrs. Fentress was as fresh and pretty as a daffodil in yellow.

Mrs. Hooker Guest of Relatives Here.

A charming Californian who is stopping in Chicago for several days to see the Fair and her Chicago relatives and connections is Mrs. Robert G. Hooker Jr. [Dolly Kuhn], who is visiting her brother, J. Wendel Kuhn, and Mrs. Kuhn in Geneva. Mrs. Hooker is on her way to her home in San Mateo from Manchester-by-the-Sea, where she was the guest of her sister, Mrs. P. J. Coolidge [Catherine Kuhn]. Mrs. Hooker is a sister-in-law of young Lent Hooker, whose engagement to Miss Nancy Morse was announced while he was visiting her and her mother, Mrs. George A. Richardson, in Lake Forest several weeks ago.

When Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Collier finish their wedding trip Aug. 1 they will be at home in Walpole, a suburb of Boston. The wedding of Miss Eleanor McCormick and Mr. Collier took place last Saturday in Bar Harbor.

Chicagoans Go on Ranch Vacations.

Miss Jean Armstrong and her younger sister, Miss Mary Armstrong, have gone west with their father, Horace White Armstrong, for a month of roughing it on a Wyoming ranch. Mrs. Armstrong and Frank H. Armstrong II. remained in Winnetka.

Miss Susan Badgerow has gone west, to spend two months at the Tepee Lodge in Wyoming. Her parents, the Harve G. Badgerows, have rented their Winnetka home to the Eric DeLamarters and are motoring leisurely about the middle west. The junior Scott J. Dows [Louise Badgerow] will remain in town for the summer, with the exception of a fortnight in August, which they will spend on the Sims' ranch in Michigan visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Sims.

Other ranchers are Mrs. Ralph C. Hamill and her daughter, Miss Margaret Hamill, and her sons, Ralph and Hunt, who went to the Hamills' New Mexico ranch last Sunday. Dr. Hamill will join his family there late in August and return with them after Labor day.

The Roswell B. Masons and their children, Miss Anne Mason, Julia and Sylvia, are at their summer home at Lac du Flambeau for the next few weeks. Around the end of July Mr. and Mrs. Mason and Miss Mason and Julia will go abroad to spend August in England, leaving the youngest daughter, Sylvia, at the camp to be chaperoned by the Frederic O. Masons, who also live in Winnetka.

The Wallace C. Winters are moving to Lake Forest Thursday to occupy Mrs. Pullman McIlvaine's house on Green Bay road for the summer. Their son and daughter-in-law, the Daniel R. Winters, have gone to California for the summer.

Mrs. McIlvaine and her younger children, Catherine and Allan, are leaving Thursday for Mrs. McIlvaine's summer home at North Hatley, in Canada, and they will return to Lake Forest after Labor day. The elder daughter, Margaret, will be in camp this summer.

Mrs. McMillan Returns Home.

Well on the road to recovery, Mrs. James G. McMillan of Winnetka, who had been ill in Phoenix for several weeks, has returned to her north shore home.

Mrs. Carl Leigh is giving a luncheon today at her home, 46 Cedar street, for the committee in charge of the annual fall benefit of the Chicago Convalescent Home for Women and Children. Mrs. Edwin S. Ford is chairman of the committee planning it.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Evans are giving a large dinner party tonight in the Sponsors' club in the Irish village at the Fair.

The numerous clubs that have been started at the Fair this year are popular meeting places for socialites. The new English club in Merrie England was opened Sunday night.

Reno Wedding Plans Set Record; Exceed Divorces

Reno, Nev., July 2.—(AP)—Cupid made further gains in his race against the Reno "divorce mill" during June. Six hundred and twenty-one couples, the largest total for any month in four years, obtained licenses to wed. The record, 667 licenses, was established in June, 1931. Last month's divorce suits totaled only 220. This represented an increase of 30 over June, 1933.

Senator Davis Announces Mooseheart Gets $847,000

Atlantic City, N. J., July 2.—(AP)—United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, director general of the Loyal Order of Moose, in his annual report today said $847,000 had been raised in trust funds by the lodges for Mooseheart, children's home in Illinois. Davis addressed representatives of 600 lodges and 300 women's chapters at the opening session of the 46th annual convention.

Fall Debut

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Nancy Doering, youngest daughter of the junior Edmund J. Doerings, is to be one of the coming season's debutantes. She is spending the summer with her parents near Harbor Point, Mich., returning to Chicago in time to be presented at a tea and a dinner-dance in November. Because she is pretty and vivacious she undoubtedly will be one of the most popular of the debutantes just as her older sisters, Mrs. George Peck Earling [Edna Doering] and Mrs. R. Martin Stevenson [Virginia Doering] were when they "came out."

BY MARY MEADE.

The joys of cheese and cracker parties need no glowing adjectives. We all know about them. But the business of keeping those opened and left-over cheeses, which often remain, until they can be eaten up is a matter which deserves a good deal more thought than most party makers give to it. For it just isn't smart food management to consume one-fourth of a purchase of cheeses and then throw away the other three-fourths some days later because we forgot to treat it with proper respect during its stay with us.

One official listing informs us that there are 400 different varieties of cheese, each distinctive in itself, manufactured from different ingredients, and aged under various curing conditions. Each of these cheeses needs special care to keep it from molding, to retain its delicate consistency, and to preserve all of its delicious flavors. These hints which follow come as the result of a recent careful study of the care of cheese. This study has been made to give homemakers the greatest possible pleasure for their cheese money.

Most important, and something never to forget if you would keep cheeses at their best, do not allow them to remain on the pantry shelves or on the kitchen table whether opened or sealed, whether in bulk, glass, or carton. Cheese is perishable just as are other dairy products. Light, drafts, warmth, and moisture are all enemies to the best interests of cheese. The refrigerator is the place for cheese—the top shelf is the best location.

Roquefort should be placed in the refrigerator and covered. If kept in a cool, dark spot it will keep for several months without any signs of undesirable spoilage. Before serving, let it stand at room temperature for 30 to 40 minutes. And whether Roquefort is fresh or has been opened before, handle it gently to avoid breaking. A thin table knife or the fine wire on one of these cheese knives, which looks like a scroll saw, is the item with which to do the cutting.

Swiss cheese which has had slices cut from it should be covered snugly with a wet cloth and placed in the refrigerator. Also, if each exposed surface is cut alternately there seems to be less tendency toward dryness and shrinkage.

Edam cheeses or the baby goudas—these round or pumpkin shaped cheese balls with the shiny red jackets—are easily kept fresh and sweet by their own hard outer coating. They should be served by cutting out the top to form a lid with slanting edges. This is lifted and the amount desired scooped out. Then back on goes the lid until next time. But sometimes even this isn't enough to keep a few mold "feathers", from taking out squatters' rights on the inner surfaces. It's best, therefore, to rub butter over the cut areas. Any mold which appears should be wiped off at once. This variety of cheese should always be stored in a cool place free from drafts.

Camembert is the rich dessert cheese which mellows within from the workings of the mold on its firm outer crust. This cheese has in it a large proportion of cream and therefore is even more likely than other cheeses to spoil. It should always be stored in the refrigerator and placed snugly under an inverted bowl, which keeps out air. About half an hour before serving Camembert bring it out into the room to warm itself for spreading.

And finally, to wind up with a generalization, no matter how hard and dry cheese is, by covering it completely with a wet cloth and leaving it to the care of the refrigerator over night, you will find that by morning it has become again soft and wholly desirable.

Heart Patients Give Thanks to Free Ice Fund

THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund for years has been known for its service to babies and small children because the ice delivered to their impoverished homes kept their milk fresh and sweet. Yesterday the United Charities, administrator of the fund for THE TRIBUNE, pointed to an increasing demand for ice among older people, particularly those suffering from heart disease.

"During this terribly hot weather of the last month we have issued many an emergency ticket where ice packs were needed for heart disease sufferers," Miss Edna Mae Wray, head of the charities' ice fund department, said. "I can't remember when we've had so many emergency calls for heart cases.

"Just last Saturday a little old lady came early in the morning sent by her physician. Her husband had nearly died of a heart attack the night before. The poor thing was nearly all in, she had walked so far. Today," Miss Wray added, selecting a letter from a stack on her desk, "I received this: 'Mr. F. and myself thank you for your kind assistance. We have received our tickets and this expresses our deepest appreciation.'

"We find these emergency cases very appreciative and the letters of thanks they write show how deeply grateful they are because ice is sent them right away. Another letter here was written by a man whose wife is ill with heart trouble. He thanks us 'for your prompt service in getting tickets to me.'

"Among other older persons to ask for ice was an aged man whose wife had just had a paralytic stroke. He said he couldn't come to get the tickets, since he couldn't leave his wife alone, so we sent them special delivery, and in the meantime called the ice man to rush ice to the home. The old man said he had often contributed to the ice fund in the past and now he needed help himself."

The return yesterday to high temperatures brought requests for additional tickets from one nursery and one family organization whose supply issued at the opening of the season had been exhausted. Other calls poured in from individuals, many of whom were referred to welfare agencies to which they were known, although "emergency" cases such as heart disease were tided over temporarily.

Contributions totaling $69.50 were received by the ice found yesterday, pushing the grand total received since the fund opened over the $400 mark. Those sending gifts were:

Mrs. H. W. Cowan	$25.00
A friend	25.00
J. D. Goss	12.50
P. F. M.	5.00
Mamie Strauss	2.00
Total	$ 69.50
Grand total	414.02

Contributions both to the ice fund and the Camp Algonquin fund, which provides needy mothers and children with free two weeks' vacations, may be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Salvation Army Camp Will Open to Children Thursday

The Salvation Army camp at Upper Camp Lake, Wis., will be turned over to 150 underprivileged mothers and children from the congested districts on Thursday, following a July 4 celebration there tomorrow for the life saving scouts and guards of the organization. A surprise awaiting the visitors this year is a series of wooden cut-outs of fairy tale characters, Indians and life sized animals, which are distributed among the trees throughout the camp grounds.

Marriages Gain on Repeal of 'Stop and Think' Law

Davenport, Ia., July 2.—[Special.]—Marriage license business in Scott county picked up nearly 300 per cent during the last fiscal year, the first 12 months after the repeal of the five day marriage law. During the last year of the "stop and think" law only 152 licenses were issued. This year 573 licenses were issued.

Basket, High Tub Needed in Care of Baby

Bathinette Saves Strain on Mother's Back.

For the prospective mother we have the following: A layette list, a list of reading references for the prospective mother's care of herself, and advice on how and where to obtain medical and nursing care. Names of places where the equipment mentioned here can be bought will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The mother who first doubled up a blanket, put it in a clothes basket, and then laid her baby on it, started something. It proved so eminently practical that it is no longer considered a makeshift. A carrying basket is now its name in the baby's equipment department, and it has two long strong handles that slip safely over your arm when you want to move your precious small burden around.

Some of these shown with a raised base or stand are quite reasonably priced. Others more expensive are larger or are lined to keep little drafts from trickling through the wicker. There are other gadgets in the same class, like little white duck hammocks swung on supports, sometimes with a canvas cover, for outdoor use.

The bathinette of rubber on a high stand is a great back saver for the busy new mother, who often wonders in the first weeks of this new experience of caring for a young baby just how those back muscles will hold out. These bathinettes or tubalettes have a long hose to attach to the faucet for filling. Another version of this special arrangement for bathing the baby is a small enameled tub like a foot tub, or large dishpan set into a high stand.

Some of these bathing stands have flat canvas tops or trays upon which to lay the baby when dressing him. Hospitals have long realized that a bed must be high to save the nurse's back, but it took a long time for the same idea to percolate to equipment for the baby and his mother.

However, it's here now in the form of the dressing tray, and besides saving the mother's strength and being much more convenient, it's much cooler for the baby in the hot weather.

The Stage

The "Ziegfeld Follies of 1934," a revue staged to revive the tradition of Florenz Ziegfeld's famous series of entertainments with the sanction of his widow, Billie Burke [the film star], will begin an engagement in Chicago on Sunday night, August 12. This production has been one of the signal successes of the last season on Broadway.

The theater at which the "Follies" will be shown has not yet been selected. It may be the Grand Opera house; on the other hand, it may be the Great Northern, which has been closed for several years. The firm of Shuberts, which staged the production, announces that its Chicago headquarters in the Grand Opera house will take care of mail orders for tickets.

The company will be headed by Fannie Brice and Willie and Eugene Howard.

"The Milky Way," a comedy of recent popularity in New York, will probably begin an engagement at the Cort theater Monday evening, July 16. The firm of Wee & Leventhal, which has been active in sending New York successes with new casts on tour during the last season, is now rehersing a special company of "The Milky Way" for a Chicago appearance. It will probably include some of the members of the original cast. C. C.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

REBIDDING AFTER JUMP TAKE-OUT OF ONE NO TRUMP.

Yesterday we examined the bidding of a hand where the responder had a second ace (a), with no extra high card (b), with a king in reserve. Today let us consider the situation when he has a second biddable suit headed by the ace.

Unless the holding, whether of four or five cards, is headed by ace-jack or better, the second ace is best shown by a raise in no trump, just as if the holding were A x x. Do not tell your partner that a suit can be used in the play unless his possession of the king or queen will give him a finesse against the other of these two face cards, in conjunction with your holding. Ace-jack will give him this play. With a second suit fulfilling this requirement, make a jump take-out in that suit also. This shows both the ace and the playable suit which it heads. Holding minimum values for such bidding, as:

Sp. A J x x	Di. A x
His. x x	Cl. K Q x x x

the bidding would go: One no trump, three clubs, three no trumps, five spades. If the opener's hand is a minimum no-trumper, such as

Sp. K Q x	Di. K Q x
His. K x x x	Cl. A x x

he can, nevertheless, count losers as follows: Unless an opponent holds J 10 x x in clubs, a risk always worth taking, you will take five club tricks. The spade holding is now four sure tricks. Your first jump take-out denoted an ace other than spades. Ten tricks are in sight. If your ace is the ace of diamonds, you will have three tricks in that suit, so that the only trick the enemy can take is the ace of hearts, and, with the lead coming up to his hand, that suit it not dangerous. Once in, declarer can lay down twelve tricks. If your ace is in hearts, his king will make a trick; and now, having two-round control of the three other suits, he can force out the ace of diamonds with the king and use the queen for his twelfth trick.

In other words, to bid six no trumps safely he need only be in a position to confirm the soundness of his original no-trump opening bid. In this case he had no reserve values and did not need them for the small slam. His hand contained exactly three and a half primary tricks. Had the opener's hand contained two aces,

Sp. K Q x	Di. K x x
His. A x x x	Cl. A x x

the bidding, with the same responding hand, would be: One no trump, three clubs, three no trumps, five spades, six no trumps. Using the same elimination process as above, twelve tricks are in sight, with four aces. There may, however, be a red loser. Therefore, if the responding partner held also a red king—in this case that of hearts—he would know it was the key card because opener had bid six no trumps, believing the enemy to hold it. He would be entitled to bid seven no trumps if holding that card. Conversely, if the opener's diamonds were K Q x, he could himself bid seven instead of six. He knows he can discard three hearts on clubs and spades. Only four clubs, J 10 x x, in an opponent's hand will upset these calculations, and such a holding is extremely unlikely with the comparatively even distribution here found in both the biddings hands. Had the opener's hand been

Sp. Q 10 x	Di. K Q x
His. A x x x	Cl. A x x

this is a very minimum no-trumper; nevertheless, he will have a finesse against the king of spades for seven odd, not merely six, and some would bid seven to gamble, as, unless seven can be made, six cannot be made either in no trump. He can on a heart opening take in nine tricks, and then finesse the spade. If unsuccessful he may lose four tricks. With this holding the safe bid is six clubs over the five spades. The responder is marked with only four red cards, one of them the ace of diamonds. Thus no red card will be lost if clubs are trumps. Six odd will be safe unless you find J 10 x x in clubs against you, and also lose the spade finesse, which otherwise will be for seven. Only if you are in a desperate situation in a tournament should you gamble on seven no trumps.

Brilliantines Contribute Sheen to Overly Dry Hair

BY ANTOINETE DONNELLY.

My correspondence discloses many inquiries about the use of brilliantines on the hair, just what effect they have on hair, and just what they are made of.

Since permanent waves have entered the class of summer necessities, with hot air drying of finger waves and the like, the use of oils, brilliantines, and preparations for hot oil treatments and oil shampoos has greatly increased. Of this we feel assured every time we visit our beauty salon. Then, too, the recognition by the beauty aspirant that hair is not beautiful without a glossy sheen has contributed to a further indulgence in the use of brilliantines and other oils already mentioned. There is no question that these oily preparations are of great advantage in softening the hair, giving it a sheen, and making it more generally pliable. But, of course, they must be of good quality or they have no value to speak of.

A good permanent wave oil shows its effect on the hair. The hair should have an attractive sheen. During the shampooing there should be a softening effect, or it may be determined that oil has not penetrated and is not of the right quality.

As for the effect of brilliantines and its use: If it is of good quality it should help to keep the hair in condition, making it more lustrous and giving it a certain quality of strength. Brilliantines come in either solid or liquid form. The solids are ointment-like bases made of waxes and oils. Of liquid brilliantines there are four types: Those made of a solution of alcohol and castor oil; those which are a mixture of glycerine, alcohol and water; those with a mineral oil base, and those made of alcohol and mineral oil. Brilliantines made with liquid paraffin [mineral oil] are in general use. You can see, therefore, that the ingredients are all good products for the hair, castor oil and mineral oil being especially beneficial in counteracting dryness.

Paris Introduces Plus Fours for Women Golfers

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The golf suit shown here is a new model for this sport, designed by Lyolene and made in greens. The knickers and the tailored blouse are made of green that is a bit darker than the grass in the fairway, and the cape, that is for wear between rounds, is of a lighter and softer green.

The material of which the suit is made is a coarse linen crepe that has a lot of elasticity, so you can swing without hindrance from your clothes. The knickers are of the plus four variety and are accompanied by gaiters of white linen, buttoned up the sides on brown buttons. The blouse buttons up the left side on brown buttons and the belt is made of brown calfskin with a green buckle. The little scarf collar can be worn or left off as you like.

The cape is similar in cut to the capes that colonial French soldiers wear and is made of a coarse green wool. It is about knee length and draped loosely at the neck and into a sort of hood effect at the back. It is held together at the neckline by two bars of brown wool.

Charges of Forged First Editions Stirs English Newspapers

LONDON, July 2.—(AP)—The expose by two young bibliographical scholars of what they claimed were spurious "first editions" of works of many famous mid-Victorian writers reverberated through London's literary world today.

The News Chronicle, under the caption "Bombshell in the Book World," described the volume "an enquiry into the nature of certain nineteenth century pamphlets," by John Carter and Graham Pollard, published today, as "one of the most exciting detective and psychological studies in years."

Carter and Pollard, through paper and type tests, and by painstaking detective work for two years, charged that the 1847 reading edition of Mrs. Browning's sonnets and some fifty other pamphlets either were fakes or highly suspicious.

The Telegraph, under another "bombshell" head, says the book "presents the layman with a piece of work which outclasses any detective fiction for interest."

"It has all the thoroughness of a criminal investigation," the paper added.

Cleome.

From the rocky mountain region comes this lovely quilt block. The cleome flourishes in the hottest and driest seasons, and is a species that affords much honey for bees. The brilliance of the flower has been captured successfully for a quilt block. "Cleome" is made in a deep rose shade, and the thread-like effect of the green stamens, extending beyond the petal of the flowers, creates a rich and unusual quilt of lasting charm.

It's ready—Nancy Cabot's new booklet, presenting 96 illustrations of favorite quilt designs, together with one pattern of a popular quilt, "The Framed Rose." Price, 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices.

HORSES A SMALL PART OF N. YORK TRAFIC PROBLEM

Hand Carts and Ancient Trolleys Hold Sway.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Chicago's campaign to remove horse drawn vehicles from its loop district today aroused interest but no inclination to follow suit in New York. Officials seem to have given up the fight to solve the stupendous trafic problem confronting them.

A tour today by street car and automobile revealed an appalling lack of system in the regulation of both pedestrian and motor trafic. By comparison with the terrific snarl of trafic in the Manhattan business district, Chicago's loop at the rush hours is a scene of quiet and order.

"Get rid of the teams? A good idea," commented a lieutenant at the trafic division. "But in order to improve New York trafic, we'd also have to get rid of the hand carts, the antique street cars, the jaywalkers, violators of parking rules, and a number of other nuisances."

Rules, but They're Violated.

New York, like Chicago, has at present no rule against horse drawn vehicles except to restrict them with other commercial vehicles from Fifth avenue, Riverside drive, and similar thoroughfares. Commercial trafic is also barred from the bridges at certain hours. Even these rules are freely violated.

The trip of inspection revealed the horse drawn vehicles as a dangerous impediment to trafic, but many other impediments, peculiar to this city, were noted.

Whereas the comparatively modern street cars in Chicago are slowed down by horse drawn vehicles, it is doubtful if most New York street cars could beat a plodding work team in a fair race over a distance. The street cars are of the late '90s type and they bounce and roll along in cumbersome fashion.

Subway competition is, of course, responsible for this outmoded equipment, but the street cars still operate in great numbers.

Hand Carts Are Worse.

Another trafic menace, not to be seen in most other American cities, is New York's economical habit of using hand labor to transport goods. In certain manufacturing sections hundreds of these carts, pushed by perspiring workers in coolie fashion, throng the streets and form an almost impenetrable barrier to other forms of trafic.

Chicago has its cruising taxicabs, but New York probably has five times as many taxicabs in proportion to population and most of them park along the curbs instead of cruising.

Another apparent cause of the confusion is the unusual trafic light system. Probably for reasons of economy the city has placed stop and go lights, not at every corner, but at intervals of three and four blocks on many important business streets. The law insists that the driver peer blocks ahead for changes in the light and to stop at the first corner after the green becomes red, even though there be no signal light at his corner.

The general result has been to make the pedestrian scornful of all laws, and jaywalking is the great New York pastime. They become extraordinarily nimble and accidents are not as frequent as might be expected.

800 from Chicago Area Start Soldiering at CMTC

Approximately 800 young men, most of them from Chicago and its environs, yesterday became "vacation soldiers" at the Citizens' Military Training camp at Fort Sheridan, the largest in the 6th corps area. There are 900 other military students from the area who yesterday entered other camps in Michigan and Missouri. All will return to their homes at the end of the month, having enjoyed all of the advantages of outdoor life at the expense of the government. Another group of 100 will enter camp in August.

MARION DAVIES' PORTRAIT AGAIN CREATES FURORE

U. S. Exhibit Ordered Removed.

LONDON, July 2.—(AP)—The controversy over the smiling portrait of Marion Davies, which hangs in the American pavilion at the biennial art exhibition in Venice, again brought orders today for the removal of the entire American exhibit of the Whitney museum.

Mrs. Juliana R. Force, director of the museum, cabled to a New York broker handling the shipping and packing of pictures, ordering the removal of all the 100 or more paintings comprising the exhibit.

The order was in apparent disregard of a decision by Count Volpi, head of the biennial show, that both the portrait of the American motion picture actress and its American companions will remain on exhibit.

Explains Her Position.

Mrs. Force explained at length her position.

"It was agreed," she said, "that the [Whitney] museum should have the sole right to select pictures which were to make up this exhibit and that only pictures by contemporary American artists were to be chosen.

"On May 12 I was informed that after the exhibition had been installed the authorities in Venice introduced into the American pavilion a painting not owned by the museum, and that special space had been made for it.

"This violation of our agreement, and subsequent failures on the part of authorities in Venice to answer the protest sent to them, made necessary the withdrawal.

[A Polish artist painted Miss Davies' portrait.]

Removal Order Is Defied.

VENICE, July 2.—(AP)—Any effort to remove the American exhibit from the biennial art exhibition will come to naught, Italian officials declared tonight. Informed that Mrs. Juliana Force had ordered the pictures taken out, the officials said that her order would not be complied with.

Standing by the recent decision that the portrait of Marion Davies is to remain at the entrance of the American pavilion, Commendatore Romolo Bazzoni, secretary of the administrative board of the exhibition, denied that this attitude is a violation of the agreement with the Whitney Museum of Art.

He declared it had been understood from the beginning that any paintings entered are to remain for the entire duration of the show.

MARIE DRESSLER IS OUT OF COMA, HAS LIQUID FOOD

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 2.—(AP)—Marie Dressler, 62 year old stage and screen star, was fully conscious and mentally clear today, but there was virtually no change in her condition.

Dr. F. R. Nuzum, head of the staf of physicians attending her issued the following statement:

"Having slept much of Sunday, the patient was restless Sunday night. Today she takes liquid nourishment freely. Her temperature is 100.6."

Miss Dressler had rallied from the coma into which she sank last week from a complication of uremic poisoning and cancer, but her condition still was grave.

Sunshine in Their Milk

at no increase in cost!

"EAT A SUNBEAM!" says one of the most famous scientists in America. The particular sunbeam he tells us to eat is the one that the smoke and dust of cities, the houses and buildings we live and work in, and the clothes we wear, keep from reaching us. And this is the sunbeam that would create for us the precious vitamin D if it could shine upon us.

We must have this vitamin. Children must have it to make their bones grow straight and strong. Expectant and nursing mothers must have it for the protection of the bones and teeth both of the mother and the child. It is highly probable that all people of all ages would be greatly benefited by a more adequate supply.

So the famous scientist says, "Eat a Sunbeam." We make them for you to eat. By creating the ultra-violet rays in our plants and allowing them to shine on the milk, we put an extra supply of the precious vitamin D in Pet Milk. That is nature's own method of creating vitamin D.

Pet Milk has long been noted for its sure safety, uniform double-richness, and ready digestibility. Thousands of physicians have prescribed Pet Milk for babies because of these extraordinary qualities.

Many thousands of women use Pet Milk for all their milk and cream needs because the double-richness enables them more easily to put in their families' food the quantity of milk they ought to have.

Irradiated Pet Milk—enriched with vitamin D—now possesses the further virtue of enabling you to give to all your family the additional protection which this precious vitamin provides against the tragic results of faulty bones and teeth, not only in childhood but in later life.

And this added protection costs you nothing. The cost of Pet Milk is not increased because of irradiation. It costs less generally than ordinary milk.

These valuable free books tell about this new extra quality in Pet Milk:

"More Nearly Perfect—When Baby Needs Milk from a Bottle"—gives complete information on the value of Pet Milk for babies, and twenty-five recipes especially designed for small children.

"New Summertime Recipes for the New Pet Milk"—beautifully illustrated—fifty-three tested and approved recipes for seasonal dishes appropriate for the whole family.

CUBS WHIP CARDINALS, 7-4; ROUT PAUL DEAN

HARRY COOPER WINS ILLINOIS P. G. A. CROWN

Beats Metz 71 to 84 in Playoff.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, who is rapidly becoming the ablest extra inning golfer in the game, yesterday won the Illinois Professional Golfers' association championship with another marathon exhibition, this time at the Brae Burn Country club. Cooper came from behind once more, tying young Dick Metz, now at A. D. Lasker's Mill road farm, at the end of the regulation 36 holes with 149, and then coming back to win going away in the afternoon playoff, 74 to 81.

HARRY COOPER.

It was the second state P. G. A. title for the Glen Oak star, who took it two years ago at his own club, where he was forced to go an extra round with Frank Walsh. Cooper's finishing genius has been one of the high lights of the current season.

Third Title by Playoff.

On June 9 he came out of the ruck at the National open in Philadelphia to tie for third place, only two strokes behind Olin Dutra, the winner. On June 17 he tied the youthful Ky Laffoon in the Western open at Peoria, and the following day defeated Laffoon by three strokes in a double playoff of 36 holes. On June 26 he won the Illinois open crown by a stroke after another 18 holes playoff with Tommy Armour. With yesterday's unscheduled 18, Harry has played 72 extra holes in the last fifteen days, with a profit of three championships.

Yesterday's unexpected tie might have been averted and Cooper and Metz shoved back into second place had not the first round leader, Jim Noonan of Lansing Airport, with the title in sight, taken a six on the 18th, a six which included four putts, for he reached the corner of the green in 2. He took third place with 150.

Qualify for National Meet.

In addition to the individual championship yesterday, the eight Illinois qualifiers for the National P. G. A. event, to be decided at the Park club of Buffalo, N. Y., July 24-29, also were named. Aside from Cooper, Metz, and Noonan, those who will represent the state are Tom Armour of Medinah, 151; Eddie Loos of Lake Shore, 152; Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, National runner-up in 1932; Jimmy Foulis of Ruth Lake, winner of the Illinois title last year, and Joe Paletti of the McCormick fairway, all with 153s.

The latter three were forced into a playoff with Abe Espinosa, competing unattached, who finished the 36 with 153 also. He took a 5 on the extra hole, while the others were being admitted with par 4s.

Horton Smith Exempt.

Horton Smith of Oak Park, as a Ryder cup player, was exempt from qualifying, going to Buffalo automatically.

The cards for Cooper and Metz in their playoff round follow:

Par—Out	455	355	443—38
Cooper—Out	554	255	343—36
Metz—Out	865	265	442—42
Par—In	453	444	345—38—74
Cooper—In	463	354	355—38—74
Metz—In	554	445	345—39—81

That 8 on the first hole, in which Metz ran into trouble of all kinds, provides a margin to which Cooper had little trouble in clinging throughout the round. Harry drove a trap, but Dick, after sending his first tee shot out of bounds, was in the rough with his next three, and over the green. Metz was over at the second also, both of his first two shots finding the spinach and his next hopping over the green.

Cooper had a birdie on the third by reaching it in 2, another on the fourth with an eight foot putt. Metz matched the latter with a ten footer.

Seven Ahead at 10th.

Cooper scored another birdie at the 7th with a six foot putt, while Metz ran one down from 15 feet on the 9th. He was out in 42 against Cooper's 36. Dick was seven strokes behind after the 10th, where he was in the rough with his second, but regained one at the next green, which Cooper three putted. Harry was trapped at the 12th, but recovered and sank a 15 foot putt for a birdie. He was short at the 14th, however, taking a 5 to Metz's 4. Dick lost this at the 15th, where he drove the rough and was over the green after escaping the tall grass. Two shots in the rough cost Cooper a 5 at the 17th, and he got his par 5 at the home hole.

The final scores:

Harry Cooper, Glen Oak	76	73	149
Dick Metz, Mill Road Farm	78	71	149
Jim Noonan, Lansing Airport	72	78	150
Tommy Armour, Medinah	79	72	151

Joe Paletti, McCormick Fairway	74	79	153
Jim Foulis, Ruth Lake	79	74	153

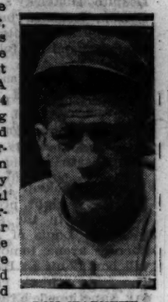
FRISCH PLANS PROTEST OVER KLEM'S RULING

Manager, J. Dean Are Chased.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs bore down heavily yesterday on Paul Dean, the National league's prize freshman pitcher, to hand him his third defeat of the season against ten victories. A score of 7 to 4 sent the young speed baller and his St. Louis Cardinal mates on their unhappy way, but the final figures were arrived at only after a questionable ruling by Umpire Bill Klem had given valuable aid to the Chicagoans. The ruling also was the cause of three Cardinals leaving the premises, by request.



LON WARNEKE.

Young Dean found his first bit of bad news in the third when his own manager, Frankie Frisch, threw him down by erring on a ground ball. Three runs were accumulated, thus giving Lon Warneke what seemed to be a safe margin. Then nothing much happened to Dean until the seventh, when, with the Klem decision and a few hits, the Cubs piled up four more runs. As it turned out, they were badly needed. Both Warneke and his defense suffered a brainstorm in the eighth, but the Cub lead was bulky enough to stave off serious consequences.

Klem Bars Three.

The seventh inning side show followed a popup by Chuck Klein after one had scored and while the bases were filled. The ball, driven by the wind, sailed into fair territory just to the right of the plate and eluded Catcher Delancey who, before the play was completed, erred on a throw to the plate.

The Cards immediately swarmed on Umpire Klem and claimed Klein should be out under the infield fly rule. Mr. Klem's answer was that the rule did not apply because no one was in position to catch the ball. That didn't suit the Cards. Mr. Klem walked away and made motions with his hands indicating he didn't wish to be followed. But the Cards followed and continued to argue. This disturbed Mr. Klem's dignity, so he singled out Manager Frisch, Coach Mike Gonzales and Dizzy Dean, who was looking after his kid brother's interests, and told them they were wanted in the clubhouse.

The banished trio finally departed, but not until Frisch had spilled a few more words, including a declaration that he would file a protest over the outcome.

Action Is Restricted.

Prior to the Cub outbreak in the third there wasn't enough action on either side to get the customers' minds off the heat. Both the Cards and Cubs subsided in order in the first, two of the latter being strikeout victims. The Cards also dropped in succession in the second, but the Cubs made a gesture in their half when Babe Herman led off with a fluke single toward first base. The next three fellows did nothing. Then the Cards put their first man on base in the third. A pass to Whitehead accomplished this with one out, but Whitehead made no progress.

The first happening in the profitable home third was Hack's infield out, after which Warneke singled to right. Billy Herman rolled to Frisch, but the Cardinals' manager took his eye off the ball and an error resulted. Then English plunked a fly close to the line in the right field corner for a double, Warneke and W. Herman scoring. English moved to third on the throw to the plate and scored the third run on Klein's fly to Rothrock. A pass to Babe Herman came next, but Cuyler flied to right.

Delancey Gets First Hit.

SOME POMP RUNS 3 YEAR OLD FOES INTO SUBMISSION

Wright Filly Breaks Jinx in Racing Luck.

BY FRENCH LANE.

For the rest of the season everybody who frequents the race tracks should pay a little more than the ordinary attention to the 3 year olds which represent Warren Wright's Calumet Farm stable.

This shouldn't be taken to mean that they can beat Cavalcade, but there are a lot of others in the division which will look at their flying heels before the season is much older.

On Saturday Hadagal, from Calumet stable, made his first start of the year and won just about as impressively and as gamely as any 3 year old has been able to score this year.

Some Pomp Wins Easily.

Some Pomp, the star 3 year old filly in the barn, galloped out in the Hamilton purse at six furlongs yesterday afternoon. She was away fourth. She rushed into the lead twenty strides later and she ran in front of her seven rivals and toyed with them from then until the finish.

Some Pomp rounded out the six furlongs in 1:11 after running the first half mile in the speedy time of :45 4-5. She led most of the time by two lengths. Jocky Westrope took her slightly in hand nearing the finish and she wound up the winner by a length. She had more run left in her to all appearances than any of the others who trailed her home.

The consistent Dogmata from the stable of H. C. McConnell was running fast near the end and got second money although he was able to finish only a nose in front of Mr. James, which had challenged Some Pomp time after time rounding the last turn and heading into the stretch.

Every time Mr. James moved up Jocky Westrope called on Some Pomp for a little more speed and she did not fail him on a single occasion.

She's A Real Horse.

Since she ran second in the Washington Park Inaugural handicap Some Pomp has indicated that she was going to amount to something. She ran one good race after another, but due to bad handling on the part of her riders and bad racing luck she wasn't able to go sailing home in front until the running of the Hamilton yesterday.

Not long after Some Pomp scored her easy triumph along came Red John which trainer Frank Hackett of the Mrs. John Hertz stable had dropped into a $2,500 claiming race. Only once before had the son of Reigh Count-Salome II., run in a selling plater event. On that occasion he was in for $4,000.

Against the $2,500 platers Red John fairly burned up the track. He ran the fastest mile of the year in Chicago when he skimmed over the eight furlongs in 1:36 4-5. He ran faster in the stretch than at any other stage of the journey and at the end was three lengths in front of Marcella H. and Flying Justice. The heavily backed Jens Son and Unkie Tom were whipped almost before the run down the stretch started.

Red John Returns $14.08.

The players in the crowd didn't have much confidence in Red John, so he paid off at $14.08 to win, $7.60 to place, and $4.90 to show. Marcella H. was at $12.34 to place, and $8.18 to show. Flying Justice paid $8.82 to show despite his good race at Arlington a few days ago.

There came a popular Bradley stable victory in the Spectator purse which was at 5½ furlongs, when Born Happy, a son of Black Toney, bounded away from the barrier well in front and made the pace from start to finish.

He had been stoutly backed and was the only favorite to win all afternoon. Skip It from Warren Wright's stable came fast in the final stages and beat Advantage from Alderman Coughlin's stable out of second money. In the mutuels Born Happy paid $5.94.

TRACK AND FIELD GAMES.

EXPERTS on track and field sports forecast a rosy picture for United States athletes in the Berlin Olympic games of 1936. This prognosis comes after study of performance charts in the Big Ten, Four A, Collegiate, and National A. A. U. meets. Seldom has such a great aggregation of record holders been competing simultaneously.

In our resulting national self-complacency it might be well to remind that this prowess, if it continues in training for 1936, may be needed for America to dominate the Olympic games as it did in early meets after their inauguration at Athens in 1896.

While United States made a great showing at Los Angeles two years ago, those games were held in this country, which is something of an advantage. We recall that following the games of 1924 in Paris and of 1928 in Amsterdam this column called attention to the fact that we won by our number of entrants rather than by supremacy in individual events. That observation was confined to track. In field events United States, through greater experience and attention, has held a safe lead.

As an example, United States captured only one track event for individuals in 1928, yet won both relay races at 400 and 1,600 meters, respectively, by its number of relatively good men. If you're interested in statistics, here is the number of first places in track events for individuals of the last three Olympic games:

1924, Paris—Finland, 6; Great Britain, 3; United States, 3; Italy, 1. United States both relays.

1928, Amsterdam—Finland, 4; Great Britain, 2; Canada, 2; United States, 1; France, 1. United States both relays.

1932, Los Angeles—United States, 4; Finland, 2; Great Britain, 2; Italy, 1; Poland, 1; Argentina, 1; South Africa, 1. United States won both relays.

	1924.	1928.	1932.
100 meters	G. B.	Can.	U. S.
200 meters	U. S.	Can.	U. S.
400 meters	G. B.	U. S.	U. S.
800 meters	G. B.	G. B.	G. B.
1,500 meters	Fin.	Fin.	Italy
5,000 meters	Fin.	Fin.	Fin.
10,000 meters	Fin.	Fin.	Pol.
100,000 meter cross country	Fin.	Not held.
10,000 meter walk	Italy	Not held.
50,000 meter walk	Not held.		G. B.

110 meter hurdles	U. S.	S. Af.	U. S.

400 meter relay	U. S.	U. S.	U. S.
1,600 meter relay	U. S.	U. S.	U. S.
Pole vault	U. S.	U. S.	U. S.
High jump	U. S.	U. S.	Can.

Hammer throw	U. S.	U. S.	Ire.
Discus	U. S.	U. S.	U. S.
Javelin	Fin.	Sweden	Fin.
Decathlon	U. S.	Fin.	U. S.

In the 800 and 1,500 meter runs, nearest Olympic equivalents to our half mile and mile runs, favorite distances here, United States athletes have not won since J. E. Meredith in 1912 in the former and Mel Sheppard in 1908 in the latter.

PARKER GOES TO THIRD ROUND IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Milwaukee Star Wins, 6-0, 6-0, and 6-1, 6-0.

Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee, opened defense of his National Clay Court tennis championship impressively yesterday by sweeping aside two challengers to enter the third round. He lost only one game in four sets.

While his chief rival for the crown, Bryan Grant, Atlanta, sat under a shade tree, Parker dazzled Bob Elliot, Chicago, with a straight set victory at love. He then took a few gulps of water and returned to defeat Willard Stafford, University of Wisconsin freshman from Madison, 6-1, 6-0.

Champion Is Rankled.

Slightly rankled because he was seeded number two behind Grant, the champion didn't waste a step or show any mercy to his opponents. He chased them to all corners of the court, returned every service as if it were a mere lob and drew them off the side of the court for back court sideline hits. Stafford, assisted by a brilliant service, won one game and sent two to deuce, but was no match at all for Parker.

Grant drew a bye for the first round, and was all set to battle Caugn Anderson, Chicago, but the latter refused to meet the tiny Atlanta player and defaulted. Tomorrow, however, Grant must clash with dangerous Walter Hayes, Chicago. Hayes, winner of the National Clay Courts title in 1911, is 50 years old, but still is agile and speedy.

Tidball Beats Carrigan.

The field of 99, one of the largest in the history of the tourney, included Jack Tidball, Los Angeles, seeded number three, who had a close call. He finally emerged victor over Joe Carrigan, Chicago, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4. The other seeded stars, Gene Mako, Pasadena, Cal.; Donald Budge, Los Angeles; John McDiarmid, Fort Worth; Lefty Bryan, Chattanooga, and Karl Kamrath, Austin, Tex., all came through to enter the third round.

Lott, Stoefen Are Defeated at Wimbledon

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, July 2.—Frank Shields, America's top ranking tennis star, and Sidney Wood of New York, advanced to the semi-final round of the all-English tennis tournament today.

George Lott Jr. of Chicago, and Lester Stoefen of California, were eliminated, the former losing to Fred Perry and the latter to Jack Crawford of Australia, the defending champion.

Shields will play Perry for the right to enter the finals while Wood meets Crawford in the other semi-final match.

Shields' superior power and stamina were his greatest assets against H. W. [Bunny] Austin, whom he conquered 4-6, 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 7-5. The tall New Yorker lost the first two sets, but the fast pace began to tell on the English Davis cup player after he won the first two games of the third set. Shields rallied to win this set after breaking through Austin's service.

Austin tried to conserve his resources in the next set, but Shields was gaining confidence with every stroke and advanced to the net at every opportunity to score points.

Wood scored a comparatively easy victory over Vernon G. Kirby of South Africa, 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-0. He might have polished off the South African [illegible] after taking the first two sets he relaxed and became indifferent.

Lott put up a courageous struggle against Perry, Great Britain's No. 1 player and holder of the American championship, until a bad decision by a linesman took the heart out of him. Lott was leading 4 games to 3 at the time in the third set and the point would have made it 5-3.

The decision seemed to upset him and Perry won the set. Lott came back full of fight in the final set, but his prodigious efforts exhausted him and Perry finally won 10-8.

ENZO DECIDES HE WEARS TRUNKS IN ASTOR FAMILY

He'll Fight Rosenbloom Regardless of Wife.

New York, July 2.—[Special.]—Enzo Fiermonte, husband of the former Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick and stepfather of John Jacob Astor III, who was married on Saturday to Miss Ellen Tuck French, insisted today that he was prepared to go through with his fight with Maxie Rosenbloom, the light heavyweight, during the first week in August.

It had been rumored that Mrs. Fiermonte was opposed to her husband's prize fighting proclivities and had asked him not to continue his career in this respect. Today, however, Fiermonte made his appearance at Madison Square Garden and announced he was going on with his fighting career.

He Won't Disturb Wife.

At the same time Fiermonte's manager, Jimmy Johnston, announced that he will go through with the Rosenbloom match. Fiermonte also stated that he was willing to box any man at his training camp to prove that he was in condition. He hasn't fought since Nov. 28, 1932. Fiermonte will not train at Westhampton, where he has been living with his wife, in order to spare her the annoyance of outsiders. He did not state, however, where he would train.

"I don't care if Mrs. Fiermonte doesn't like it," he said. "I'm going to fight. I'm going to wear the pants in my house even if they are only fighting trunks."

The Fiermontes Mature Late.

"If the contest is not sanctioned here, it can be held in New Jersey or some other state," Enzo said.

"As for Mrs. Fiermonte, although she did not approve the publicity that came to us after I opened a training camp at our home in Westhampton, I don't think she will object after I have set up a separate training camp. At any rate, I have my own life to live, I want to make a reputation of my own rather than the one that has been built up by publicity since my marriage, and I have determined that I will fight Rosenbloom if it is possible."

"Do you think Mrs. Fiermonte will be at the ringside?" he was asked.

"I don't know," the boxer replied, "but I hope so.

"I am 26, and I have been fighting since I was 16. I have fought 76 professional fights, and I have been defeated only twice in this country. All of my family have matured late—I have gained an inch in height in the last year, and have grown from 170 to 180 pounds—so I think I can go on into the heavyweight class without difficulty."

Invited to Wedding.

He refused to discuss his marital affairs further than that or give the reason for his hurried departure from the seaside home at Southampton a day after he had announced he was canceling his proposed return to the ring because of his wife's objections.

"Any statement must come from Mrs. Fiermonte," he said. "As far as I am concerned everything is all right with us."

He admitted that he had been invited to the wedding of his stepson at Newport, R. I., Saturday. He said the invitations came to Mrs. Fiermonte's Westhampton home from young Astor to "Mr. and Mrs. Enzo Fiermonte."

Enzo Is Wrought Up.

A sister of Mrs. Fiermonte, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, remarked at the time of the wedding concerning Enzo: "His presence is a matter of complete indifference to our family."

Enzo replied quite heatedly to that today:

"I did not attend because Mrs. Fiermonte decided early in the week that she did not feel well enough to go. So I came to New York to attend to this boxing business. Later she changed her mind and went to the wedding.

"I do not believe that Mrs. Spencer said that, but, if she did, it was a very ridiculous statement. If she doesn't consider me, she should at least consider her sister."

CORBETT BOXES HIGGINS TONIGHT ON NORTH SIDE

Haberski Meets Born in Semi-Windup.

Tommy Corbett, Omaha, Neb., lightweight boxer, meets Gene Higgins, Catholic Youth organization favorite, in an eight round bout tonight at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. Both fighters were victorious over Mickey Joy in recent contests. Corbett's record indicates Higgins will have to be at his best to maintain a winning streak started six months ago. George Haberski, Waukegan, Ill., lightweight, returns to action in a four round bout with Sailor Born. Champion Barney Ross will be introduced. The balance of the card:

Danny Neenan vs. Lou Terry [6], 141.
Johnny Gould vs. Scotty Millan [4], 138
Frankie White vs. Kid Prima [4], 150.

Kid Leonard, East Moline, Ill., middleweight, is due tomorrow for his 10 round main scrap with Solly Dukelsky of Chicago, at Shewbridge field Thursday. Leonard has not appeared in Chicago since he disposed of Frank Battaglia at the Stadium in February. Despite Dukelsky's effectiveness this season, Leonard hopes to win by a knockout. Promoter Tommy Brice has arranged the following supporting card:

Sherald Kennard and Chuck Reed [8], welterweights.
Jackie Collins and Lightning Botten [4], featherweights.
Sammy Scoglio and Al Soukup [4], featherweights.
Gary Baldwin and Al Pahl [4], junior welterweights.

Jack Kracken, former Champaign, Ill., heavyweight, probably will replace Nick Taft in the six round windup with Joe Louis of Detroit, Mich., at Bacon's arena tomorrow night. Taft will box Louis at Bacon's on July 11. The state athletic commission yesterday sanctioned Kracken as a fit opponent for the Detroit fighter and he is expected to accept.

Savior Canadeo, promising amateur lightweight, is paired with Frank McHugh in one of eight matches scheduled at C. Y. O. stadium Thursday. Others include:

Tom Toiner vs. Jack Stofe, 132; Bob Van Meter vs. Joe McLarney, 140; Carl Fazio vs. Ernest Moersch, 147.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission is attempting to arrange a welterweight title bout for Chicago this summer between Champion Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin. . . . Chief Inspector John Duffy of the commission believes he can induce a Chicago business man to post 65 per cent of $200,000, the amount the bout is expected to draw, as a guarantee to the participants. . . .

Bobby Pacho, California junior welterweight, may appear at Sparta stadium against Frank Sigilio on July 30. . . . He faces Tony Falco of Philadelphia, at New York tomorrow. . . . Sammy Abruscato will conduct an amateur program tomorrow at Minocqua, Wis. . . . The indefinite suspension of Sammy Mandell by the California athletic commission will be recognized in Illinois. . . .

Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson, former heavyweight boxing champions, and Tom Sharkey, who fought both, have been signed to serve as masters of ceremony at Dave Barry's shows in the Hall of Champions, formerly the German-American building, at A Century of Progress, the first of which will be held tomorrow afternoon. Jeffries is due from Los Angeles today and Johnson is scheduled to arrive from the east tomorrow morning. Sharkey arrived yesterday. F. M.

Sammy Mandell Retires Again to Manage Celebron

Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, announced from his home in Rockford last night that he has definitly retired from the ring.

Knocked out in his last appearance, Mandell was ordered by a doctor of the California boxing commission to give up the game because of low blood pressure.

Mandell won the 135 pound title by whipping Rocky Kansas at Comiskey Park July 2, 1930, in the first bout promoted in Illinois after boxing became legalized. He lost the championship four years later when Al Singer knocked him out in the first round of their bout at the Polo Grounds. Sammy withdrew from the game temporarily but essayed a comeback as a welterweight. He never regained his old time speed or skill.

Mandell will devote his time to the management of Bill Celebron, international Golden Gloves welterweight winner in 1933 who now is boxing as a professional. Celebron has won fourteen straight fights, nine by knockouts.

Swim Entries Must Be Filed Within Week

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Although the finals in the fifth annual 100 yard free style championship meet sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will not be held until July 29 in the Lincoln Park lagoon, only seven days remain in which entries will be accepted for the first two preliminaries. Post entries will not be accepted for any of the four sectional meets and, of course, no swimmer can qualify for the finals without competing in the trials. Hence the importance of sending in entries immediately is obvious.

The first week-end of preliminary races will be held July 14 at Sherman park, 52nd street and Racine avenue, and July 15 at California park, 3901 North California avenue. Entries for the ten age classes—five for boys and five for girls—will not be accepted after midnight, July 9.

The other sectional swims are scheduled for Carmak pool, Lyons, Ill., July 21, and at Wheelan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues, July 22. Entries for these races close at midnight, July 16.

Winners Get Gold Medals.

In addition to merit badges for all swimmers who report for their trials, those who qualify for the finals will receive special awards. The prizes for the finals in the ten age classes will be the same as in previous years. Winners at Lincoln park July 29 will be awarded gold medals, runners up will receive silver medals, and those who finish third in each of the ten events will receive bronze medals.

Establishment of sectional trials will make competition easier. All of the pools chosen are large. There will be ample facilities for checking clothes, and there will be no entrance fee nor charge for using the pool.

All Amateurs Eligible.

The races have been sanctioned by the Central association of the A. A. U. All amateurs are eligible, except those who have won major titles, such as college, university or A. A. U. races. Former TRIBUNE champions cannot compete again in the same age class, but they may move up to the next class which, of course, automatically bars all winners of Class E [19 years of age and over] tities.

According to present plans, each contestant who sends in his or her entry will be notified of acceptance at least three or four days prior to the sectional contests.

GERMAN TEAMS TO HOLD TRACK MEET AT LOYOLA

The seventh annual track and field meet of the German-American association will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at Loyola stadium. An entry list of more than 200 is headed by the strong New York German A. C. team. The German A. C. from St. Louis has entered its star performer, H. Schmenger, high-point winner last year.

The javelin champion of Luxembourg, Victor Beweng, will put on an exhibition of his specialty. Willy Dreyer, Lincoln park, 10,000 meter junior National A. A. U. title holder, will run against James Bliss, Central A. A. U. five mile champion, in the feature five mile race.

Two of America's fastest women runners, Betty Robinson and Annette Rogers, will compete in special races. A 20 mile bicycle race at Edgebrook will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The event is open to all German athletic groups and Turnvereins.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England, July 2.—(AP)—The shell of the Princeton varsity eight-oared crew, in training here for the coming Henley regatta, was badly damaged today when struck by a punt. It was rushed to a boatbuilder's shop at Putney in the hope it could be repaired in time for the races. Otherwise the crew will row in a borrowed shell.

KENNARD STOPS MICKEY O'SHEA IN 8TH ROUND

Sherald Kennard, Fargo, N. D., welterweight, stopped Mickey O'Shea of Chicago, in the last round of an eight round windup at Marigold Gardens last night. Kennard was floored in the sixth round and O'Shea was dropped twice in the seventh. Shortly after the eighth round got under way, Referee Tommy Gilmore stopped the bout when O'Shea complained of an injury to his right hand.

Promoter Maurice Rivkin announced 1,000 spectators paid $800. Frank Genovese, Toronto, Ont., 145 pound fighter, continued his winning streak at the expense of Al Pahl of Sioux City, Ia., in the five round semi-final. Other results:

Sammy Scoglio beat Gene Connolly [4]; Jackie Collins and Frank Schultz, drew [4]; Lon Bartel beat Sammy Donnell [4].

Jimmy Christy, south side featherweight, won his seventh professional fight last night, defeating Oscar Chanlon in the eight round windup at White City.

Tony Zale, a member of this year's Intercity Golden Glove team, registered his third consecutive knockout by stopping Ossie Jefferson in the third round. Other results:

Angelo Garlow beat Georgie Trapp [5]; Tod Kelley beat Eddie Smith [4]; Ray Boree beat Jimmy Richard [4]; Eddie Jackson and Augie Mandell drew [4].

RING BOARD BANS OPPONENTS FOR LONDOS, LEWIS

The state athletic commission indicated yesterday that no sanction will be given prospective opponents of Jim Londos and Ed [Strangler] Lewis until negotiations now being carried on by Joe Foley of the Stadium for a meeting between the heavyweight wrestling rivals have been completed.

This was the commission's attitude when it refused Jagot Singh's request for a return bout with Londos. Lewis wired the commission from Dallas that he would appear next Monday to make a formal challenge for an encounter with Londos and file a check. Commissioner Joe Triner ordered Manager Ed White or a representative of Londos to be present.

Coast Coach Flays A. A. U. in Open Letter

San Francisco, Cal., July 2.—[Special.]—Charles Hunter, coach of the Olympic club of San Francisco, which won the junior A. A. U. track and field meet Friday night at Milwaukee and finished second to the New York Athletic club in the senior meet, today attacked the selection of men and A. A. U. representatives who will tour foreign countries this summer. Hunter characterized the selections as "politics" and said he would recommend that the club never send a team to the A. A. U. games except in an Olympic year.

In an open letter to Robert [Dink] Templeton, Stanford university track coach and an open critic of the A. A. U., Hunter charged an inner clique of officials chose the barnstorming teams without consulting the committee set up for that purpose. In addition he criticized the officiating at the national meet.

Charges Secret Meeting.

Hunter's letter to Templeton, in which he refers to the A. A. U. as the "I. O. U.," follows:

"The great I. O. U.'s were at their best today. You have been right for the last two years about those chiselers. Henceforth I am right with you every time you rap them, and will recommend to Olympic club we never attend a national meet again except in Olympic year, when they cannot prevent our entering.

"Your friends, Kirby [former A. A. U. President Gustavus T. Kirby of New York], Ferris [Secretary-Treasurer Daniel A. Ferris of New York], and great Johnny McGee had a secret meeting in New York two weeks ago and picked three of America's leading coaches to take the boys on trips. There is a national track and field committee, of which Harry Maloney and myself are members, whose duties are to pick athletes and coaches for foreign trips.

"We were ignored completely in selecting coaches, as the executive and foreign relations committee of the I. O. U.'s considered us apparently incompetent. Apparently the Pacific coast is only an auxiliary to provide funds in lean times; also that officials may ride to foreign lands in royal ease while athletes sleep below decks, as on the Princess Mateska.

There Was One "No."

"Regardless of the committee, we got six of our boys on trips. During the meeting your personal friend, Gilbert, made the usual A. A. U. speech praising the executive foreign relations committee and asked the track and field committee to give them a vote of thanks for their selections. The only objection was from yours truly in a loud "No!" causing Brundage [President Avery Brundage], Bingham [J. Lyman Bingham, assistant to Brundage], and Ferris no great embarrassment.

"Motions brought forward praising I. O. U.'s for their accomplishments in fostering international accord through adoption of the metric system, and that any jump be ruled a dive in which the jumper does not land on two feet only, were received with acclaim. Coach Conrad Jennings of Marquette, en route to Germany, who put on such sterling meets for I. O. U.'s, was highly praised today.

"In my opinion the meet was worse than some of those great P. A. A. exhibitions at Kezar [stadium]. High power judges in the discus refused to give the usual warm-up throws. No throws were allowed from the circle before the event and no practice throws were allowed in between. Regardless, our boys swept the event. In the high hurdles one row of hurdles was two yards out of line.

Refuse Re-Run of Event.

"Officials refused a re-run over a protest of a winner, who was after a record.

"We thus wasted a good afternoon drinking beer.

"In spite of all difficulties we should have licked N. Y. A. C., only that we met an all-Eastern team instead. They included [Gene] Venzke, Pottsville, Pa.; Keith Brown, Chicago, a student of Yale; Percy Beard, Alabama, and they didn't even stop in the American boundaries to get fellows, even having a European citizen, an ineligible for the foreign trip for that reason by admission in the track and field committee meeting."

BRUNDAGE IS SATISFIED.

Avery Brundage, president of the National A. A. U., when informed of the letter of criticism of the national track and field meet and the selections of the teams to make foreign trips by Charles Hunter, coach of the Olympic club, yesterday said:

"Coach Hunter is disgruntled because he wasn't named as coach of a barnstorming team. The teams were selected fairly, and managers, instead of coaches, were named. I was highly satisfied with the officiating at the Milwaukee games."

ANTI-NAZI GROUP PROTESTS.

A protest against the sending of a team of American athletes to Germany this summer was sent to Avery Brundage, president of the National A. A. U., today by Dr. James M. Yard, secretary of the Chicago Committee for the Defense of Human Rights Against Nazism. The A. A. U. has announced that two teams, one to go to Germany and the other to compete in Norway, would sail late this week from New York on the Bremen. Dr. Yard's message said:

"Learned with great regret A. A. U. preparing to send team to compete in Germany. Nazi government is very opposite of sportsmanship. Hope you will reconsider. Also regret sending teams on German ships."

Cleveland's Negro National League Baseball team will appear tomorrow afternoon at Mills stadium in a holiday double header with the Mills. The visitors are well equipped with pitching talent, having six hurlers, any of whom can start and finish a game. Lefty Sullivan and Speed Bowers are expected to work for the Mills. The Duffy Florals will face the Silver Edge nine, South Bend, Ind., in another double header at Shewbridge field. The Hoosiers are expected to start Stanley Coveleskie, former world series star and Cleveland Indian mainstay. The veteran may be opposed by ancient Jack Quinn, another ex-big leaguer. Dutch Kohlenberg and Tony Simms also may see service in the first or second game, depending upon which contest Quinn pitches.

Colonels to Use Masek.

The rubber contest of the three game series between the West Side Colonels and the Zoubek Crackerjacks will be decided at Sparta stadium tomorrow. Each team has won a game. Al Masek, former University of Illinois pitcher, will start for the Colonels, while Joe Myerz, formerly of the Nebraska State league, is expected to pitch for the Crackerjacks. The former will be seeking his fourth victory.

In a game to be played at Benton Harbor, Mich., the Chicago Firemen will battle the Chicago Giants.

FINAL EXAMS IN GOLF SCHOOL TO START THURSDAY

Holiday Postpones Classes Two Days.

THE TRIBUNE'S second annual golf school, which is nearing completion with an average weekly enrollment of 23,000 students, will mark time tonight and tomorrow night because of the Independent day holiday. Classes will be resumed Thursday night, when all scholars in the men's and boys' division will be given final lesson. Friday night all women and girl pupils will resume classes. The couples' division class is being skipped entirely this week because of the change made necessary by the holiday, but students in that group are asked to attend either Thursday or Friday night as individuals.

The lessons Thursday and Friday will be devoted not only to the important department of chipping and the putting stroke, but also will include a summing up of all of the points brought out in the regular five lessons of the course—grip, stance, pivot, the variations of the swing, and the rules and etiquet of the game.

Many Audit Courses.

For this reason, every golfer in the district, whether he or she be a member of a private club or a public links player, is invited to attend these final lessons. Professionals of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, on the 19 courses where the school has been conducted, have commented on the fact that each of their classes has been attended by hundreds of private club golfers, who while not actually taking the lessons, have been present throughout an entire evening to audit the course. In many cases, these outsiders have established themselves as regulars.

The finals, the graduating exercises of the school, will have a preview next Tuesday night on all 19 courses of the association, when each professional, or some neighboring and disinterested pro whom he may invite, will choose the six winners who will represent his course in the finals. These include one each from the men's, women's, boys' and girls' class, and a man and woman pupil from the couples' division.

Finals on July 14.

The first of the finals will be held on Saturday, July 14, at Mission Hills, located at Sanders and Techny roads, near Northbrook. This will consist of an 18 hole medal play tournament from scratch in which six pupils from each course, making a total of 114 finalists, will have their first real opportunity to put their professors' teachings into practice.

This will be followed by the final form contest on Thursday night, July 19, at Mid-City, Grace street and Western avenue. Six prominent Chicago district professionals, who will not have seen any of the finalists in action before, will judge this contest. They will be named later this week.

Fight Decisions

At Milwaukee, Wis.—Lou Scozza beat Tait Littman [10]; Tony Bruno and Johnny Phagan drew [8]; Frankie Knauer and Puggy Weinert drew [6]; George Black stopped Tiger Claw [4]; Willie Vasas stopped Tommy Habel [3].

Holiday Offers Opportunity for Trip for Bass

BY BOB BECHER.

Scores of different short trips can be considered by the outdoor fan who is figuring on a holiday excursion tomorrow. The fisherman who has a Wisconsin fishing license may well consider the delightful drive up to Lake Geneva and the good chance of getting a string of fish from the lake.

Geneva staged a fine comeback last year by producing some excellent strings of small mouth black bass. Although it is a big lake, bigger than many of us fishermen like to tackle, because such a lake makes it necessary for one to learn the location of many different rock and gravel bars, there isn't any doubht but that one can take bass from Lake Geneva.

Besides smallmouths the lake has the usual lineup of panfish and northern pike. Anybody who likes to explore a lake will be welcomed at Lake Geneva, because even the guides can't locate the walleyed pike which are known to live in that body of water. They have caught a few whopping big ones, but to locate them in numbers still is a problem.

The Fox river offers a dandy trip and picnic combination with a little fishing thrown in. Motoring outdoor fans can go through Yorkville if they wish, see The Tribune experimental farm and the Illinois state game farm with thousands of young pheasants. Then drive on down the river to the scenic sandstone ledge country near Wedron, Ill. This is a beautiful part of the river with high rocky bluffs ideal for hikes and bird study.

Motorists should hit the stream just a couple of miles above Wedron. The water is deep here, inasmuch as it is backed up by a dam down the river. Above this spot fishermen can wade the stream and cast either minnows or crawfish for small mouth black bass. In the evening a fellow might raise a few with a fly rod.

During the last few days some of the Fox river fishermen have been fairly successful with crawfish. Some large catfish have been caught in the deep water at Wedron.

For fishermen who have more time and want a longer trip into Wisconsin, we suggest Butternut and Franklin lakes northeast of Three Lakes, Wis., and the High Falls reservoir near Crivitz, Wis. Butternut and Franklin are good bass lakes in beautiful timber. There's a dandy walleyed pike lake [Seven Mile] near by.

To Crivitz, where we recently have been fly fishing for small mouths, the ride by automobile is about 280 miles. It's not a country for big timber or scenic beauty, like the Butternut lake region, but there are smallmouths aplenty in those reservoirs and they like fly rod lures.

NEGRO DRIVERS TO COMPETE IN EVANSTON RACES

Leading Negro drivers of the country will take part in the Negro midwestern championship events scheduled tomorrow afternoon at the Evanston Motor Speedway, Lincoln and Devon avenues. Four events will be held, two at 10 laps, and two at 15 laps. The first field is scheduled to get the starter's flag at 3 o'clock.

Heading the field is Bob Salise, Cleveland, who last year won the 50 mile title event at the Evanston track. Others are Bill Buckner, Indianapolis; Homer Cloud, Cleveland, and the Wiggins brothers, Lawrence and Charles, also of Indianapolis.

YANKEES, GOMEZ DEFEAT RED SOX, 5-0; 8TH IN ROW

Lefty Finally Wins 13th Game of Season.

New York, July 2.—(AP)—Lefty Gomez finally won his 13th game of the season today. He held the Boston Red Sox to seven hits as the New York Yankees won, 5 to 0, for their eighth straight victory. The triumph was Gomez's third shutout this year.

The Yankee southpaw, turned back in his last two tries for No. 13, never was in danger, only two Red Sox getting to third base. Eddie Morgan arrived on a triple in the first inning, and Carl Reynolds reached there in the ninth on a single and two outs.

Bonthron Plans to Quit Running After This Year

Detroit, Mich., July 2.—(AP)—Bill Bonthron, considered one of the United States best prospects for the United States Olympic team in 1936, said today he would end his career this fall after a European tour "unless there are unexpected developments."

Bonthron, who ran the 1,500 meters Saturday in world record time to beat Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, is here visiting his parents.

"I plan to quit after this running season, and nothing I know now will make me change my mind," he said. "Of course there might be unexpected developments of some sort, but I don't know now what they would be."

Bonthron plans to devote his time to business and will specialize in public accounting. He will leave tomorrow for New York and then London, where he will join the combined Princeton-Cornell track team in competition with the Oxford university team at London. From London he will go to Stockholm to join the American team touring Europe.

He graduated from Princeton this year.

Les Wade, Montreal, ran the mile in 4:29.2 to defeat Louis Gregory, New York, by 50 yards in a match race.

BIG SIX BATTERS GET ONLY 6 HITS! AVERAGES DROP

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

With only four members in action, six hits was the best baseball's Big Six could do yesterday, with the result that there was a general downward trend in batting averages. Heinie Manush got two of the hits, but he was at bat five times and failed to gain.

Charley Gehringer connected with two hits and lost two points as he faced the Cleveland pitchers seven times. In the National league Bill Terry, the leader, and Sam Leslie got only one hit each. The standings:

TEXAS MARKSMAN SETS MARK WITH 196 BULL'S-EYES

Cascade, Md., July 2.—(AP)—Thurman Randle of Dallas, Tex., today set a world's record in the Swiss rifle match at the 13th annual meet of the Eastern Small Bore association by firing 2 hours and 17 minutes before he missed a bull's-eye.

Randle, one of the best rifle shots in the eastern part of the United States, scored 196 consecutive bull's-eyes before he missed, surpassing by 71 points the former record of 125 made by H. McGarity of Washington, D. C., at Camp Perry, O., about ten years ago.

L. M. Tempke of Scarsdale, N. Y., also passed the former record, scoring a 140 to take second place. Clarence Held of Germantown, Pa., was third with 101. Each contestant, firing on the 200 yard range, continued his shooting until he was eliminated by missing a bull's-eye.

ADVERSE WINDS KEEP GLIDING PILOTS ON GROUND

Elmira, N. Y., July 2.—[Special.]—Unfavorable breezes today kept the pilots in the National Soaring contests on the ground at the start of the second week of competition. A partial check by officials of the barograph carried in the sail plane by Richard C. du Pont of Wilmington, Del., showed an altitude of 6,233 feet above the takeoff field.

This sets a new American record, Jack O'Meara was the former record holder with 4,780 feet. The world record is 8,493 feet.

Bonura to Get Texas League Player Award

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Zeke Bonura, most valuable player in the Texas league last year and a young man who would rate high in a poll to determine the most valuable player on the White Sox this year, will be awarded a cup for the Texas distinction at tomorrow's White Sox-Browns double header at Comiskey park.

The trophy, the gift of The Sporting News, will be presented by Henry P. Edwards, American league official.

Bonura's play this year has been one of the few bright spots in the lives of the White Sox, not the least of his accomplishments being the driving in of 68 runs, 11 more, for instance, than have been driven in by Chuck Klein, an expert in that line, and 15 more than Al Simmons, another expert run driver in, has propelled this season.

Zeke, only member of the White Sox who has played in every inning, has a batting mark of .306, including 18 home runs. For several days this season he has led both leagues in homers.

The Sox had hoped that Zeke would be something of a hitter, but to get his hitting they were prepared to put up with a lot of clumsy work around first base. And the big New Orleans Italian has crossed them up by turning in some of the most spectacular first basing in either league.

The Sox trimmed the Summerfield Chevrolet semi-pro team 14 to 6 in an exhibition game at Flint, Mich., yesterday. There were eight home runs, six of them by the Sox. Dykes, Chamberlin, Hayes, Boken, and Bonura all connected with homers for the benefit of 1,200 customers. Dykes made two.

Guy Bush to Seek 10th Win Against Cardinals Today

Guy Bush, who has nine games to his credit, will make a bid for his tenth of the season today in the second of the series with the Cardinals at Wrigley field. St. Louis' pitching probably will be taken care of by Tex Carleton, who hasn't had much luck with the Cubs this year. They've trimmed him three times.

Injuries made it necessary for two of the Cardinal regulars to remain on the bench. Pepper Martin, the third sacker, was incapacitated by a sore arm and Shortstop Leo Durocher by a lame heel.

When the Cubs departed from Pittsburgh Sunday evening Manager Grimm declared he would have himself back on first base for yesterday's performance. Yesterday he decided he had lumbago or something and remained in the dugout.

The Cubs will leave this evening on a flying trip to St. Louis. They'll battle the Cards there tomorrow in a double header. Then the Cubs will return to Wrigley field for single games Friday and Saturday and a double header on Sunday, all with the Pirates.

Among the 6,000 present yesterday were John Heydler, president of the National league, and Hank O'Day, retired National league umpire.

Brown Wrestles Murphy on Marigold Program

Jack Brown will wrestle John Murphy in a thirty minute semi-windup to the Bobby Wagner-Jackie Nichols match at the Marigold Gardens tomorrow night. Mike London meets Buck O'Neil in a 30 minute one fall match.

Cubs Defeat Cards, 7 to 4; Rout P. Dean

their first hit off Warneke. This was manufactured by Delancey, who lined a single to center. Crawford bounced to Billy Herman, who was in such a hurry to make some kind of a play that he fumbled. He made amends for this blunder by picking up Whitehead's roller and forcing Crawford at second. Billy also made a fast play on Dean's tricky grounder to conclude the inning.

Orsatti led off in the sixth with a single to center and it wasn't long before Warneke had trouble on his hands. Billy Herman fumbled again, this time on Rothrock's slow tap. Orsatti scored when Frisch singled to center. Cuyler took Medwick's long fly, a play on which Rothrock went to third and Frisch headed for second. Frisch failed to arrive, however. Just as he neared the base he ran into English, who was busy grabbing Cuyler's throw. Woody held the ball for a double play. Both fellows were shaken up by the collision, but continued to play. Collins then filed to Babe Herman.

Then Came the Storm.

The big storm in the seventh began with Hurst's single to right. Hack tried to sacrifice, but popped into Collins' hands. Warneke singled to center and so did Billy Herman, Hurst scoring. English filled the bases with a scratch hit to short. Then Klein caused all the rumpus with his pop up, which went up foul and came down on fair ground beyond the reach of Delancey.

Delancey picked up the ball and had ample time for a throw to force Warneke at the plate, but he pegged wild. The Cards promptly rushed forth to yell about the infield fly rule and quiet wasn't restored until the aforementioned banishments were decreed by Umpire Klem. When play was resumed Babe Herman singled to left, scoring W. Herman and English. Klein went to third on the hit and the Babe to second on the throw-in.

Paul Dean was promptly yanked in favor of Mooney, who handed Cuyler an intentional pass and nailed Hartnett and Hurst on fly balls to right. Hurst's drive came down just a few feet from the fence.

With one out in the eighth the Cubs put on their own little panic. Orsatti singled to center. Rothrock forced him and went to second when English threw wild trying to complete a double play. Durocher, who had succeeded Frisch, singled to right to score Rothrock. English erred on Medwick's grounder and Klein fumbled before finally recovering it. The two errors put Durocher on third and Medwick on second. Both scored when Collins doubled against the right field fence, after which Delancey popped out.

GIANTS' TWO BIG INNINGS DEFEAT BRAVES, 7 TO 4

Jackson Drives Out His 13th Homer.

Boston, Mass., July 2.—(AP)—The combination of 13 New York hits and uncertain support back of Bob Smith gave the Giants 7 to 4 decision over the Boston Braves today. The Giants bunched four hits, including Travis Jackson's 13th home run of the year, to score four runs in the seventh and break a 3 to 3 deadlock. The world champions counted their first three runs in the third, combining hits by Critz, O'Doul and Ott with an infield out and an error.

JOVIUS BOBS UP AS CONTENDER IN STARS—STRIPES

Swells Field for $10,000 Purse to Fifteen.

A new contender for the $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap to be run at Arlington Park tomorrow bobbed up yesterday when Jovius from the Belair Stud stable pulled in from New York.

His arrival indicated that the field for the holiday headliner will number at least 15 and possibly 17. The outstanding candidates are Ladysman, Indian Runner, Plucky Play, Barnswallow, Jovius, Clarity, Sazerac, Inlander, High Quest, Watch Him, Navonod, Evergold, Big Beau, Good Goods, Thomasville, Bien Fait, Advising Anna, and Frank Ormont.

Several of the candidates worked during the early hours yesterday morning. Bien Fait's move was the most impressive when he went a mile and a furlong in 1:50 3-5. The track record is 1:49 2-5. Ladysman breezed five furlongs in :59 2-5, just after daylight. He could have run faster. Indian Runner worked a mile in 1:38 and Evergold the same distance in 1:38 2-5.

Coming in from Detroit yesterday was W. J. Hirsch with a carload of horses, including Lord Atumn, Lackey, Roman Soldier, Lovito, Mid Victorian, Teetoum, Sassaby, Nocturnalabe and Gay Monarch. The latter, a candidate for the classic, finished second to Sea Fox in the Pingree handicap at Detroit Saturday. Max Hirsch is shipping two horses here from Belmont Park to join the stable.

Howard, which finished second in the Latonia Derby Saturday headed the six horses James W. Parrish sent here from Latonia over the week-end in charge of J. W. Goode. The others were New Deal, Jawapa, Scarp, Strickeen, and Newell. Each of the latter is eligible for the Arlington futurity.

Racing Secretary John B. Campbell has received word from New York that Thomas J. Healey will send C. V. Whitney's fleet filly, Motto, a daughter of Sir Gallahad III., here for the $35,000 Arlington Lassie stakes to be run Saturday. Belair Stud's Vicaress is another eastern filly coming for the Lassie.

STOCK CONTROL BOARD STARTS WORK BY CLASH

Kennedy Made Chief and Pecora Scowls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 2.—The five members of the newly created securities and exchange commission took office today already divided into two antagonistic camps.

Joseph P. Kennedy, the Wall street speculator who rode the market down and grew rich out of the depression, was elected chairman. His choice, dictated by President Roosevelt, caused a scowl to twist up the swarthy features of Ferdinand Pecora, the former assistant New York district attorney who acted as prosecutor for the senate stock exchange investigation and grew famous out of the publicity.

It took two hours and a half of torrid, shirt-sleeved argument before the feud between the two could be patched up sufficiently for the commission to gather in one room and take the oath.

Terms of Commissioners.

Chairman Kennedy's term will be five years; Pecora's one year. The other three commissioners are George C. Mathews, four years; James M. Landis, three years, and Robert E. Healy, two years. Until today all three were serving on the federal trade commission, Mathews and Landis as commissioners, and Healy as chief counsel.

If not pleasing to Pecora, Mr. Kennedy's selection as chairman pleased Wall street. Five months ago Pecora revealed before the senate investigating committee the inside workings of the Libby-Owen Securities corporation —one of the so-called alcohol pools— out of which a few insiders took a handsome profit of nearly $400,000 in the brief space of four months. Kennedy had a sixth interest in the pool, a type of operation which he is now sworn to prohibit under the new law.

Pecora arrived in Washington shortly after noon with his famous underlip sticking out truculently. He had previously announced that he wished to be chairman. As he entered the offices of Landis in the federal trade commission, where today's gathering was held, word went around that he would balk Kennedy's election as chairman or refuse to serve.

Pecora Growls, Kennedy Grumbles.

Pecora growled in one room. Mr. Kennedy grumbled in another. Landis bustled back and forth as go-between. It was finally thought safe to bring the two together. After two and a half hours all five new members sat down about the same table.

Kennedy announced, after some urging, that he had been chosen chairman for a year. Thereafter he had little chance to talk. Pecora did the talking. Landis, Mathews, and Healy lingered in the background, looking somewhat amused, somewhat amazed, somewhat disgruntled.

"The discussion was as to the general policies of the commission," proclaimed Pecora. He tried to look pleased, but did not succeed very well. Neither did Kennedy.

"I want," he went on, "to serve the entire year if possible. I want to render all the service possible. I have made a severe sacrifice for the last one and a half years, however, and I must be mindful of the claims of those near and dear to me."

But some one interrupted for the sixth time to inquire about the fight over the chairmanship. Pecora tried to grin denial and achieved a grimace.

"Just one of about a dozen things we discussed," put in Kennedy mildly.

"And it took about a dozen times as long to settle as the other eleven?" suggested a questioner.

No one issued a denial.

Deflation and Inflation Laws Make Money Puzzle Harder

BY HOWARD WOOD.

News of the signing of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium bill by the President yesterday, threw a chill into the financial and investment community.

This action by the President had not been anticipated. What the ultimate effect of the enactment of this law will be it is too early to discern. Significant, however, was a slump in the market prices of joint stock land bank bonds and federal land bank bonds. The new 10-12 year federal land bank 4s, which are not guaranteed by the federal government, dropped to a bid price of 99½, compared with a recent high of above 101.

Second and third grade railroad bonds likewise took a tumble on the news of the President's approval of the railroad pension bill.

The Frazier-Lemke act is the third piece of deflationary legislation that has puzzled the financial community. The others, also recently enacted, are the McKeown act, which liberalizes bankruptcy laws to facilitate scaling down creditors' claims and to preserve the debtor's equity, and the municipal bankruptcy act, which permits scale downs of municipal debts where two-thirds of the bondholders agree.

Business men and economists along La Salle street point out that the philosophy back of these three pieces of legislation is the philosophy of readjustment and recovery by deflationary means.

This, they point out, is a philosophy which was followed by the federal government from the crash of 1929 to the beginning of the New Deal, in March, 1933. The theory was that the way to correct situations where capital had been watered was to drain off the water, and that where a borrower was unable to repay his borrowing the property securing the debt should be foreclosed.

The philosophy of the New Deal, beginning with the abandonment of the gold standard and continuing with the Warren-Rogers experiments in "managed" currency and the reduction of the gold value of the dollar, was that bad debtor situations could best and most painlessly be corrected by a general all around raising of prices through currency devaluation.

The currency was officially devalued slightly more than 40 per cent, but prices failed to rise proportionately, as promised by Profs. Warren and Rogers. Consequently, the debtors, corporate, municipal, and farmer, demanded—and got—legislation based upon the deflationary or scaled down theory of debt adjustment.

The administration's return to the support of the deflationary type of debtor relief has led to the hope in some quarters that danger of further currency tinkering is past. That hope, however, appears to be entertained only by a small minority.

By far the greater part of the financial community is looking for further inflation, not in the immediate future, but some time before the end of 1935. Those who hold this view base their predictions upon the steady increase in the government's debt and the consequent artificial increase in bank deposits as banks continue to increase their holdings of government bonds.

Passage of the debt scale down bills through congress and their approval by the President is not considered by La Salle street as proof that inflation has been abandoned as a means of attempting to stimulate recovery. The same congress enacted the highly inflationary silver purchase law.

Steel Price Cut Is Extended to Shapes, Plates

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—The movement toward lower prices in the steel industry spread today from finished products used by the automobile industry to semi-finished steel products. Following the reduction last week in prices of steel bars and sheets, a cut of $1 a ton was posted today with the American Iron and Steel institute on structural shapes and plates, effective July 10. At the same time the institute announced production this week will fall to 23 per cent of capacity, a decline of 48½ per cent.

The new base prices for shapes and plates are $1.80 for 100 pounds at Pittsburgh and $1.85 at Chicago; plates at Gary, Ind., are $1.85. The new price for sheet bars is $28 a ton, while blooms, billets and slabs have been cut to $27. Long terne sheets will sell at $3.45 for 100 pounds. The new sheet bar prices apply at Chicago and Pittsburgh, and the changes on blooms, billets and slabs at these centers and at Gary, also.

Bars, Blooms, Billets Down $2.

Sheet bars, blooms, billets, and slabs have been reduced $2 a ton, and long terne sheets, No. 24 gauge, have been cut $4 a ton at Pittsburgh. New minimum base prices also have been filed on hot rolled carbon steel bars and small shapes at Gary and Chicago, and on two grades of hot rolled sheets [annealed and deoxidized] at Pittsburgh.

The production rate for the current week is the lowest since March, 1933, when the rate averaged 15.5 per cent for the month. Last year operations in July averaged 58.95 per cent of capacity, the highest rate in several years. The lowest rate for the depression was in August, 1932, when the average for the month was 14.5 per cent of capacity. The decline to 23 per cent from 56.1 per cent since the week of June 18 represents the sharpest decline in the history of the American steel industry.

Causes of Decline.

The decline was attributed largely to the fact that many mills remained closed this week because of the July 4 holiday. A continuation of the sharp curtailment in the buying noted a week or so ago when it became certain that there would be no general strike of employes was also a factor.

Consumers of steel had taken much more than their current requirements during the past several weeks, when it was expected that prices would be advanced after the expiration of second quarter contracts.

$12,000,000 Plant Expansion.

Detroit, Mich., July 2.—(AP)—An addition to the plant of the Great Lakes Steel corporation at Ecorse, to cost between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000, is contemplated by the company, to be ready for operation early next year.

The addition is to house a hot and cold strip mill of the continuous rolling process.

GRAINS DECLINE DESPITE BULLISH CROP REPORTS

Wheat Crop Is Set at 517,000,000 Bushels.

Issuance yesterday of extremely bullish crop estimates by private statisticians failed to awake grain markets from the lethargy in which they have rested so long. Prices ruled lower throughout the day with wheat losing more than 2 cents, corn a cent and a half, and oats nearly a cent.

Further deterioration from the widespread drouth was reported by the experts in wheat, which is expected to total 517,000,000 bushels Their opinion on the probable production of oats indicates a calamitous condition.

Average of the group shows a winter wheat output of 408,000,000 bushels, against 416,000,000 a month ago, the government's June estimate of 400,000,000, its July 1 total of 336,000,000 in 1933, and a final production of 351,000,000 last year. Figures for spring wheat are 109,000,000, against 125,000,000 a month ago, and 176,383,000 actual production last year. The figures include only four of the statisticians. Mrs. E. H. Miller will not issue her estimates until Thursday.

Corn Below Year Ago.

The corn crop is set at 2,334,000,000 bushels, practically the same as last year's final outturn, 50,000,000 below the July 1, 1933, estimate, and 250,000,000 under the ten year average. The yield of oats is expected to total 594,000,000 bushels, a loss of 185,000,000 from last month and the smallest since 1890. Rye is placed at 17,000,000 bushels, the lowest since 1875, while barley is expected to aggregate 139,000,000 bushels, establishing a nineteen year low.

Western Canadian crops fared far better than those of the United States. Wheat production in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta is estimated at 343,000,000 bushels, compared with a final yield last year of 251,000,000 bushels.

Action of the market yesterday was depressing. Failure of speculators to enthuse over the reports, hedging of new crop wheat moving to market and selling by local professionals who are quick to follow any trend, resulted in pronounced heaviness. The decline carried prices to a point where additional selling orders had been placed to protect profits or losses.

Rallies Short Lived.

Sporadic rallies occurred, but were short lived and most grains closed at or near their lowest levels for the day. Inauguration of trading in new style wheat, oats, rye and barley, occasioned by a change in grading requirements, added its burden. All holdings until yesterday had been in old style contracts and any offers to sell new style found few buyers. Thus these orders were sidetracked until prices of the old style options reached a level where buyers were willing to accept the new contract, keeping a certain amount of selling overhanging the market all day.

New wheat closed ⅞ to 2¼ cents lower and old wheat 2¼ to 2½ cents off, September deliveries in both classes ending at 88¼ cents.

Corn will not be affected by the grading change until September. It lost 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents on the day with September finishing at 59⅝ cents. Old oats sagged ⅝ to ¾ cent and new ¾ to ⅞ cent, with both September options at 43½ cents. New rye was down 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents and old 1⅛ to 2⅛ cents, while old barley eased ¾ cent and new 1 cent to 52 and 52¼ cents, respectively. Liverpool closed ¼ to ⅝ cent under Saturday's finish. The Winnipeg market remained closed in observance of Dominion day.

Bank Deposits Continue Rise as Loans Lag

Idle funds on deposit with federal reserve member banks increased sharply last week, a practice which has continued for months with only few exceptions. Deposits soared, but employment of the money in loans and investments lagged far behind.

Gross deposits of the banks in 91 leading cities of the country, as of June 27, advanced 157 million dollars, the reserve system reported yesterday. Gains of 102 millions were attained in New York, 12 million here and 43 million elsewhere.

Individual deposits increased 155 millions, New York supplying 103 millions, Chicago 14 and the interior 38. Deposits of nonmember banks dropped a million dollars in the eastern center and 2 millions here, but moved 8 millions higher elsewhere, a net improvement of 5 million.

Government deposits were unchanged in Chicago and New York and down 3 millions in the interior. At the same time Chicago bolstered its holdings of federal securities 17 millions, New York 53 millions and the interior 13 millions, a new peak of 6 billions 665 millions.

Total loans and investments gained 74 millions, accounted for by increases of 19 millions in the interior, 1 million here and 54 millions in New York.

Business loans expanded 4 millions in New York and 12 millions elsewhere, but a contraction of 15 millions here cut the net upturn to 1 million.

Loans on securities were lowered all along the line with New York reducing its advances 30 millions, Chicago 4 millions and the interior 8 millions, a total drop of 42 millions.

COOK COUNTY'S AUTO SALES FAR ABOVE YEAR AGO

Ford Leads in June with 1,618 Units.

June automobile sales in Cook county not only ran almost 45 per cent ahead of the record for June, 1933, but showed a slight gain over the preceding month, contrary to seasonal indications. Figures issued last night by R. L. Polk & Co. showed a total of 6,431 new car registrations last month, as compared with 4,444 during June of last year and 6,292 this May.

While Ford remained in the lead wth 1,618 sales, more than three times that of the same period last year, the figure was lower than the 1,891 reported in May.

Chevrolet Gain Over May Largest.

Chevrolet showed the largest gain over May in numbers from 1,189 to 1,473. Buick registered the greatest percentage boost, jumping from 258 in May to 447 last month. This enabled Buick to rise from seventh to fourth place, just behind Plymouth. The Chrysler unit showed 871 sales, approximately the same as May and somewhat more than during June of last year.

Pontiac moved from sixth to fifth, while Oldsmobile dropped from fourth to seventh. Dodge slipped a notch from fifth to sixth. Studebaker, though remaining in eighth place, boosted sales to 159 units, against 111 in May.

Comparative Monthly Figures.

STOCKS ARE DULL AS U. S. CONTROL GOES INTO EFFECT

Signing of Pension Law Hits Rail Shares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—Lethargy, excepting in rails, characterized the first day's operation of the stock exchange under the new federal regulation law. Volume showed a decline, with a total of 411,730 shares changing hands.

In what trading there was, price tendency was distinctly downward. Leaders in several groups slid off from one to four points. While the rail stocks were affected severely by the signing of the expensive railroad pension bill by President Roosevelt, local business prospects and international troubles, featured by the Hitler rampage in Germany, brought about a general setback in prices.

Weakness in Carriers.

In the carrier section, where the greatest weakness developed, Union Pacific tumbled more than three points. Santa Fe was down two and New York Central almost as much. Losses of one point and more were common. The feeling seemed to be that the railroads were in for expenditures exceeding $25,000,000 under the pension law. The hope had existed in some quarters that the President would veto the bill, and the approval of the measure brought keen disappointment to operators.

Industrials staggered in a thin market, du Pont being off more than two points before any transaction was recorded. American Can was another weak spot. Chrysler, Can, Smelting, and U. S. Steel all felt the need of a stimulus, which was wholly lacking.

Oils could not press forward despite reports that a pooling agreement is near in the East Texas field. Standard of New Jersey, like others, failed to get under headway.

Interest Centers on Kennedy.

Talk in Wall Street, outside of the German situation and the rail pension law, centered on the personnel of the stock market control board. The stalling of Joseph P. Kennedy for chairman was considered favorable news, as Kennedy is classed as a conservative.

Market operators failed to see any tangible ray of hope in any of the day's visible signs. The pressure on stocks extended to all commodities, with wheat, corn, cotton, and silver all showing losses. Even the metals and sugars, which have held up recently, felt the despondency in speculative circles and declined.

ROADS REPORT BRISK ADVANCES IN CAR LOADINGS

Leading railroads report that carloadings for last week showed gains over the preceding week and were well ahead of the 1933 period. One road reached the highest level of loadings in 20 months, and another line reported the heaviest week since the beginning of the year.

The North Western reported the heaviest carloading week for the year, with 28,022 cars, including ore loadings. During the preceding week there were 26,494 cars and during the corresponding week of last year 25,473 cars. Excluding ore loadings, the total for last week was 24,668 cars. Loadings for the month of June were the heaviest of the year at 114,735 cars, compared with 101,905 in June, 1933.

Santa Fe loadings amounted to 29,706 cars, compared with 28,985 in the preceding week and 24,384 in the corresponding week of 1933. Last week's total was the highest level reached in 20 months.

Loadings for the Chesapeake & Ohio reached 32,689 cars last week, against 30,457 the preceding week and 30,987 in the corresponding week of last year.

The Milwaukee's loadings for June amounted to 104,036 cars, compared with 100,763 in May and 104,955 in June of last year. For the first six months the total reached 594,464, against 535,267 in the 1933 period.

ALL LIVE STOCK SELLS LOWER ON INCREASED RUNS

Too Many of Unfinished Classes Arrive.

All live stock suffered a setback in prices yesterday when the movement of supplies increased. Unfinished light cattle and hogs predominated in the receipts, and these were discounted sharply. Packers are watching this new increase in movement of "drouth stock" with some concern.

Selling of unfinished live stock was more in evidence in the cattle market than in hogs, although in the last few days there has been a heavier supply of the lights needing longer feed, which made up such a big share of the receipts several weeks ago when a selling wave swept almost the entire country because of the water and feed situation.

Cattle Supply Heavy.

Drouth supplies totaled about 7,500 cattle and 4,500 calves. Even after the government owned cattle were deducted from the receipts there still remained 17,000 of all classes on the market which had been shipped by farmers. The clearance was poorer than usual for the regular commercial cattle, and a fairly large holdover resulted.

Packers bought at weak to 25 cents lower prices, paying over $9.25 for a comparatively small share of the supply. Only a small offering of weighty beef steers commanded quotations above $9.50. The peak for the day was $10.15. Most of the steers in the receipts sold within a range of $5.50 to $9, although a fair showing of inferior classes ranged downward from $4, a few of the poorest going as low as $2.50.

Hogs Under Last Friday.

Hogs were 5 to 15 cents under last Friday, the last day on which a comparable list of quotations was made. Saturday's trade ended in a deadlock, and not enough sales were made on the week-end session to justify a list of quotations, but sellers found in most instances that yesterday's prices were slightly better than the bids were on Saturday. The top for the day at $4.90 stood 10 cents higher than the Saturday top and 15 cents lower than last Friday. The general average at $4.55 compared with $4.65 Friday.

Lamb prices were pounded down 25 cents more to some of the lowest price levels of the year. City butchers hand picked the native new crop lambs up to $8.50, while packers bought to $8.25 and under. A string of 1,123 Idaho range lambs averaging 79½ pounds, the first here from the range in two weeks, sold to packers at $8.40.

HARLEY CLARKE IS QUESTIONED ON LACLEDE GAS

The relations of the Utilities Power and Light corporation and its president, Harley L. Clarke, with the Laclede Gas Light company, a subsidiary, were the subject of the depositions taken yesterday by Attorneys Ernest A. Green and John R. Green, representing J. W. Zeller, a holder of $4,000 of Laclede Gas Light bonds.

The quasi-judicial proceeding was held behind closed doors at the insistent demand of Robert Wilson, counsel for Laclede. Much of it centered about the receivership petition filed by Attorneys Green & Green over Zeller's $4,000 of bonds, which were not met at maturity, April 1, 1934.

The corporation has requested bondholders to postpone maturity date of the $10,000,000 5 per cent issue to April 1, 1939.

One of the specific points on which Clarke was questioned was whether the gas company gave bonuses to a few bondholders to induce deposits.

Ernest Green, after the questioning, said that Mr. Clarke had answered all questions fully. The deposition will be on file in the United States District court of St. Louis, Division 1, for public inspection either Thursday or Friday.

JEWEL TEA COMPANY AND KROGER GROCERY HAVE EARNINGS GAINS

Substantial gains in sales during the first 24 weeks of the year over the 1933 period were reported yesterday by Jewel Tea company and the Kroger Grocery and Baking company. The increase for the Jewel company was 19.49 per cent, while that of the Kroger company was 10.3 per cent. Sales of the Jewel company for the four weeks ended June 16 showed an improvement of 18.07 per cent.

The dollar volume of the sales for the 24 weeks was $7,634,692 for the Jewel company, and $101,456,701 for the Kroger company. The figures for the 1933 period were $6,389,308 for the former, and $91,997,868 for the latter. Sales of the Jewel company for the four week period this year were $1,265,347, compared with $1,071,700 for the corresponding period in 1933.

Earnings of the Kroger company for the 24 weeks amounted to $2,285,520, a decrease of $9,274 from the $2,294,794 in the 1933 period. This was at the rate of $1.27 a share for the 1934 period, compared with $1.25 for the 1933 period. Net working capital for this year amounted to $24,719,955, an increase of 11,233,288 over the $23,486,666 reported on June 17, 1933. It is stated that wage increases due to the NRA and kindred factors have taken approximately $1.17 per share of earnings for the first 24 weeks of this year.

The average number of stores in operation by the Kroger company during this year was 4,565, compared with 4,673 last year. The average number of Jewel units in operation was 1,500 this year, against 1,430 in 1933.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 2.—Generally lower prices characterized the listed bond market today in total trading of $11,493,400, of which United States government bonds, which closed down 16-32d's to up 2-32d's point, accounted for $3,395,400. Domestic corporation bonds were lower, as were most of the foreign issues, with German loans showing the most pronounced weaknesses.

The setbacks in the German loans, which were affected by the news from overseas, ranged from small fractions to a maximum of 2⅞ points on the Young Plan 7s, which closed at a new low of 34½. The Dawes Plan 7s touched a new low of 47¼, closing at 48, off 1⅞ points on the day. French government, United Kingdom and most of the Scandinavian loans were steady, showing fractional variations. Latin American issues were steady.

Rail Liens Decline.

The principal declines in the domestic corporation list occurred in railroad liens, particularly the more speculative issues. These losses ranged up to 5 points. Bonds of the Denver and Rio Grande Western were especially weak on the news over the week-end that directors of the road have voted to defer the interest due at this time on certain of its issues. Industrial bonds generally held up better than did the utilities.

Despite the generally lower trend, several bonds edged up fractionally to new highs for the last year or longer. Among these were American Telephone debenture 5½s, Bethlehem Steel 5s, Brooklyn Union Gas 5s, Burlington 4½s and 5s, Goodyear 5s, K. C. Terminal 4s, Long Island Uniform 4s, Lorillard debenture 5s and 7s, National Steel 5s, New Jersey Power 4½s, Pennsylvania Consolidated 4s, Philadelphia Co. 5s, and Pittsburgh Y. & A. 5s.

German Loans Weak.

Both domestic and foreign bonds on the Curb exchange were irregularly lower, with German loans the weakest of the latter group.

In the over-the-counter market, Federal Land bank issues were lower, the new 4s dropping below par against the recent offering price of 100¾.

Prudential Life Insurance.

Investors' Guide: I contemplate buying a fair sized policy and inquire of you for information concerning Prudential Life Insurance company.—Mrs. V. J.

Answer: Prudential Insurance Company of America, second largest American life insurance company, was originally established in 1873.

The company has a substantial amount of industrial insurance in force, 6,803 million dollars at the close of 1933. Total amount of insurance in force, industrial and ordinary, aggregated 15,030 million dollars, a decline of less than two per cent from the year before.

Assets during 1933 increased more than $61,000,000 to a new high of 2,825 million dollars. Real estate investments totaling $147,205,000, including home office building, carried at $17,312,000, accounted for five per cent of admitted assets; mortgage loans were 36 per cent; policy loans, 10 per cent; bonds [amortized values], 40 per cent; stocks, 2 per cent, and cash, 1 per cent. Cash and obligations of United States and Canadian government bodies alone totaled $432,898,000.

In 1933 income was $685,740,000 and disbursements were $611,077,000. The company earned 4.2 per cent on its assets, against 4.6 per cent in 1932 and 4.9 per cent in 1931.

After setting up a special contingency reserve of $32,000,000 for fluctuations in security values, net surplus to policy holders was $136,679,000.

Philippine Railway.

Investors' Guide: I am interested in Philippine Railway bonds bearing 4 per cent. Will you tell me whether it is true that the United States government has guaranteed the interest and principal?—Miss H. L. M.

Answer: No. Interest and principal on these bonds are not guaranteed by the United States government. Interest is guaranteed by the government of the Philippine islands, but bondholders will have to look solely to the railway for payment of principal.

It does not seem probable that the corporation will be able to pay off the principal out of its own funds. Current assets at the close of 1933 totaled $274,000 and current liabilities were $53,000. Funded debt, including advances by the Philippine government, aggregated $14,212,000.

The company has failed to cover more than two-thirds of its bond interest in any one year of the 11 through 1933.

The bonds are a speculation. They mature July 1, 1937.

Public Service of Colorado.

Investors' Guide: What is the rating of Public Service Company of Colorado 6s, due 1951?—Miss C. R.

Answer: The bonds are a business man's investment.
